Thompson-Wiebes Nuptials

A very pretty wedding was quietly solemnized on the evening of June 28th, at the home of Mrs. C. W. Thompson, Stirling, when the Rev. R. W. Barker united in marriage Vieska Wiebes, of Rotterdam, Holland, to James Thompson, Stirling, Ontario.

The bride was becomingly gowned in an ice blue floor length gown of georgette with deep blue lace inserts. She wore a beautiful gold brooch, an heirloom of her family, and a corsage of variegated pink carnations and fern.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Robt. Williams and during the signing of the register, Mr. William Reynolds, accompanied by Mrs. Williams rendered a beautiful solo.

Following the ceremony a reception was held when the groom's mother received in a printed lavender dress, with white accessories. Mrs. Thompson wore a corsage of red lilies.

During the reception Mr. Hoctor Whitton proposed a toast to the bride and groom welcoming her to Canada and wishing them both happiness.

Farewell For S.S. Members

On Monday evening, June 30th, several members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School gathered in the church parlors to bid farewell to two of its popular and faithful members, Miss Jean McIntosh and Mr. Jack Hermiston, who are leaving the fold and beginning new lives for themselves away from home. A short impromptu programme of readings and musical numbers was given. Mr. Harper Rollins, former Superintendent of St. Andrew's, in a few well-chosen words presented Jean and Jack each with a pen and pencil set. Jean and Jack replied very graciously. Several members made short speeches of regret at losing them from the church and Sunday school and also of best wishes for their future. A delicious lunch and social time together brought to a close a very memorable evening.

Teacher Honoured

On Tuesday evening, June 24th, the pupils and their parents of S.S. No. 11 Rawdon gathered at the school house to spend a social evening with their teacher, Miss Eunice Davis, before her departure from their midst.

Sidney Establishes School Area

At a special meeting held in Wallbridge on Friday, June 27th, the Sidney Township Council passed a by-law putting all the schools except one into one School Area consisting of the following school section: 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10, 13, 16, 19, 20, 22, 24. This action on the Council came as a result of a meeting of all the trustees in the township held Friday, June 27, at which the trustees voted in favour of the large unit. By actual count two sections favoured two Areas in Sidney, three wanted three School Areas but eight voted in favour of one large School Area and the Council accordingly passed the by-law. This School Area which will be one of the largest in eastern Ontario will involve 14 school sections with 18 teachers and 507 pupils.

Orange Lodges Attend St. Paul's

Over 100 Members of Order In Parade Headed by The Stirling Citizens' Band

About one hundred members of L. O. L. No. 110, L.O.B.A. No. 665 and visiting brethren attended Divine Service in St. Paul's United Church, at 11 a.m. on Sunday last. The parade from the lodgeroom was headed by Stirling Citizens' Band and was marshalled by Edward Eaton. Visitors were present from Belleville, Trenton, Marmora, Frankford, Springbrook, Wellmans, Tanner's, West Huntingdon and Beulah lodges.

Special music for the occasion included a solo, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings," by Mrs. Harold West, and an Anthem, "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord," by the choir.

Rev. Mr. Barker took as his text, Romans 1: 17, the words which so moved Martin Luther that out of that experience emerged the Protestant Reformation. He pointed out that it is well on occasion to take stock of our Protestant heritage, to ask why Protestantism came into being what it has accomplished, and what can be expected of it today. With this in mind, Mr. Barker proceeded to consider what Protestantism believes and the implications of our Protestant faith. The main points of Protestant belief are the immediacy of man's relationship with God and the priesthood of all believers. These accompanied the shift of emphasis from the authority of the Church to that of the Scriptures. Protestantism also stands for religious freedom and is the bulwark of democracy. If democracy falls in the western world it will be because the Protestants do not care. There is the danger that Protestants may sanction the very evils which in the Church of Rome led to the Reformation. It is unfortunate that the word "protest" from which Protestantism is generally used today in the negative sense. Originally it meant "to give a solemn affirmation" and this is still given as its primary meaning in Webster's Dictionary. In Protestantism we have something to work for. Let us never forget it.

Oddfellows Hold Decoration Day

Stirling cemetery was a profusion of blooms on Sunday afternoon as Stirling Oddfellows paid their annual floral tribute to those of their number who have finished their work on earth. One of the hottest days of the year saw a goodly number of Oddfellows march from the lodgeroom on Front St. to the cemetery behind the Stirling Citizens' Band. Bro. R. E. Fox and E. Carlisle acted as Marshals. A brief stop was made at the Cenotaph, where Bros. X. P. Mayhew and Wm. Reynolds placed a wreath, in honour of those who lost their lives in the two great wars, followed by a moment's silence.

On their arrival at the cemetery, the brethren were greeted by a large number of citizens of Stirling and the surrounding district, who had gathered to witness the impressive ceremony. A circle was formed around a flag and as the name of each departed brother was read by Bro. E. Carlisle, a member stepped from the circle and deposited his bouquet of flowers at the base of the flag. At the conclusion of this part of the ceremony, the flowers were placed on the individual graves.

The decoration charge was given by Clayton Burditt, P.D.D.G.M., and Bro. Geo. Weaver as chaplain.

Bride and Groom Honoured

On Friday night, June 20th, 1947 many friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bronson, Madoc, to honour their son on his recent marriage.

The evening was spent in dancing. The following address was read by Mrs. Carl Spry after which the bride and groom fittingly replied:

Dear Marion and Bob:—

We, your friends and neighbours have gathered here this evening to avail ourselves of the opportunity of extending to you our heartiest congratulations on your marriage and our deepest wish for a long and happy wedded life.

For some months past a little couple car Has steered its course by a western star.

The object of these trips we were slow to see But, now it's as plain as A.B.C.

Sure and the sunshine of Marion's smile Was the magnet that drew Bob mile after mile

If he hurried the chores 'twas certain a date With Marion and rarely he ever went late.

June the 7th, on a Saturday morn They were feeling real happy 'cause it didn't storm.

Then just about noon we saw that coupe car And wondered why so soon 'cause Bob usually waited till after dark.

Then went to woo and to spark.

Reverend Christensen read from the sacred page Rules that will guide them to a happy old age

Old fashioned vows to love, honor and obey, After legal response he said, "Let us Pray".

Then they started the journey to Niagara Falls Laden with best wishes from one and all.

Learning from James their return was in sight We scurried around for the shower to-night.

Of your kind hospitality we've oft partaken We ask that to-night we may not be mistaken.

May the gift we now offer of our wishes sincere Help to remind you year after year.

To our hearts and our homes a welcome we extend May we ever be remembered among your friends

And as the years pass may our friendship prove true For the good of ourselves community and you.

The marriage vows are sacred vows Your hearts with joy doth bind, And as each anniversary comes Your lives be more entwined.

To you how bright the future looms What prospects are in view And may they all be realized Is our best wish to you

Your home should ever be to you The dearest spot on earth

May cares pass lightly o'er and leave A cheerful fireside hearth.

We wish you every happiness In this your wedded life And may your days be full of bliss As husband and as wife.

May these varied gifts ever serve to remind you of this settlement.

Signed on behalf of the community: Harold McCann, Blake Wellman, Don Bronson, Charles Lindale, Mrs. Carl Spry.

It's noticeable how the times have changed, have changed with every year, and with their changing we have lost, no greater loss, I fear, than how we welcomed in July, that day of fun and joy, yes, we were wont to celebrate, when I was just a boy.

big day of the year, the village streets all jammed with folks who came from far and near, the village band heads for the grounds, excitement rears its head, when tall and young and able men lined up to play lacrosse.

But now Dominion Day arrives, we never congregate, lacrosse is seldom seen at all, else a briefer state, no line-up at the Minto House to quench a burning thirst, Dominion Day is now my friend, a mere July the first.

Unless his neighbours and his municipality co-operate, all too often the man who tackles his own dandelions and plantains fights a losing battle. The spraying and weeding must be done over and over again.

Biggest delinquent in this fight against weeds is the municipality. Citizens are exhorted to clean up their own backyards while weeds thrive along the streets and in every vacant lot.

ON PAINTING BARN

Peterborough Examiner

We are not sure that we care to see a great many more painted barns. Not, at least, until more farmers see for themselves where they can make real improvements. A badly painted barn is like a badly painted woman: neither of them adds to the attractiveness of their surroundings. Repairs are more important, and we doubt very much whether an edifice without leaks will crumble more quickly than those that are thinly coated with paint.

Our climate is cold. Barns without proper ventilation sweat badly here in winter. As a result, paint often peels off in one season, and without it the natural pores left open preserve the wood as much as paint would prevent erosion. A well-painted barn here requires sound thinking as well as money and sense of beauty.

The old handicapper was sitting in the grandstand feeling terrible. For weeks he had not had a winner, although he worked day after day, as he had done for thirty years, figuring out the horses in his intricate mathematical method. Right next to him was that well-known character, the casual stranger, who was winning every race.

"Say stranger," said the old handicapper. "I have been figuring horses for thirty years and I can't even come close. You are winning race after race. Would you mind telling me how you do it?"

"Oh, you are probably one of those mathematical wizards," said the casual stranger with scorn. "You think in figures. You're crazy."

"Okay, I'm crazy. What do you do?" asked the old handicapper.

"Well, look out on the track. The horses are coming out," he exclaimed.

"See number 2? He looks good. "See number 4? He looks good. Okay. I just add 3 and 4 and that's 6—and number 6 wins."

"But pardon me, stranger," replied the handicapper, "4 and 3 are 7—not 6."

"There you go," shouted the casual stranger. "There you go with those darn figures again."

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

FIELD CROP SEEDS OUTLOOK IN EUROPE

Since the close of the war there had been a strong market for practically all forage crop seeds, and export demand had been keen due to the urgent need for substantial quantities in the United Kingdom and Western European countries, and the opportunity to export to the United States at attractive prices, said Nelson Young, Associate Director, Production Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, in an address to the Canadian Seed Growers' Association at its annual meeting held recently at Macdonald College, P.Q.

In considering the future, he said, it was necessary to know what information he had with respect to the re-establishment of the seed production and distribution industry in certain areas in other countries. In the United States, in vegetable seed production there would probably be only a normal surplus above the domestic consumption. The forage crop prospect would indicate maintenance of production at its 1946 level. The production of oil-bearing seeds was being given particular encouragement.

In Europe during the past season, conditions had been severe. In Britain, most of the biennial root crop had been damaged, and it was believed that there would be a shortage because it took at least a year to replace the stockings that had been lost.

Most European countries that had had surplus quantities in 1946 would likely have a very low production in 1947. Frost damage in the Netherlands, Sweden, and Denmark, with heavy winter killing in the Low Countries, Czechoslovakia and adjacent areas, had depleted supplies to a point where a surplus of many kinds could not be expected for at least a year. In Hungary, where large quantities of vegetable, forage, and field root seeds were produced, some damage was reported and prospects at the moment were not above average. No definite information was at hand about conditions in other European countries.

It would seem that in Europe most kinds of garden and forage crop seeds would be below the 1948 requirements. That was particularly true of biennials. Of course, there would be some kinds in long supply, as indicated by offerings to Canadian trade by European exporters, but, admittedly, it was too early to judge the final production of the European countries.

BETTER BE SURE ABOUT CLOTHES MOTH

Spring cleaning has been completed in many homes and winter garments have been stored away for the season. The housewife may feel that once she has sprayed garments or bedding with DDT, or has brushed them and sifted naphthalene flakes or paradichlorobenzene crystals among them that she has won the war against moths. But she hasn't.

According to entomologists of the Dominion Department of Agriculture one of the worst breeding places of moths is often overlooked. If there is a hot air furnace, there are probably whole colonies of moths in its cool air pipes. In these pipes moths feed and flourish on the accumulation of lint. A vacuum cleaner with a long extension will remove the lint easily, otherwise, a long-handled broom or brush will serve.

Garments and heavy bedding may be stored as safely as possible, but other fabrics in the home may still be attacked by moths. Chair covers, upholstery, and bedding will be subject to attack all summer unless the moths still at large are eradicated. And those woolen garments or fabrics containing wool, or feather pillows or furs which have been discarded are another breeding place for moths. If, unstored and unprotected against moths, they are left lying about in the attic and quickly become a source of infestation.

Housewives are advised either to get rid of these discarded fabrics or to store them with the same protection given to new garments. For there is no real safety until the last moth has been driven from the home.

A MESSAGE TO ONTARIO'S PARENTS FROM THE MINISTER OF HIGHWAYS

In a message directed to Ontario's parents, the Hon. George A. Doucett, Minister of Highways today made an urgent appeal for better home-instruction this summer in the safety habits of their children.

"Our schools are now closing for the summer vacation," Mr. Doucett said, "and in their scores of thousands our children will commence their long-awaited Summer Holidays. These boys and girls have been counting the hours against the time when examinations would be over, when books could be laid aside, and when they would begin happy weeks of fun and freedom, away from the grind of the classroom.

"For grownups and for children alike, there is no better vacation spot on earth than this great Province of Ontario. In the country our youngsters will find themselves busy about the farms, with task suited to their age and strength intermixed with their play. From the towns and cities children will head for camps and summer cottages throughout our splendid vacation playgrounds. But for thousands of children, vacation means play in back yards, in crowded playgrounds and on the streets where traffic is a danger to young and old.

"It is a sober and a saddening thought to know that at least some of these healthy happy children will not answer to the call when school re-opens in the fall. Our records show, unhappily, that vacation days bring an added accident toll, with an undue increase in the number of child victims.

"At this time, I particularly appeal to parents to guide and instruct their children in safe habits, as to both walking and playing. I urge our motorists to drive with the utmost care. I ask them to slow down and to use special care in driving through built-up areas, always with the thought that a child may rush heedlessly into danger.

"Our traffic laws are the best we can devise. Recent amendments, effective on July 1st, impose new and heavy responsibilities on our motorists. We are grateful to the press, the radio, and to many organizations that are loyally supporting our campaign for highway traffic safety. But we need the help of all our people and our motorists in particular, in preventing a heavy accident toll.

"I cannot urge, too strongly, the parents, the children and our motorists, toward making the coming weeks a safe holiday season. 'Care, Courtesy and Common Sense' will save lives and ensure a happier holiday."

WARN PRODUCERS TO KEEP HOGS

From a senior official of the Agriculture Department today comes a warning to hog producers in Eastern Canada to refrain from "hasty liquidation" of their breeding stock.

Dr. G. S. H. Barton deputy minister of agriculture said fears of a feed shortage this year should be allayed by improvements in the crop prospects of Western Canada. Heavy rains in the principle coarse grain growing areas of the prairies had "almost certainly" assured production of at least an average yield of feed grains.

"It is a mistake to imagine that the late seeding in Eastern Canada will result in crop failure," Dr. Barton said. "While seeding has been seriously delayed this year, it is well to remember that in even the worst since 1907, the yield of oats and barley in Ontario has never fallen below two-third of average."

EFFECTIVE SPRAY

Ordinary tractor disillate has been found to be the cheapest and an effective spray material for the control of weeds in carrots in experiments carried out by the Dominion Experimental Station, Morden, Manitoba.

RYE IN ROTATION

Fall rye is a valuable crop to precede flue-cured tobacco in the rotation, particularly where the mature rye straw is disked into the soil. According to the experiments carried out at the Dominion Experimental Sub-Station at Delhi, Ont., fall wheat is similar to fall rye in some respects but it has not proved so effective in the flue-cured tobacco rotation.

CONTROL OF FUNDS

It must be explained, in the light of whispered criticisms heard lately in the rights given to Canadian insurance companies authorizing them to invest in securities of the International Bank of Reconstruction and Development, that the legislation of the Canadian Government does not in any way override the control of capital movements or foreign investments by Canadians under the Foreign Exchange Control Regulations. This means that insurance companies having funds in the United States may invest such funds in securities of this International Bank but, if a company wishes to transfer funds from Canada to purchase such securities, it would still need to get a permit from the Foreign Exchange Board. Under the present circumstances, such sales of United States funds for capital transactions of this kind could not be permitted in Canada, according to information in Ottawa.

EMERGENCY POWERS

"We are taking that emergency power in respect of coal for the reason that the coal situation is not within the jurisdiction of Canada by itself," said Reconstruction Minister Howe in the House of Commons dealing with a law for "regulating and controlling production, distribution and use of coal" in the Dominion Coal Board. "A large proportion of the coal Canada uses must be imported from outside this country. The same applies to fuel oil. Therefore, I must suggest an amendment to the section which would give the Government the same emergency powers in the matter of fuel oil that it is taking in the matter of coal. In other words, if a situation should arise where suffering would result because of Canada's not obtaining sufficient fuel oil or because of an improper distribution of fuel oil, emergency powers could be involved under the bill as they can be in respect of coal."

RUSSELL—MILLS NUPTIALS

White peonies and blue delphinium decorated St. John's United Church, Campbellford, on Tuesday, July 1st, for the marriage of Marjorie Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Delmer Mills, to Earl Stuart Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell, White Rock, B.C. Rev. G. N. Maxwell conducted the ceremony. Mr. Charles Allen, of Peterborough, played the wedding music and Mrs. Allan Watson sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of gardenia white nylon marquisette fashioned with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with finely pleated rouching. Her bodice was of Victorian style and her full bouffant skirt ended in a long graceful train. Her full length veil was caught by a Mary Queen of Scots headdress. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses and cornflowers. The three attendants, Ellenor Allan and Marion Rowe, of Campbellford, and Mrs. Bernard Burgess, of Montreal, were attractively dressed in cherry organza, styled with bertha neckline, tightly moulded bodices and full skirts and carried cascades of powder blue delphinium and white cornflowers.

Mr. Bruce Pierce, of Toronto, was best man and Mr. Bernard Burgess, of Montreal and Mr. Donald Ball, of Burlington, were ushers.

After a reception at Woodlawn the bride and groom left for a short honeymoon in the Kawartha Lakes District. —Campbellford Herald.

St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid

Mrs. Harper Rollins was hostess to the members of St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid on Thursday last.

The president, Mrs. Ken Ray presided during the devotional exercises. Mrs. Munro read the Scripture Lesson and led in prayer. Following the business discussions pertaining to decorating of the church. Mrs. Norman Ray read the minutes of the last meeting. Members answered the roll call by telling how many calls each had made during the month, to shut in members.

Mrs. Munro introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Helliwell who spoke of her trip through the States to Arizona, this spring. Vivid word descriptions and coloured pictures made the journey very real. To anyone interested in travelling, Mrs. Helliwell made one feel Arizona would be a grand state to visit. Another highlight mentioned was the nurseries at Springfield where there are seventy acres of peonies and thousands of roses.

Following the address, Mrs. Rollins thanked Mrs. Helliwell for her educational and interesting description of her trip. A solo "The Old Refrain", was rendered by Mrs. Roy Eggleton, accompanied by Mrs. Tummson.

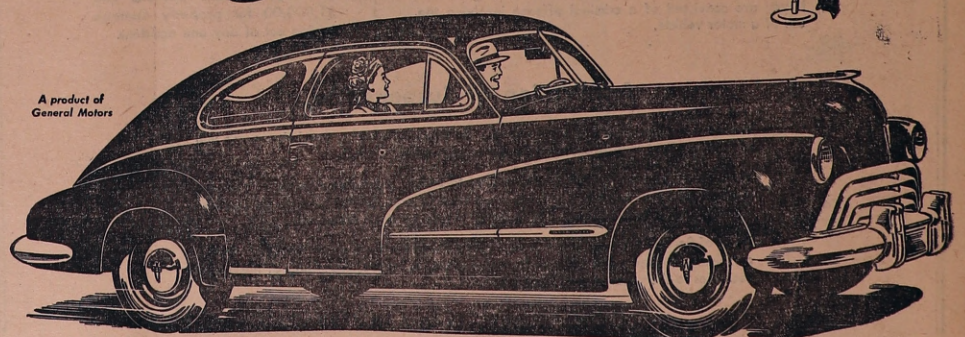

Miss Gena Spry moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Rollins for the use of her home and to the committee—Mrs. S. McIntosh, Mrs. L. Munro, Mrs. J. Campbell who assisted in preparing the programme and lovely lunch.

IT'S THE HEAT, TOO

The drive to attain prorogation of Parliament as soon as possible in July it can be suggested, was accelerated in no small measure to the excessive heat which has come to this nation's capital as the temperature reached 90 degrees on certain days and an already overworked legislative membership has had to carry on under most uncomfortable conditions.

TRANSPORTATION IS IMPORTANT

With larger quantities of feed grain required to be shipped from west to east on account of the conditions in eastern sections of Canada this year, it is hinted here that transportation facilities may be the question which will have to be answered before eastern Canada's feed grain problem can be solved satisfactorily, particularly since the shipment of grain for overseas is also considered to be of prime importance.

BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

The talks which have been taking place behind closed doors between the delegates from Newfoundland and Canadian representatives in Ottawa have been giving deservedly wide publicity but it must be emphasized strongly that these are only discussions in order to find possible ways and means for an equitable basis of federal union. It is not, however, a meeting which can make decisions. This is important in view of the decisive meaning attached to these discussions by the general public. In reality, it is pointed out here by high officials that the national convention of Newfoundland itself is empowered merely to make recommendations to the United Government though the people of Newfoundland will eventually decide their future form of government. In other words, the talks in Ottawa are more in the nature of an inquiry than a gathering to make a final decision, with the final decision on the part of Canada being taken only after Parliament has given its approval and with Section 146 of the British North America Act providing the procedure for admitting Newfoundland into the union, if this should come about.

SAID IN THE CAPITAL

"The atomic bomb will settle nothing," said Premier Mackenzie King, "It can mean the end of everything." "The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada much prefers to operate through negotiation and arbitration than by the strike method," declared Percy Bengough, president, Trades and Labor Congress, commenting on the Government's new labor code.

"Each section of Canada has its own coal problem, differing from that of other sections," emphasized Reconstruction Minister Howe in the House of Commons.

"Liberty subject to law has ever been in a special manner the inspiring ideal of English-speaking peoples which has directed their political developments," said Cardinal McGuigan.

"Deaths from level crossing accidents are one of our greatest scandals," remarked Rodney Adamson, M.P., demanding that the Government should vote a larger amount to the elimination of level crossings.

"We have the Communist influence on one side and the British Commonwealth has always stood against that influence and protected us," commented Bishop Fernandez, of Bangalore, India, during his stay in Ottawa.

"We have designed a small but very well trained air force that can be rapidly extended if ever required," declared Air Commodore Gordon Kerr discussing postwar plans during an address in the capital.

"There are already signs that the north and south will come together into one country and do away with partition," stated Most Rev. John D'Alton Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of Ireland. "They are beginning to co-operate with each other and I believe they are slowly coming together."

WEEKLY WIND-UP

There will be many opportunities to see motion and still pictures of the recent Marian Congress in this capital since about 50 moving picture and still cameramen were registered to "cover" the huge gathering.

One speculation here is that the Wartime Prices and Trade Board may be a mere skeleton organization by this fall with drastic changes carried out by that time.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner has indicated that he hoped that "in due course" $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 a year could be spent annually on larger irrigation projects in Canada.

Marcel Prevost, managing editor of "Radio World", testifying before the House of Commons Radio Committee declared that a high tariff duty on recordings from United States would have the effect of encouraging American sponsors to develop Canadian talent.

The recommendation before a Senate judiciary sub-committee in Washington that a review of the "Hyde Park Agreement" with Canada should be carried out at once "with the view to establishing export controls on steel products exported to Canada" has brought an unofficial reaction in Ottawa that an examination of the record in pre-war days will show current exports to be quite small.

The ambition of India is to remain in the British Commonwealth of nations, according to visitors to this capital from India, including the Most Rev. Dr. Mar Ivanios, the archbishop of Trivandrum, India.

Lack of money to build is not the bottleneck in Canada's housing problem, it is held by observers on Parliament Hill, but rather the scarcity of material and the inability of the building industry to construct houses at a reasonable cost.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO THE MOTORING PUBLIC

Re: 1947 Amendments to the Ontario Highway Traffic Act

Every motor vehicle owner and driver should become familiar with the new 1947 amendments to the Highway Traffic Act. The purpose of this legislation is to encourage safe driving and to assure the collection of damages awarded by our Courts for personal injuries suffered or property damaged.

On and After July 1st, 1947

- Any violation of a provision of the Highway Traffic Act.
- If, upon conviction for a violation of the Act even though no accident occurred, the penalty imposed by the Magistrate includes suspension or revocation of your driver's license or motor vehicle permit.
- If you are convicted of a criminal offence involving the use of a motor vehicle.

After July 1st, 1947, your driver's license and all motor vehicle permits registered in your name will be suspended if you fail to satisfy a judgment secured against you for damages on account of injury to or death of any person or on account of damage to property. Such judgment must be satisfied at least up to the limits of $5,000.00 for personal injuries to one person, $10,000.00 for two or more persons and $1,000.00 for property damage arising out of any one accident.

Application of Suspensions

Where a suspension is applied following the registration of a conviction, same will remain in effect until proof of financial responsibility is filed.

Where a suspension is applied for failure to satisfy a judgment, same will remain in effect until the judgment has been satisfied or arrangements made for its payment by instalments and proof of financial responsibility is also filed.

Proof of financial responsibility may be filed (a) in the form of an insurance policy certificate; (b) the bond of a guarantee company; (c) the depositing of money or securities to the value of $11,000.00.

Application of Penalties

The penalties for a person operating a motor vehicle while his license is under suspension include a fine up to $500.00 and imprisonment up to six months, also the impounding of the motor vehicle operated. The penalty for the operation of a motor vehicle, the permit for which is under suspension includes a fine up to $500.00, imprisonment for six months and the forfeiture of the vehicle to the Crown.

DRIVE CAREFULLY AND AVOID ACCIDENTS

DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS

GEO. H. DOUCETT
Minister

Hello Homemakers! The preserved

berries which you enjoy so much in the winter are now ripening and once again the canning season is here. It is wise to determine the portion of each variety to be made in accordance with the amount of available sugar. Actually most of us have become accustomed to less-sweet foods and this along with the canning sugar quota should enable us to do all we need.

To make sure that your time and expense is not lost, we remind you to follow instructions carefully. Manufacturers of commercial pectins have been explicit and generous in providing recipes along with their products and for that reason we give little attention to jams, jellies and conserves using pectin in liquid or crystal or powdered form. However, we do offer this advice: Follow directions exactly for the measure of fruit, sugar and pectin, do not double or halve the ingredients—if you want to increase the batch, repeat the making, several times if necessary.

If you are not using pectin, select fruit which is slightly under ripe, for the most successful jams and jellies. When you use pectin, full-ripe fruit may be used for rich flavour. With less-tart fruits, lemon juice is often added to make the proper balance of acid, sugar and pectin necessary for jelling.

Jams and jellies may be sealed in one of two ways. If you use paraffin, have it as hot as possible (heat over boiling water, for safety) and pour over the jelly the moment the hot sterilized jars are filled; use only a thin film to cover. When cold, assure seal with additional melted paraffin tilting the glass to run the wax around the edge. Keep the tops clean by covering with waxed paper or clipping on the metal covers of the glasses. Or you can use the convenient packaged seals: fill jar to within 1/4 inch of the top then place the wetted seal directly on top of hot fruit. Press seal closely around the edges; keep seal smooth, but do not stretch.

RASPBERRY JAM

8 cups ripe raspberries
6 cups granulated sugar

Pick over berries carefully. Mash thoroughly and cook gently for 10 minutes, stir frequently. Stir in the warmed sugar; simmer gently until thickened, stirring often. Let stand a few moments, skim and turn into hot sterilized jars. Seal.

GOOSEBERRY AND RHUBARB JAM

1 quart gooseberries
2 quarts rhubarb

1 cup water
5 cups sugar

Remove stem and blossom ends of rhubarb and cut in one inch pieces, the gooseberries, using scissors. Wash. Do not peel. Add the water to the gooseberries and cook until gooseberries are soft. Add rhubarb and sugar and continue cooking until the jam is thick — about 30 minutes, stirring occasionally so that the jam does not burn. Skim and pour into hot, sterilized glasses. When cold, cover with melted paraffin wax, adjust covers, label and store.

JEWEL JAM

1 quart pitted cherries
1 quart gooseberries
1 quart red currants
1 quart raspberries
8 cups sugar

Wash and pit cherries and put in kettle with 2 cups of the sugar. Bring to the boil and boil for 5 minutes. Then add the quart of cleaned gooseberries and 2 more cups of sugar, to boil and boil 5 minutes. Pour into tins. Then add the quart of cleaned red currants and quart of cleaned raspberries and 4 cups sugar. Bring to boil and boil 5 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars and when cool, seal with paraffin. Yield: Approximately 4 pints.

BLACK CURRANT JAM

2 quarts black currants
1 1/3 cups water
4 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup honey

Top and tail the currants. Simmer the fruit and water for 10 minutes. Add sugar and honey and cook about 15 minutes or until thick.

CHAPTER XII

SYNOPSIS: Lotus, working undercover for the F.B.I., secured a job as singer for Mlle. Duval's cafe. She received an offer from Herman Balch, Bundist, and his associates to report what was going on. Lawrence, F.B.I. agent, had her tell Balch that someone was working on dope smuggling. She called at their apartment, but was made a prisoner and taken to a small island, from which she escaped to the island occupied by the Corbins. Stacy saved her life, but she soon realized that she was a prisoner on the island.

"All right. You say they had that young fellow bound and gagged. Well, he was a trespasser in their apartment, wasn't he? A burglar—" He bit down on the dead cigar viciously. "You say they forced you to go with them. But they didn't ask you to go to their apartment, that was your own bright idea, wasn't it?"

Lotus Ames stared at Curtis Corbin across the magnificent polished dining table at Belle Fleur.

He was refuting every suggestion she made in connection with the police. It was what she had expected. But she had to be sure. She decided to make him commit himself even further.

"But what about the German officer?" she demanded. "He told me he was patriotic and loved his country."

"What's wrong with that? The war with Germany ended months ago. There are thousands of patriotic Germans—very fine people, most of them."

"Well, I guess that's right..." "There's another thing," Corbin senior laid the dead cigar aside and frowned at her. "Stacy tells me that you had a little trouble with the police yourself. Under the circumstances I would advise you not to do anything that would invite them to look up your past."

The advice was given in such a low tone that it sounded threatening.

le Fleur. Her thoughts were racing. "Dad's right, Rosa. From a policeman's viewpoint, your story would be as leaky as a sieve. How could you prove it? You didn't sign any sort of written agreement with these men, did you?"

"No—I didn't even get paid."

"Well, there you are. There's another breakfast Stacy and Lotus strolled on the sunlit lawn around Belle point—how could you explain the fact that you were employed and doing business with them?"

He reached up, ran his fingers through her hair. "Look, sweet, why don't you stay out here a week or so with us? It'll give you a chance to get over your scare."

"What would Chloe say? I'd lose my job."

Inwardly, she was triumphant. If she could stay at Belle Fleur for a few days it would give her a chance to quiz the servants and do some snooping on her own.

"I'm going to town today. I'll explain things to Mamselle Duval and pick up your clothes."

Stacy went inside to dress and Lotus took advantage of his suggestion to make herself at home. She decided to explore outside first.

Toward the back, behind a large formal garden which separated them from the house, was a row of small, one-room brick cabins. Several of these had been joined together and cemented, and iron bars or meshing put across their open faces, where doors and windows had once yawned. She wandered over to it, peering into the varied exhibits.

Zoos had always repelled Lotus. The frightened discontent and restlessness of imprisoned animals deprived of the sunlight and their own natural habits always seemed to her a travesty on man's sense of justice.

Then she came to a glassed enclosure. There was sand on the floor, and springing from a large box in the center of the glass and steel-meshed cage, the gnarled and twisted branches of a dead tree.

It was like coming upon an evil, leering stranger whom you had hoped never to run into again. The box which she had last seen on the dock in New Orleans was staring at her. His partially coiled, muscular body was suspended in ropelike loops from the dead tree.

As she returned his malevolent stare, a hand was placed on her sore shoulder, spinning her around roughly.

"What are you doing here?"

Curtis Corbin's voice was harsh, the expression in his cold blue eyes almost as venomous as the reptile's.

For a cold, panicky moment Lotus was afraid. Then the grip of Curtis Corbin's fingers on her shoulder relaxed and her composure returned.

"Stacy told me to make myself at home," she explained. "I was just looking at the animals."

Before he took his arm away he slid it down her arm to her elbow. She bit her lips to repress a shudder.

"What do you think of my Brazilian boa, eh?"

"He's evil looking," she said frankly.

"What became of his mate?"

"The eyes were hard again, probing."

"His mate? How did you know he had one, Rosa?"

"I saw it. I was with Stacy when the snakes arrived on the ship—the Gonvales. It was Mardi Gras day. There were two snakes then."

He was obviously startled and annoyed. Evidently Stacy had either forgotten or thought it better not to mention what he did on Carnival day or whom he had spent it with.

"Well, the other snake died. It was practically dead on arrival. I'm having it stuffed for my study in the house."

"You must like reptiles."

She studied him curiously. The whole idea of snakes was exceedingly repugnant to her but Corbin's eyes were glowing with an almost fanatical light.

Stacy, dressed smartly in a cream garbardine suit, stood on the long narrow dock leading from the island. He was about to step into a streamlined little motor boat whose brass fittings and paintwork were now reflected dazzlingly in the water. He waved and Lotus ran over to him. Suddenly she was filled with an uncontrollable dread of being left alone on this island with a man like Curtis Corbin.

"Stacy, take me with you!" He stared at her. "What is it, Rosa? What's happened?"

She was still rubbing her shoulder in a glimmering way. "Nothing much—your father wanted me to watch the box constrictor being fed. The idea was more than I could take. It—it upsets me."

"I'm sorry." He really looked contrite. His eyes seemed to hold a certain wonderment at his father. "Dad takes such pleasure in his zoo himself that he doesn't realize that some other people are repelled by the sight of caged animals."

He realizes it only too well, she thought, and takes a malicious delight in teasing them.

"Can't I go into town with you?" she pleaded.

"Of course not. There's no point in it—you're here for a short vacation."

His voice was light but firm. "Dad write a note to Mamselle explaining things and I'll go speak to Dad for a moment."

He handed her a small notebook and a pencil and left.

Lotus wrote a brief note. The sort of note which would inform Stu Lawrence she was safe and still on the job if he inquired of Chloe. In general it was so innocuous that even strange eyes would see nothing subtle in its meaning.

The panic had been momentary. She still had things to do at Belle Fleur and of course must remain there.

Besides there was no other course. She was a prisoner. She was certain of it now.

Her arrival at Belle Fleur had been no surprise to either Stacy or his father. They had been forewarned and were expecting her.

The Corbins used that beacon light on the belvedere at night but it had been kept on during the early morning hours to guide her to the island. The dip and suck of a pole she had thought she had heard as she rested her progue on the hyacinth-covered lake had indeed been another dugout following to make sure she reached the correct island.

The shadows were deepening and the gray beards of Spanish moss seemed to take on a purple tinge as she followed the shore line toward the cypress swamp at the other end of the island.

She stood there thinking of what Stacy had said and peering into the thickets of the marsh undergrowth when the bow of a progue came nosing around the bole of cypress. The dugout held the sleek wet bodies of several recently trapped muskrats and was poled by a swarthy ill-kept individual with a cap pulled low over his eyes.

The set of the straight shoulders was familiar. It was Stu Lawrence! "Thank God you've come!" he said fervently.

"I never thought you'd be that glad to see me."

"The fact that I've spent half the day paddling around these damn bays might have something to do with it, you know."

How bitter and insulting he could be she thought, and how charming when the occasion demanded. Since she had known him there seemed to have been few such occasions.

He studied her analytically. "Are you all right?"

"Quite. I don't think they suspect me, but they won't let me go back to town."

"That's because some of their goons are still working around the Cafe Duval and it might be bad if you recognized them. That little runt Paul is still doing business at the same old stand. Find out anything?"

"Only that the servants don't particularly like the Corbins, but stay because Corbin pays better than other employers."

She told him briefly what had happened to her since their last meeting.

"The dope came in on the Gonvales, all right," he said when she was through. "It's thick in the city—the jails are bulging with addicts."

"Why can't you force one of them to tell you his source of supply?"

"Because they don't know themselves."

Its distributed by a variety of systems. They've even been using the mails. Someone mingles with their crowd, the word is passed along and the addicts mail money to a certain post office box and enclose their address. The equivalent amount in dope is mailed back to them. The number is changed frequently.

"Why don't you station people at the Post Office?"

"We have, and this week no one has come to collect the mail. I'm afraid they're wise to us."

"Have you checked on the recipients of cargoes on the Gonvales?"

"All but Corbin. We're saving him for the piece de resistance."

"I don't see how he could have gotten it—all he received was two box constrictors in a steel cage."

"Have you seen the snakes?"

"One of them, the other's dead."

"Dead, eh?" His mouth tightened.

"What's he done with it?"

"Says he's having it stuffed for his den."

"See if you can get a look at it."

He was looking beyond her. She turned and saw that Lachene the gardener, was coming toward them across the lawn. "Guess I'll be leaving," Lawrence said. "Try to be out here at this same time each afternoon and I'll show up if there's any news."

Lachene's gold front tooth made his smile seem sinister as he came up to Lotus. "What you do, Mamselle, eh?"

Lawrence was pushing off into the shadow. Lotus let him get further out in the water before she answered the gardener: "This man tells me he has some beautiful muskrat skins at his home. He wants to sell me some, to have a coat made."

Lotus guessed he was going to report the incident to Curtis Corbin.

MORE TO COME

The latest amendments to the OM Age Pensions Act, raising the amount and extending the number of pensioners to be affected, are considered to be only the start in the direction of more sweeping social security measures which may follow after the Federal Provincial Governments have settled their fiscal taxation problems, with the remark that this means that, when the obstacles to general agreement are removed, it is believed that it may involve a total cost for the Federal and Provincial Governments in excess of $100,000,000 and 50,000 to 60,000 more old age persons or blind. Last year, the total cost was about $85,000,000 and 21,000 pensioners, including about 7,000 blind pensioners are out of the way, national health insurance, tax reforms, and other long-range programmes will be taken into consideration to carry out the objectives of the 1945 Dominion-

BANK...

if you're Smart

NEXT pay-day your pay cheque will be bigger... because the reduction in your income tax will be effective.

Think of that increase as a raise in pay—as money in your pocket. Whether your income is $2,000 or $20,000, it's something extra to use in your own design for living.

For some people it's going to mean more money to spend—an easier time in personal financing. That's good for most of us.

But is that all? Not for the wise ones. Wise folk won't let all that money slip through their fingers... Some will save 10%—some 50%... and some will save it all.

Plan your finances now for 1947... figure out your tax saving and see that a good lump of this money in your pocket is labelled "money in the bank".

For many people that's going to mean "money in My Bank"... where more than a million Canadians—sound citizens who know what saving means—do their personal financing.

You will be very welcome in this good company.

Something to show for it...

Don't just leave your income tax saving with the rest of what you have remaining after pay-day. You're apt to lose track of it too easily.

If you're wise you'll open a special savings account for it and do a real "Income Saving Account" and make it live up to its name.

Later, you'll be glad you did... you'll be able and ready to buy those things you want most.

Isn't it a Fact?

● It matters little what you want to buy these days : : : soap, a shirt, a new car... even electricity (which you don't have to line up for) continues to be scarce in Southern Ontario.

Have you tried to build a home lately? : : : tried to buy building materials of any kind. What a headache! How would you like to be shopping for what's needed for a new electric power plant? Unimaginable amounts of concrete, steel and other materials, as well as tremendous quantities of electrical equipment, would have to be sought out and purchased.

It takes several months now to get such equipment as transformers and costs are up by more than half. The bigger they are the harder they are to get.

What about the huge generating stations required to supply Ontario with an additional badly needed half-million horsepower? Well, they are being built. They were started years ago. But they cannot all be ready in 1947. Some won't be ready next year.

In the meantime, demand for electricity is growing faster than new power plants. Few people anywhere use as much electricity per person as in Ontario. Few have as much to use. Enjoy your low-cost electric power, but use it wisely. Your Hydro Commission is doing everything possible to increase the supply; but it will still be necessary to conserve electricity this fall and winter.

"WITH GREAT INTEREST"

While it is undoubtedly true that the Canadian Government has not been asked for an expression of views on the proposals of Gen. George C. Marshall, United States, yet it is known now that the Canadian Government has had detailed information on this subject from proper quarters, with the Government in Ottawa having followed these latest developments on the international scene "with great interest", as an official spokesman for the Canadian Government has indicated.

An American film producer asked an English friend to look at one of his "society" films to see that everything was all right.

After watching it for a while the Englishman asked: "Why does that man keep his hat on when he's talking to a lady in the drawing room?" "Sure," said the producer, "he can't take it off another lady's coming in presently, and he's got to raise his

Tenders Will Be Called For New Roof On Community Building

WARTIME HOUSING OFFICIALS APPROVE SITES CHOSEN BY COUNCIL FOR NEW HOUSES

Following a lengthy discussion at the regular meeting of Village Council on Monday night, it was decided to call for tenders for a new roof on the Stirling Community Service Building. Specifications will call for reshaping the roof to the proper pitch and applying a twenty-year bonded roof, providing the work can be completed by the end of August.

Prior to making this decision, Council heard representations from F. Elgie and a salesman for "Insul Mastix," a material for repairing leaky roofs.

"It's the same old story," commented Councillor Wells. "We have spent close to a thousand dollars on this roof in the past few years and still have a leaky roof. I'm in favour of a new roof providing the job is done before the end of August."

Councillor Bailey thought a repair job might last two or more years and by that time labor and material would probably be more plentiful.

"The sooner we get a new roof the better," stated Councillor Elliott. "The amount of money spent on a repair job now would more than pay the interest on the cost of a new roof until the present debenture on the building is paid off and the cost of the new roof could be handled without any increase in the tax rate."

It was then moved by Councillor Elliott and seconded by Councillor Wells that tenders be called for the job.

A lengthy discussion also ensued on the Wartime Housing project. The proposed sites have been approved by Wartime Housing officials and measurements of the sites chosen by Council are to be submitted.

Councillor Wells introduced the matter of redecorating the exterior of the Community Hall and was authorized to make the necessary arrangements.

F. R. Mallory, auditor, addressed the members of Council as regards the Village Assessment.

The following accounts were ordered paid:

Sam Bowen, $25.50; County of Hastings, $31.30; Harper Rollins, postage, $6.16; W. H. Patterson, $2.50; Melotte Cream Separator, $68.23; Stirling News-Argus, $21.75; Geo. Noble, $9.45; Murray Whiteman, $1.00; Harry Jones, $6.25; Roy Brooks, $28.50; McIntosh & Wells, $33.90; H. C. Martin, insur-

Honoured With Degree Doctor of Divinity At Winnipeg University

Rev. James Snarr Watson, B.A., was honoured with the Degree of Doctor of Divinity, Honoris Causa, at the Theological Convocation of United College, Winnipeg, on April 18th, 1947. Rev. Mr. Watson was born in Rawdon Township and is a brother of Geo. D. Watson, of Wellman's.

Following is the citation accompanying the presentation:

Presentation of Rev. James Snarr Watson, B.A.

"The Reverend James Snarr Watson, B.A., has given more than fifty years of continuous service to the Church in Manitoba.

"Born in Hastings County in Ontario, he attended High School in Campbellford, took further studies at Cobourg Model School, taught school for two years, and graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, in Arts in 1895 and in Theology in 1898.

While a student, he learned of the needs of the West from Rev. James Robertson, D.D., Superintendent of Missions for the Presbyterian Church for Western Canada, and during his college course spent three summers on mission fields in Manitoba.

On the completion of his Theological studies, he was licensed to preach by the Presbytery of Kingston, and returned immediately to Manitoba as Missionary to the Minota and Arrow River districts. He was ordained in 1898 in the Arrow River School House.

Shortly after the turn of the century, Mr. Watson was called to Minnedosa. Here he had a part in rebuilding the Church, which had been ruined, and in establishing a hospital, and soon after beginning his Minnedosa pastorate, he married Kate Junior Carswell, an undergraduate of Manitoba College and a daughter of Rev. James Carswell. Mr. Watson served for several years as convener of Home Missions for his Presbytery, and for one year held office as its moderator.

In 1912 came the turning point in his career. He was appointed Field Secretary for the Lord's Day Alliance for Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and in this capacity he rendered outstanding service not only to his own Church but to all the Churches, to labour and to industry, and to the entire Christian community from 1912 until his retirement in 1945.

Much of Mr. Watson's success in this important and difficult field of labour was due to his personal quali-

Boys' Camp At Oak Lake Successful

The Northumberland Boys' Work Board—in which Anglican and United Churches co-operated—held a successful Boys' Camp at Oak Lake last week, with ideal camping conditions prevailing.

The programme consisted of Bible study, interest groups, swimming, Hikes, Field Day, and Vesper Services. Excellent meals were provided with John Freeman, of Trenton, being the cook.

The camp was a great success and plans are already under way to make next year's camp bigger and better.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

FOR THE MUNICIPALITY OF

Township of Sidney

For The Year Ending December 31st

1946

To The Reeve, Deputy-Reeve and Councillors of The Township of Sidney

Gentlemen:

I have been supplied with the necessary information to make this Audit possible.

The transactions were within the powers of the Municipality, the Council getting the power from the Municipal Board to issue debentures.

I have examined the book accounts and bank books of the Schools and beg leave to report as follows:

The books are kept a lot better than they were in 1945, but there are some who use a Savings Account and by law we must see the cancelled cheques. I also find two who pay accounts by petty cash and not by cheque and they draw out the money and what they do not use they re-deposit it. I think this should be discontinued as it is not the policy of the Government and they pay a large subsidy on schools.

The Township Treasurer had cancelled cheques for all his payments and were placed on the different accounts.

Uncle Hy Says

(Copyright 1947 H. M. Moore)

If you can write well 'mid the rattling of dishes, or the prattings of one who hunts and who fishes, there's something about you that's strong and admirable, to those who are struggling to heights most aspirable.

Annoyance, plain noise, is the bane of the writer, who must concentrate to be an inditer of facts indisputable, of saleable fiction, and ever must watch his rhetoric, his diction.

If you can write well and no noises assail you, if words freely flow, and never to fall you, I'll tell you, my friend, you have more than acumen—a stout heart, forsooth, more celestial than human.

KEEP MONEY IN BASEMENT

Eastern Ontario is in the midst of epidemic of bank robberies. This newspaper believes that the big bulk of a bank's money should be kept behind heavy locked doors in a basement, where bandits could not reach it as they do when they gather up the bundles about the more exposed teller's cage. Amounts for and from each customer could be carried to and from the secure money room in tubes, as money is carried in the department stores, says Port Arthur News Chronicle.

HOW ABOUT SANITATION

One of the most important branches of private enterprise serving the general public is the restaurant—quite often it is a treat to eat "out"—just for the change, but how many eating houses across the Dominion really measure up to truly first-class standard from a viewpoint of sanitation and preparation?—Elmwood (Man.) Herald.

MORE FLAG WAVING

Perhaps a little more flag-waving and a little more vocal pride in Canada wouldn't be a bad idea, after all. Far too many of us like the congregation in this community which included the national anthem in an impressive setting in its services throughout the war and dropped it out as soon as the war was over. That's the sort of thing that grates—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Warnings have again been issued that with amendments to the Highway Traffic Act, stringent measures will be adopted by the Government in restraining operators of vehicles from driving if they are convicted of certain traffic offenses. While the new regulations may seem severe—they were made because of the terrible accident toll taken every year on our highways—often through the negligence of drivers who failed to carry insurance, in the event of accident, for the protection of others.—Carleton Place Canadian

BEGGING RIDES NOT A PROUD OCCUPATION

Although the custom of hitch-hiking has diminished since the war's end there is still quite a bit of it being carried on from what we see on our nearby highways, comments The St. Mary's Journal-Argus. A service man, a student, or a person of very low means, all perhaps have an excuse for indulging in this custom, but the majority of highway-side thumbers are doing nothing better than beggin, we contend.

In discussing this recently, the St. Thomas Times-Journal tells of a man who has travelled all over Eastern Canada and most of United States free and only once did he find it necessary to pay a fare. He made altogether 18 trips to the United States. The Times-Journal says:—"Perhaps he is very proud of his record, but we do not think it is anything to boast about. A man who can do what he does is a worse cadger than the panhandlers who cadge dimes for a cup of coffee, for which offense the cadger is liable to go to jail for begging. Motorists have been generous toward hitchhikers until it has become for some people part of their way of living. It is a form of begging that is tolerated because it is commonly regarded as an act of kindness to deserving people to give them a lift along the road. . . . Where would our railroads be if everybody went out to cadge long rides in automobiles? If there were many like this man, one half of the people would buy cars and the other half solicit free transport."—Gananogue Reporter PRIZE HERD FOR U.K.—150 purebred Holstein heifers, the largest shipment of cattle to the United Kingdom since before the war, are shown in the lower photograph moving into Canadian National Railways cars when they recently left Muroo Farms at Lindsay, Ont., for Montreal en route to the United Kingdom. In the top picture, the prize herd is being inspected by W. E. Watson, manager of the C.N.R.'s Montreal Stock Yards, and W. J. Murphy, owner of the farms, just prior to their transfer to the ships. The heifers will restock dairy farm herds depleted during the war.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

TIME YET TO PLANT SOME VEGETABLES

The average gardener may be under the impression that when the summer is half gone there is no use in planting more vegetables. He may be looking forward to the crop of later maturing vegetables such as tomatoes, pepper, squash, cucumbers, potatoes, late cabbage, carrots and parsnips.

Even though some part of the summer has gone there is still time to sow and harvest other vegetables which will add to the food supply in the late summer and early autumn, says Wm. Ferguson, Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Though early vegetables such as radishes, lettuce, spinach and peas have been harvested when the summer is advanced some of the land used for growing these early crops can be used to produce a crop of quick-growing vegetables before damaging frost comes in the fall.

The following varieties can be grown successfully for a fall crop—lettuce, spinach, Chinese cabbage and radish. Before planting the ground should be worked up. In many cases discing and harrowing will be sufficient. A dressing of 4-8-10 fertilizer at 300 or 400 lb. per acre before working up the soil should provide sufficient plant food for these crops. In a small garden this application is equivalent to 7 to 10 lb. per 1,000 square feet. The seeds should be sown in rows 15 inches apart, or wider if desired, lettuce and radish seed being sown 1/2 inch deep and spinach and Chinese cabbage 1/2 inch deep.

If the season is warm and the soil has dried out, watering or irrigation will speed up germination and help to provide a good, early, uniform crop. After the seeds have germinated the young plants should be thinned out as follows: radish—1 inch, spinach—4 to 6 inches, lettuce—10 to 12 inches. Radish may be sown early in August the others should be sown during the last half of July.

The following varieties are recommended: Chinese cabbage—Pe-Tsai, Chitrili—Bloomsdale, Nobel, King of Denmark; Radish—French Breakfast, Scarlet Globe, Saxa or Sparkler.

FARMERS CAN AVOID $13 MILLION LOSS

Smut disease of grain crops causes a loss of about 13 million dollars a year to Canadian farmers, Dr. W. C. Broadfoot, Division of Botany and Plant Pathology, Dominion Department of Agriculture told the annual convention of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association. The speed with which this disease spreads is shown by the fact that when two per cent of the heads in a field contained stinking smut, 22 per cent of the threshed grain was contaminated; and when 8 to 16 per cent of the heads in the field were smutty, over 80 per cent of the threshed grain graded smutty.

There is no need to continue suffering losses from smut. Of the seven different smuts of cereals, said Dr. Broadfoot, five can be controlled by disinfecting the surface of the seed with the appropriate organic mercury fungicide such as Ceresan. The remaining two smuts—loose smut of wheat and loose smut of barley, require the more exacting hot water treatment for their control.

DAIRY EXPORT CONTROL

Export controls still remain on all dairy products while import controls are retained on a certain number of concentrated milk products. Production of ice cream is restricted by the amount of sugar available for its use.

In previous years, the government has requisitioned cheese for export through the Dairy Products Board. If requisitioning is not carried on this year, says the Current Review of Agricultural Conditions in Canada, it is probable that the government will buy cheese in the open market at the price specified in the contract with Britain. This will mean that the price on the domestic market will show little change over the present contract price.

Cheese production in 1947 continues well below 1946, and, with the prospect of an increase in the price of butterfat, it is probable that there will be some further diversion from cheese to butter production.

EFFECT OF SCIENCE ON MODERN FARM

An extensive study of the expenditures made by the Government of Canada on research and scientific activity is given in the latest issue of the Agricultural Institute Review by Frank Shefrin, Agricultural Economist, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Dealing with the ever-widening demand for scientific research in the conservation of natural resources, general economic conditions, standards of health, industrial development, and other services which have now become the essential functions of a modern government, he says in part that research in agriculture has made a considerable contribution toward increasing the productive capacity of the farm economy.

To-day, with the use of machines and science, the average Canadian farmer can work about 85 acres of improved land; in 1911 he was able to cultivate only 52 acres. To-day, the farmer can get about 60 bushels of hybrid corn per acre, where previously he got only 50 bushels from standard varieties. Cows yielding 5,000 pounds of milk annually are average cows, as compared with less than 3,000 pound producers at the turn of the present century.

Virginia leaf-tobacco is grown in southern Ontario, where formerly sand had drifted on abandoned farms. Farmers who have been handicapped by short growing seasons, dry weather, rust, smut, and other hazards, have been given a fresh chance by the introduction of new plants, such as hybrid corn, Saunders wheat, crested wheat grass, and rust-and-smut-resistant oats.

Drainage and irrigation has brought much additional land under cultivation. New information on fertilizers and fertility practices has increased output on available land. Much of this research and related activities responsible for increased productive capacity of the farm were undertaken in the laboratories and on the Dominion Experimental Farms.

WEED THAT GIVES ALARM TO FARMERS

Year after year, during a period in May and June, specimens of Winter Cress or Yellow Rocket are received almost daily for identification by the Division of Botany and Plant Pathology, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture. As it is the first of the mustards to attract attention and because of its bright yellow flowers, it causes more alarm than almost any other weed. Owing to its prevalence in new seedlings of hay, the seed used is commonly brought under suspicion. The weed is listed in the Seeds Act as a secondary noxious weed which allows some tolerance of admixture but probably not enough to account for the degree of infestation often found. As a matter of fact, winter cress is both native and introduced in most parts of Canada so that seed can be expected in the soil. It may reach cultivated fields from adjoining roadsides and waste places. There the plant is often more abundant than in the field but does not arouse the same concern.

Germination tests conducted at the Division of Botany over a period of ten years have found the seeds capable of living to the extent of nearly 90 per cent immediately after maturity with the viability remaining high during a second year. By the fourth year, germination becomes negligible. For this reason, and because the roots are only biennial or weakly perennial, winter cress is not so persistent and spreading as other mustards. Though these other mustards are only annual, their seeds, when buried below germination depth in the soil, are viable for 20 or more years. Indications are, too, that this weed does not start readily on firm undisturbed soil, but chiefly in a fresh bed or on thinly covered waste land. The worst infestations seen were in cultivated apple orchards in Nova Scotia. These were regularly tilled but apparently not frequently enough to prevent re-seeding.

THE WEED OF THE WEEK YELLOW GOAT'S BEARD

The presence of one plant of Yellow Goat's Beard on one's property is a danger signal! The seeds of this Perennial weed are dispersed by means of downy appendages which gives the seed head the appearance of large dandelion heads and enables individual seeds to be carried long distances by the wind. It is a perennial weed usually found in waste places, fence lines and road sides, and may be identified from Perennial Sow Thistle, for which it is sometimes mistaken, by its long slender tap root, upright stems, 1 to 3 feet high, and long, narrow taper-pointed keeled leaves. Flowers and seeds are produced from June to September.

This weed will not stand cultivation, therefore, when found in sod which can be cultivated the recommended method of control is to pull, mow, spud or spray with a chemical weed killer. It is known that the tops of this weed can be partly or completely killed by the use of 2-4-D weed killers at early or rapid growth stages, and that repeated sprayings have killed roots, however, the work has not been continued long enough to make definite recommendations. Chlorate weed killers, including Stephen Weed Killer and Atacide are effective and are recommended, applied at the rate of 1 to 1 1/2 pounds per gallon of water as directed in our circular "Chemical Weed Control". This circular may be obtained from the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

The weed is now in flower and may be found in every county in Ontario. It is spreading fast. Learn to identify it. Take immediate action to eradicate it. It is a noxious weed under the Weed Control Act and must therefore be destroyed before seeds mature. Draw neglected areas to the attention of your Weed Inspector.

"NOW WATCH ME WIN THAT RIBBON!"

SANDY SIMPSON has been patiently improving his dairy herd. He saw his chance to buy a pure bred bull — and the manager of his bank lent him the ready cash to close the deal. Now he's expecting great things of his new calf; already he sees her winning her class at next year's Fall Fair. A few more like her and he can also see his milk production rising — as well as a nice extra income from selling his surplus stock to neighbouring farmers.

Branch banks, in rural communities across Canada, help to build prosperous farms . . . and at the same time help increase the flow of food to family tables both at home and in distant lands.

THIS IS ONE INSTANCE of how Canada's 3,200 branch banks play their part in the daily life and work of Canadians.

previously planned to have a special afternoon on the last day of school.
The theme was "Vacation" and every number was well rendered. The fourteen pupils and their teacher deserve great credit for presenting such an interesting event.

George Scott gave a "Welcome" to usher in vacation days. The pupils rendered a chorus "Vacation In The Country."

Malcolm Reid recited "The Next Grade".

A one act play depicted the lonesomeness of the eraser, reader, bell, ruler and pencil after school was closed for the holidays. The pupils of grade I and II sang, "Vacation Butterflies".

Walter Wrightman recited "My Teacher". A play "Mother Goose and her Goslings" depicted many nursery characters in costume which included Little Bo Peep, Boy Blue, Jack and Jill, Mary Contrary, Jack Horner,
King Cole, King and Queen of Hearts, Simple Simon, etc. An exercise and song in costume "Summer Workers" depicted real farmers and farmerettes.

A very pretty drill and song "Nature's Colours" was heartily applauded by the audience. Eleanor Smith recited "Many Pupils" and a song "We Will Ride" gave a western touch to the programme.

A play, entitled "Hard Tasks," was followed by a story "The Garden of Flowers," read by Betty McConnell, and the smaller girls dressed as flowers acted out a pantomime.

The closing number was a chorus,
"Ready For Vacation."

The pianists for the evening were three senior pupils, Shirley McKeown, Betty McConnell and Ruth Linn.

The costumes were all in keeping with vacation days and Miss Robson deserves special praise for her part in training the pupils.

At this juncture Miss Robson was given a seat of honour and Miss Betty McConnell read an address of appreciation for her two years of service as teacher of the Allen School. Master Ray Sharp made the presentation of a lovely pottery vase.

Following this, Mrs. Marguerite Mc-Mullen read an address on behalf of the ratepayers of S.S. No. 3, expressing appreciation for her splendid leadership in the Young People's Union and for her work with the pupils of the school. Mrs. Lindsay McKeown made the presentation of an electric sandwich toaster and an oval casserole set in silver.

Miss Robson graciously replied, thanking pupils and parents for the lovely gifts and for the happy two years at Mount Pleasant. The pupils served sandwiches, tarts, and lemonade and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Mrs. Ross Hoard and Mrs. John Holmes expressed thanks to teacher and pupils for programme and lunch.

Miss Robson presented each of her pupils with a gift of a snapshot album or an autograph album at the close of school.

Mr. Sharp announced that beginning in September the School Board would supply all pencils, note books, etc., so the pupils will only need to purchase text books.

The National Anthem closed a delightful evening.

DEMOCRACY AND DICTATORSHIP

From time to time the legislative machinery of our democracy has been criticized so that it is only simple justice to report that critics of our democratic system might have a most difficult task to find fault with the way the Canadian Parliament has speeded up its work towards the closing days of this third session following a proper working agreement between the leaders of the four main parties. Indeed, the co-operative spirit has accomplished some remarkable results, including the passing of important legislation in quick time, though the members of Parliament have been working hard for many hours day after day until 11 p.m. Perhaps, they have worked a good deal more than reports have indicated and much more effort has been put into this third session than the man-in-the-street seems to realize.

SECRET AND SERIOUS

"I do not think there has been anything intentional in delaying a discussion of these matters of international concern until the end of the session," said Premier Mackenzie King in the House of Commons. "I would point out that, from week to week, some question comes up which, in one way or another, is related to external affairs, and as these different matters arise they are discussed in the House. That has been so this session, and it has been true at other sessions." Obviously, this explanation by the head of the Canadian Government speaks for itself but it may also be added that the secret session reportedly held to discuss or to give information about conditions in Europe to-day will be aimed to provide the members of Parliament with an opportunity to get "inside" facts from the Department of External Affairs, with the hint in official quarters in Ottawa that nothing is so serious to-day as that of the reconstruction of Europe.

HOUSES ON FARMS

Order in Council P.C. 2474 proclaims Section 14 of the National Housing Act which provides for loans to assist in the construction of houses on farms and it is stated here that, before the new form of mortgage could be applied, certain adjustments in provincial legislation in each of the prairie provinces were considered necessary. The old form of mortgage with the crop share lease did not meet the circumstances of farmers in the grain-growing areas and as a new method of mortgage repayment was required to provide an adequate escape clause for distress years as well as payment in good crop years, increasing in direct proportion to the yield and value of the crop. However, the essential amending legislation was not passed in any of the prairie legislatures at this year's sessions.

"There was, however, a good deal of interest shown in the proposals, and negotiations are being continued with the governments concerned," declared G. J. McIlraith, Parliamentary Asstant to the Minister of Reconstruction and Supply, adding that in the meantime certain facilities will be available to farmers under certain ways.

IMMIGRATED INTO CANADA

It is learned in this capital that 66,990 persons immigrated into Canada so far this year up to March 31, 1947, compared with 31,081 at the same time last year and 15,306 at the same period in the preceding year before that, showing a progressive increase.

MEETING ALL COMMITMENTS

The Canadian railways are apparently doing such a good job in connection with the movement of grain to ships awaiting cargoes that the request made by the Canadian wheat board that 1,126 cars of wheat and grain daily be moved has been exceeded by far measure, according to an official spokesman for the Government, with the disclosure that the average for June was 1,360 cars.

"Grain is moving as fast as it can to lakehead ports," said Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier. "There are other points involved and I do not wish to go into them, but my honorable friend inquired about the movement, and from the point of view of the railways it is certainly well taken care of."

Mr. Chevrier revealed that commitments are being met. "All I can say is that sufficient wheat is being made available to meet all commitments and the schedule as suggested by the wheat board is being fully lived up to," he emphasized in no uncertain words.

NOT SATISFACTORY

Grumblings are heard in Ottawa regarding the progress being made in the building of new homes, especially in the eastern sections of this country where a larger volume of construction of a commercial or industrial nature taking up labor and materials which could otherwise have gone towards the building of badly needed homes. The western Canadian housing situation is reportedly somewhat better than in the east, though the whole programme appears to be unsatisfactory and there is a question now in unofficial quarters if the 1947 plan for 80,000 units may be attained at the present rate since there has been noted a reluctance to engage in such investments now with the scarcity and high costs of materials as well as labor.

SIGN OF STANDARDIZING

The reported purchase by Canada of tanks, aircraft and ammunition from the United States surplus war stocks is interpreted by observers on Parliament Hill as showing that standardizing weapons or equipment between the two countries is on its way now.

ONLY THE BEGINNING

While the reception accorded to a large delegation of Canadian housewives by the representatives of the Canadian Cabinet in Ottawa recently has been termed as anything encouraging for their demands for a "roll-back" of prices and continuation of controls, yet it is believed here that this mission was not a failure because it has made many housewives more conscious about keeping prices within reason, refusing to buy articles which are out of bounds in higher price realms. This was accomplished through the widespread publicity which has resulted from this "housewives' trip" to this capital where price consciousness received a boost from this action.

SAID IN THE CAPITAL

"It would involve far reaching administrative and economic changes for both countries and some alteration in the traditional outlook of both peoples," said Prime Minister Mackenzie King in referring to the Newfoundland's delegation visit for a possible union with Canada.

"It is too much to hope, therefore, that from this conference there may emerge a fair and equitable basis of union which the people of both countries will willingly and gladly accept," asked Hon. F. Gordon Bradley, chairman of the Newfoundland's seven-man delegation which is in this capital now.

"There should be a rationing of time (for debates) with a fair share for new members and back benchers of all parties," said Gordon Graydon in the House of Commons in suggesting ways and means to expediting the work of Parliament.

"Greatly accelerated progress is needed in the development of a 'shell' of public works projects to cope with unemployment conditions in the event of depression," remarked the president of the Canadian Construction Association, Albert Deschamps.

"The Government's conclusion is in the general interest, particularly in the interest of householders and small businesses that sugar rationing should be retained in Canada at least until the 1948 supply prospects are clear, with rationing being increased in the meantime as rapidly as circumstances permit," said Finance Minister Abbott in the House of Commons.

"The ever-growing consumption of alcohol is one of the major problems of our governments both federal and provincial," emphasized in an address here Most Rev. B. L. Webster.

"Building costs and labor costs have risen to a tremendous degree," declared R. F. Fleming, secretary of the Property Owners Association, in Ottawa.

WEEKLY WIND-UP

Negro applicants for positions in Canada's public service get the same treatment as anyone else, it is emphasized here, though efforts are made to see that they are appointed to positions satisfactory to both employer and employee.

Dr. Mladen Gjinio-Zorkin, representing the Canadian Croatian Peasant Society, told the Senate Immigration Committee that the emigration of about 800 Yugo-slavs recently from Canada was due to Communist newspapers inspiring such a return to their homeland.

The Department of National Health and Welfare, it is hinted, is examining the possibility of extending assistance to handicapped Canadians.

It is understood here that a women's league will present a petition to the Federal Government asking that the divorce laws should be amended to prevent divorcees from re-marrying for three years after their divorce.

With the lowering of prices of natural rubber and its increased consumption in Canada lately, there is obvious concern about the competition which the Government-owned synthetic rubber plant may have to face in the years ahead.

Hello Homemakers! After collecting everything required for a picnic and after an hour in the country, people "build up" appetites as ravenous as though they had been digging in the garden all day. Whether or not this is partly a matter of imagination, the fact remains that picnickers look forward to being fed. The good homemaker remembers to bring along satisfying picnic dishes and all the requisite utensils.

If there are cooking facilities at the picnic grounds, plan to serve a hamburger surprise . . . Holiday Hamburgers! The peppery flavour will please everyone. Fresh fruit with a cup of steeped coffee will complete the meal. However, any sunny day can be a 'picnic' if you have supper on the porch, or in the backyard, or the park. Make a combination salad, butter hot tea biscuits and take covered berry tarts along with the thermos filled with chilled fruit juices.

We maintain that a simple but ample lunch eliminates fuss and bother. The items that are frequently overlooked are salt and pepper shakers; we sometimes forget to take off the caps, stick in a bit of wax paper and screw tops on tightly to prevent spilling.

SALMON SALAD

- 1 cup cold boiled salmon
- 1 cup shredded cabbage
- 1/2 cup diced celery

Mayonnaise, salt, pepper, Lettuce. Flake the salmon and combine with shredded cabbage and celery. Mix with mayonnaise and put in lettuce cups.

DENVER HAMBURGS

- 3 eggs slightly beaten
- 1 cup chopped cooked ham
- 1 tsp. finely chopped green pepper
- 2 tps. minced onion
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1-8 tsp. pepper
- Toasted bread

Combine all ingredients except toasted bread and drop mixture from tablespoon on a greased frying pan and spread to make flat cakes. Brown on both sides and serve between slices of toasted or untoasted bread or rolls. Note: 1 cup finely chopped pork luncheon meat may be substituted for the ham.

SAUSAGE SANDWICHES

- Slices of bread
- Liver sausage

Mayonnaise

- Tomatoes (thinly sliced)
- Small green onions
- Toast slices of bread on one side, then spread untoasted side with liver sausages softened with a little mayonnaise. Top with thinly sliced tomatoes and green onions.

INSTANT COFFEE

Follow directions on the package of instant coffee.

BERRY TURNOVERS

Cut circles of puff or flaky paste three inches in diameter, having the paste not more than one-eighth of an inch thick. Moisten half the edge of the circle with cold water and in the centre lay a teaspoon of thick raspberry jam. Fold one-half of the circle over the other, making edges meet. Press closely and mark with a fork dipped in flour. Brush with beaten egg, prick the top with a fork and chill before placing in the oven. Bake in electric oven for 15 mins. at 450 degs. F. (Other fruit may be used in the same way.)

TAKE A TIP

1. Dip graham wafers in thick chocolate syrup. Stack 4 together on individual plates and keep in electric refrigerator until serving time. Top with whipped cream tinted pink and sliced bananas.
2. Cheddar cheese will not harden if it is kept in a cloth dampened with vinegar.
3. Leftover sponge cake may be sliced and toasted on the broiling element. Top with berries folded into a syrup.
4. Use orange juice in place of water and 2 teaspoons orange rind for special pastry. This pastry is wonderful for rhubarb and berry pies.
5. With a small amount of berries on hand you can make tart shells and fill with a caramel custard into which you can fold the berries. In an emergency this dessert will be very helpful.
6. Add a teaspoon of lemon juice to simple syrup and pour on fruit instead of cream.
7. Grated cheese, coconut and rolled prepared cereals are good for topping fruit pies. This really saves time and shortening.

FOR YOUNG TRAVELLERS

A wait between trains in a strange city with a couple of children in tow is a prospect grim enough to appal the most competent young mother, but from now on the new three-room nursery in the Canadian Pacific Railway's Station in Montreal will give both parent and youngster a chance to rest, relax and freshen up before continuing their journey. The nursery is in charge of a trained matron, and its playroom (top) is equipped with an indoor slide, blocks and toys with which the kiddies can be turned loose. The "quiet" room (lower left) has cots for the children to sleep in and chairs for their mothers to relax. Two diminutive tubs are provided in the bathroom (lower right) where a young lady, from Northern Ontario en route to Nova Scotia, is seen bathing her 14-month-old boy. A hot plate, bottle warmer and sterilizer are available for preparing milk and formulas, and the rooms are all decorated with pictures and "transfers" of animals and children. Miss Ethel Alexander, R.N., the matron-in-charge, who can be seen in the upper picture, keeps an eye on the children while mothers go about errands in the station — seeing about tickets or having a meal.

CHAPTER XIII

It was ten o'clock. Belle Fleur seemed strangely silent. Lotus stood on the broad gallery outside her bedroom and saw the stars reflected with startling clarity in the waters of the swimming lagoon. From the bayous came the hoarse croaking of frogs and the occasional plaintive whimper of a swamp owl.

Stacy had not yet returned from New Orleans.

His father, Lotus, thought and hoped, had retired to his own room with a book.

She wondered suddenly if this wasn't the moment to do a little enooping. The servants, to all appearances, were in their quarters behind the house and she would have the spacious old rooms to herself.

She had seen Stacy use a flashlight that was kept in a drawer of the first floor hall table. She would need it for what she planned to do. As she tiptoed down the hall, light gleamed from under Curtis Corbin's door. She found the flash and decided to examine the library first.

She played her light over the room and examined the contents of the massive library table drawers. It seemed a purposeless search, as she was not sure what she was looking for. If Corbin were a dope smuggler, he could have dozens of hollowed-out books filled with the stuff and she would have to examine each one separately to find out. It was much too big a task for one person.

The door to Curtis Corbin's study was open and she moved across to it. Den was rather a contradictory term to apply to this room, she decided, for it was easily as large as the library.

She moved the bright spot of light across the walls; and eyes, stony and belligerent, gleamed back at her!

The walls were covered by the stuffed and mounted heads of various animals; it was their glassy, taxidermist eyes that had frightened her.

Quickly, she rifled through the contents of the desk. The papers all referred to business deals which meant nothing to her. She moved the light around again. This time it fell on a large packing box, from which excelsior and shredded newspapers protruded.

She peered in and gasped. . . . The box constrictor lay coiled up in its bed of straw, its skin gleaming naturally. Though she knew it was dead, it was several moments before she could bring herself to examine it.

Leaving quickly, she tiptoed into the dining room and obtained a steel knife from the buffet. Returning to the box, she ripped open several of the stitches with a few quick jerks and reached in to the opening.

Her fingers closed on more excelsior. Though she continued to feel around, stuffing with all her exploring hands contracted. With a deep sigh of disappointment, she returned to the snake to its original position.

Suddenly, her ears caught the sound of soft, shuffling footsteps descending the stairs. Curtis Corbin was returning to the library!

Suddenly, the front door was thrust open and Stacy came in.

"Hi Dad!" He sounded as though he were forcing himself to be jovial. Curtis Corbin's answering voice was cool and deliberate: "Well, did you make any progress?"

"Of a sort. Aline and her grand-aunt are coming out here tomorrow for a three-day visit."

There was a strained silence, then. "Now, listen, Dad, Rosa is not bad. She's just different from your brand of feminine society."

"That's neither here nor there."

DON WILLIAMS

Belleville, Ont.

There's no way we can explain her presence here. The Cartier women will be insulted. It'll ruin everything."

"I don't care if it does. This romance is your idea, not mine."

"Well, you'd better make it yours. I think I told you what would happen if you didn't carry out my plans. You've lived a soft life Stacy. You might find earring your own living not an easy proposition."

There was an ugly pause. When next he spoke, Stacy's voice was modified.

"Well they practically insisted on coming—there was nothing I could do. I'll fix things up O.K.—I'll give them a sob story about Rosa being sick and alone, and they'll think we're being kind to her. I'll explain it to Rosa; she's a good kid, she'll play along."

"She'd better," Corbin's voice rasped, "or we'll find some other solution for her."

The next afternoon Lotus watched the arrival of Aline Cartier and her spinster grand-aunt from her own gallery.

The aunt was a finely-drawn portrait of what Aline could expect to be at sixty—slight, erect, with an aristocratic head borne proudly on her slim aging shoulders.

Curtis Corbin strode down the terrace brick steps to greet them.

Lotus noted with amusement that he had undergone a strange metamorphosis of character. Now he was very much the gentleman of the Old South. He had donned a silk pongee suit and a flowing black tie. In his fingers was the ever-present expensive Havana cigar—which was not an affectation.

He bowed low over Miss Cartier's hand, as though he were about to kiss it. Evidently the same idea occurred to the older woman, for she withdrew it from his warm clasp with haste.

Lotus shrank back into the shadows as the foursome neared the house. Her thoughts were seething. It had never occurred to her that the Cartier family had been the previous owners of Belle Fleur. And considering the despicable manner in which Curtis Corbin had acquired it, how could Aline and her grand-aunt bring themselves to visit her? Stacy must have done his job well — evidently Aline had fallen head over heels in love.

When the group was in the house Lotus slipped down the stairs and across the grounds to her rendezvous with Stu Lawrence.

He was there in the pirogue, looking as ill-kept and fierce as ever. His eyes were an amber color, and from the shadow of the cypress and the swarthy face of his bearded face, they peered back at her like some wild beast's. To her dismay, she felt her heartbeat quicken at the sight of him.

She told him about the snake and the new arrivals at Belle Fleur, then, though she longed to linger, left hurriedly, for fear Lachene would discover her. Since that first meeting with Lawrence, the gardener always seemed to be somewhere in the background when she thought she was alone—suddenly appearing to cut the grass or prune the bushes or pick flowers for Belle Fleur's Sevres vases. She was certain that Curtis Corbin had assigned him to watch her.

As she re-entered the house, she was introduced to the newcomers. From their lack of astonishment, she realized that Stacy and his father had already prepared the Cartier women with their sob story, but in spite of this, the older woman was unable to prevent a faint frown of displeasure from wrinkling her forehead.

In the garden below, Stacy was making love to Aline Cartier, even urging an immediate marriage. He was suggesting that he bring a minister to Belle Fleur to perform the wedding during their visit, so that old Mr. Cartier could not interfere. To Lotus' dismay, Aline was peculiarly acquiescent to everything he said.

In a moment the elder Miss Cartier entered her own bedroom.

Her voice was inclined to be high and at this moment indignation made it shrill. . . .

"Aline, I'm astonished at Stacy inviting us here when that Miss Kirkman is around—it's sheer effrontery!"

"Hush, she'll hear you!"

"Oh, I've nothing against the girl personally—she's really quite pretty and charming, but a carbaret entertainer, and unchaperoned!"

"But Mr. Corbin explained all that—he said she was sick and had no friends or any place to go."

"Humph! Looks healthy enough to me. And Curtis Corbin doesn't strike me as an exactly kindhearted individual."

There was a pause, then Miss Cartier said in a querulous tone, "What were you and Stacy talking about in the garden all evening?"

"He wants me to marry him, Tan-te."

"Marry you, eh? Let me look in your eyes, child—you're not deeply in love with him, are you, Aline?"

"Noooo, but it would mean getting Belle Fleur back in the family."

Lotus was astonished by old Miss Cartier's words. It was almost as though she were willing to let Aline make an unhappy marriage if it meant getting Belle Fleur back in possession of the Cartier family.

And how misguided they both were to think that!

When the lights were off in all the rooms extending off the broad gallery, she left her own room and tiptoed to the French doors opening onto Aline's.

The soft, luminescent light from the stars showed the deep shadows of the massive Victorian furniture and the small, huddled figure of Aline in the vast spaciousness of her bed.

She's like a water lily, the older girl thought, and almost as fragile. She crossed the room and sat down on the edge of the bed.

Miss Cartier, I must talk to you!" Her whisper was urgent.

"How dare you come into my room!"

Aline reached for her silken bed jacket. "I can think of nothing we could discuss in common."

Her young voice shook with anger and snobbery.

Lotus gave an exasperated little sigh. She would have to overcome this barrier of class distinction between Aline and herself before she could talk to the girl intelligently.

"My cafe job is only a temporary expedient," she said now.

"What do you mean?"

"I can't explain further, and it doesn't matter. Miss Cartier, I came in to tell you that you must not marry Stacy Corbin."

"So that's it!"

Aline sucked in her breath in a queer, sibilant little hiss. "I suppose you're going to tell me that you're Stacy's mistress?"

"No, that's not true. Stacy means nothing to me."

"Then what do you care whether I marry him or not?"

"Because if you do you'll be involving yourself, your family name and all it stands for in a scandal that will make the headlines of every newspaper in the country."

"Are you threatening me?"

"No, I'm trying to save you from a tragic mistake."

Aline's voice was curious now. "But why?"

"I can't tell you any more, Aline, unless you promise not to repeat a word of it. I'm not exaggerating when I say my life would be worth absolutely nothing if Curtis Corbin knew I was talking to you this way."

Q. We are making a house over into apartments. At present we are working on the house and hope to have it ready for occupancy in a month. Are we free from rent controls?

A. No . . . reconverted housing is still under rental control and you will have to apply to the Prices Board for a rental fixation. However, new housing accommodation after January 1, 1947 is free from rent control.

Q. May I take as much food as I like to England? I will be staying about six months' and would like a complete list of what I will be allowed to take.

A. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has no jurisdiction over such matters. Consult an official in the office where you purchased your steamship ticket. Generally information may be obtained there. CLEAR TRUCK DRIVER IN DEATH OF COOK

BELLEVILLE, July 7th. — At the postponed inquest looking into the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Gawley, 64-year-old cook at the Ontario School for the Deaf, who was struck and killed instantly early June 19th by a west-bound transport as she stepped off a bus in front of the Ontario School for the Deaf, the jurors returned a verdict of accidental death, attaching no blame to the driver of the transport.

PARABLE OF THE HOT DOG

The following article from the Springs Bulletin, of Springs Cotton Mills, entitled "A Story with a Moral", presents a corollary to current business conditions in the textile industry.

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs. He was hard of hearing so he had no radio. He had trouble with his eyes so he read no newspapers. But he sold good hot dogs. He was a firm believer in advertising, so he put up signs along the highway advertising the merits of his hot dogs, and he stood by the road and cried, "Buy a hot dog, Mister!" and people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders. He bought a bigger store to take care of his trade. Finally business became so good that he brought his son from the city to help him. Then something happened. His son said: "Father, haven't you been reading the newspapers? There is a big depression on. The European situation is terrible. The domestic situation is worse. Everything is going to pot."

Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son has been to college. He has lived in the city with big business men. He reads the papers and listens to the radio. He ought to know." So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, curtailing his advertising and no longer bothered to stand by the highway and call out his wares.

His sales fell off almost overnight. He said to his boy, "You were right, son. We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

LATE MRS. C. U. HEATH

The funeral of Mrs. Lottie Amelia (Bailey) Heath, wife of Mr. C. Urban Heath, was largely attended on Thursday afternoon.

The funeral cortege proceeded from her late residence at Harold to Bethel United Church where the Rev. N. Cole conducted an impressive service and based his message on the text "And they shall serve Him."

Miss Nina Dracup and her sister, Mrs. Frederick Beckett, of Wellman's sang "I Have Heard of The Land."

The bearers were Messrs. S. J. Elliott, Charles Morton, John Green, John Scott, Theodore Cooney and Donald Stewart. The interment took place in the family plot at Bethel.

Her husband who is in Belleville hospital was able to attend the private service in the home.

Chest Clinic To Be Held Here

The Department of Tuberculosis Prevention of the Provincial Department of Health will make a mass survey as far as Tuberculosis is concerned in the village of Stirling and the surrounding communities on Thursday, July 24th, and Friday, July 25th. The mobile unit will be located in front of the Community Building and will begin operating at 2 p.m. The hours on Thursday will be 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. Friday 10 to 12 noon, 2 to 5.15 and 7 to 10 p.m.

Included in the survey will be all residents with the exception of children under 12 years of age, and those individuals under periodic "check up" by their physicians or by the clinic. No reports are made on negative films and any reports made out are made to the family physician. The individual is requested to consult his or her family physician regarding the report. A repeat film will be taken on anyone whose film was spoiled or whose film showed abnormality. These films will be taken at the chest clinic in Belleville in about two weeks time.

An X Ray will take only a few moments of each person's time. No appointment is necessary. Just come to the Community Building where the mobile unit is located and you will be looked after immediately. The equipment can handle 100 persons an hour. The films will be read by experts and are accurate. An improvement in the taking of mass survey films has been introduced in that it is not necessary to remove clothing.

The ladies are requested to wear as far as possible simple upper garments without ornaments and buttons. They will be required to remove their coats or jackets only. Men will be requested to remove their suit coats and vests, dropping the suspenders (if any) from the shoulders.

Tuberculosis of the lungs if found in the early stages and treated is almost always completely curable. Nevertheless, nearly as many Canadians died from this disease during the war years as were killed by enemy action. More persons die from tuberculosis in Ontario than from all other infectious diseases combined. Many of these are needless deaths. Tuberculosis is a disease that can be controlled. It is highly communicable and too often it is not discovered until it has reached advanced stages. Only the X Ray plate can discover the disease in the early stages.

The coming of this mobile chest clinic to this community for a stay of two days is an opportunity that no one should miss. There is no financial cost to the individual, just a few moments of his time is all that is needed and the hours of operation are such that every one can avail himself of its wonderful services. Remember the hours: Thursday, July 24th, from 2 to 5.15 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. Friday, 10 to 12 noon, 2 to 5.15 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. The public is strongly urged to embrace this golden opportunity.

ST. PAUL'S W.A.

The July meeting of St. Paul's Women's Association was held at the summer cottage of Mrs. Nora Wescott and Mrs. Nina Morton, Oak Lake, on Tuesday afternoon, July 8th, with a splendid attendance. The president, Mrs. Walter Elliott presided over the business portion of the meeting which opened with the singing of the Theme song, and prayer by the president. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, and several acknowledgements of cards and letters received during June, also reported six cards and four letters sent during the past month. The visiting committee, Mrs. A. E. Bradburn and Mrs. H. David reported fourteen calls made during the month of June.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. B. Thompson presented a very complete and most satisfactory financial report. Mrs. W. Preston convener of the Friendly Worker's Group gave an interesting and up to date report of their splendid work, and this energetic group gave a donation of twenty dollars to the W.A. Mrs. E. Bradburn reported for the Parsonage Committee.

The Carmel invitation to their W.A. 25 cent Tea to be held in Carmel United Church, July 17th was accepted. Two new members joined at this meeting. The September meeting will be held on Tuesday, September 2nd, at the home of Mrs. P. Utman.

The programme was in charge of Mrs. J. B. Thompson, which opened with the singing of hymn 341. Scripture readings were given by Mrs. C. Pitman, Mrs. K. Belcour, and Mrs. W. West. Mrs. A. Fraser gave a very interesting reading, entitled, "Fools".

The guest speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. A. Wells presented an excellent address on "The Events That Are Taking Place In School Management". For the past few years we have been struggling with a new course. There is something inspiring in the conviction that the process of bringing to light this new course is benefitting the child greatly and that order out of chaos is gradually taking shape. With this new course one must remember that the old order changeth yielding place to new. To-day our school curriculum is aimed at fitting the child for the future. Vocational guidance is fast finding its place in schools. This in particular offers a transition from school to working life. We do need an extension of the vocational guidance movement, which already exists in Canada and we need guidance which guides. To-day children are treated as individuals with the rights as Canadian citizens to gain that self-confidence so essential for a happy school life.

The school and home clubs which are organized in some communities cannot be praised too highly. They are an excellent tie between the parent and teacher and do much to smooth out many little difficulties which may arise. We have an organization known as UNESCO which stands for "United Nations Educa-

Legion Loses In Play-Offs

Stirling Legionnaires were eliminated in two straight games from the District Legion League by Madoc during the past week.

On Thursday night on the diamond at the local Fair Grounds Madoc defeated Stirling 22-10 in a weird game. Scoring four runs in the first and fourth innings, Stirling were leading 8 to 5 at the end of the fifth, but the roof caved in on them in the sixth, when the visitors, aided by a comedy of errors on the part of the locals, racked up fourteen runs to gain an insurmountable lead. They added three more in the seventh for good measure for their total of 22.

In the return game at Madoc on Monday night, the homesters also won 10-8 after a thrilling struggle featured by lengthy arguments.

Stirling L.O.B.A., No. 655, and Stirling L.O.L., No. 110, celebrated 25th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne on Saturday, July 12th. The county of Central Hastings comprising 20 lodges assembled in the beautiful village of Flinton. The odd shower of rain in the forenoon did not dampen the enthusiasm of some two or three thousand citizens who were loyal to the 12th of July tradition. From early in the morning until well on in the afternoon motor cars and trucks poured into this northern village.

Fifers on Hand

The usual fife and drum bands provided music for the occasion. The ladies of the village and surrounding district provided a fine dinner under the spacious tent that accommodated the huge crowds following the dinner hour.

County Master Albert McTaggart and County Marshal Harry Morgan arranged the parade, and those in attendance witnessed one of the most colorful parades seen in years. The Tweed Salvation Army Band provided most acceptable music for the occasion.

Speeches Made

At the conclusion of the parade County Master Albert McTaggart, of Tweed, presided over a short programme of speeches. Those taking part were Rev. Douglass Clarke and many resident ministers. Others who praised the work and influence of the Orange Order were John Pringle M. P.P., Geo. Ketcheson, Past Co-Master, Archie Sinclair, of Tweed, Mr. Potts, of Marmora and County Secretary Arthur Wilson. The Tweed Salvation Army Band furnished music during the programme. Many prominent Orangemen were noticed on the grounds. Some of whom have been over fifty years members of the association and most of whom have never missed a 12th celebration. Samuel Kelly, of Halloway, Mr. Potts, of Marmora, John Geen, of Thomasburg, William Hagerman, of Minto and Robert Woods, of Madoc were among those listed.

Softball Game

A softball game attracted the younger generation. The teams competing were Cooper and Queensboro with Cooper carrying off the honours 7-2.

A Tailorcraft airplane owned by the Denison Bros., of Napanee, was seen over the village most of the afternoon and evening giving many their first ride in an airplane.

Next year the county of Central Hastings will celebrate the 12th with the residents of Malone.

Section Men Jump To Save Lives

Three local Canadian National Railway section employees narrowly escaped death Friday morning when the gasoline "jigger" on which they were riding crashed head-on into a freight engine on a curve about two miles east of this village.

All three jumped before the crash with Kent and Taylor sustaining multiple bruises and arm and facial lacerations, while Chambers escaped with minor injuries. The jigger was a total wreck.

The injured men were taken to Belleville Hospital by ambulance for medical treatment.

Charles N. Heath New Secretary of Cheese Patrons' Association

At a meeting of the executive of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association in Toronto recently, Charles N. Heath was appointed secretary and manager to succeed Stanley L. Joss, who has resigned.

Mr. Heath now lives in Brantford and is manager of the Brantford Produce Company, Limited, a firm which owns two cheese factories. He has had considerable experience in the industry. He takes over his new duties with the Association on August 1 and Mr. Joss has agreed to remain with him for some time.

Announcement of the new appointment was made by John I. Ballantyne, president of the Association.

Born On Farm

The new secretary was born on a dairy farm near Springbrook, ten miles north of Stirling, in Hastings County, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Heath, still reside. Mr. Heath obtained his primary education at Springbrook and, after spending eight years working on his father's farm and for neighbors, entered O.A.C. at Guelph in 1929 as a member of the Associate course. During the intervening years between public school and college he took an active part in juior farmer activities.

After completing the Associate Course, Mr. Heath, bitten by the bug for further education, continued at the college by taking the intermediate year; the following year choosing the animal husbandry option and graduating in 1934. His thirst for knowledge did not stop here, however. That fall he took a poultry specialist's course under the tutelage of Dr. Graham and upon completion was engaged as a salesman for farm produce.

Handled Cheese

Following this he entered the services of Swift and Company, specializing in their dairy and poultry department, where he remained for nine years. While an employee of Swift at their three Ontario plants in Stratford, Belleville and Hanover, he not only bought and sold cheese but received, warehoused and shipped it.

In May, 1945, he was engaged as manager of the Brantford Produce Co. Limited, and during his term of office the company purchased two cheese factories in Western Ontario, one of which was destroyed by fire three months after purchase. Mr. Heath was responsible for rebuilding and, although the old building had burned in March, he was producing cheese on July 1 in the new building. His experience in managing and operating cheese factories has given him a keen insight into the problems confronting the producer.

Mr. Heath is married and has a young daughter, Sharon, who is approaching two years of age. He is an active member of the United Church, a Rotarian, and a member of A.F. & A.M. 432, Hanover. He is a keen fisherman, interested in all sports and particularly enjoys harness horse racing. Five of his family have made cheese and three are still at it—Thomas, at Shamrock factory, Stirling, and Murray and "Bud" who operate the new Rylestone factory. — Ottawa Farm Journal.

Uncle Hy Says

(Copyright 1947 H. M. Moore)

The little man who lives next door is quite a lad though only four, he plays with tools I find would use, and tears his clothes and skins his shoes, and tells me when he is a man he'll build a house, a barn, a van, a fence, a gate, a trailer too, when he's a man that's what he'll do.

The little man who lives next door cannot saw a two by four, or drive a nail both straight and true, or plane a board the way I do, but with my brace and bit in hand, without regard to my command, will bore 'mid stone and ash and lime, while I keep working all the time, or through a door or table top, until I tell him he must stop.

The little man who lives next door gets in my heart just more and more, and as he does I'd like to know what his future has in store, a mighty leader he may be, in science, arts, philosophy, an athlete big and strong no doubt, a public figure standing out, but then I'll lose him, selfish me, I wish those things should never be.

What Others Say!

MINISTERS' STIPENDS

(Brockville Recorder & Times)
It is strange that whereas nearly everyone else is now getting more for his goods, his work or his services than he used to obtain, the minister is expected to get along on the same old stipend. And let no one imagine that his costs have not also risen.

IT JUST SHOWS

(Peterborough Examiner)

Liquor is sold in Prince Edward Island only for medicinal purposes, and last year the bill for it was $1,188,855 for a population of 95,000. This just shows what happens when a district digs in its heels and refuses to succumb to the lures of the rum-bottle—everybody gets sick.

STRANGERS WITHIN OUR GATES

(Gananoque Reporter)

This is tourist time. Indications during opening days of the holiday season were that the flow of visitors to Canada this year may break all records.

That's a tip to the wise to make an extra effort to make these guests welcome and especially to give them any information they ask concerning travel routes and accommodation. Many of them are on their first visit to Canada. If they like the treatment they receive, they'll probably be back next year.

Tourist camps and information centres do their best to please the visitors. It's good business as well as good manners for the rest of us to do so, too, because tourist dollars bring widespread benefits.

It's easy enough to direct an inquiring visitor to the business section, the post office or a tourist camp. But if someone asks you how the town got its name, can you tell him? Do you know the name of the first settler, the nature of the first industry and the reason it was established? Of course, you know the population off-hand.

If the visitor is interested in seeing places of historic interest within a few miles, can you tell him how to reach them and why they are interesting? To be prepared for this one may call for a little advance inquiry or research at the town hall or public library. Some enterprising communities hand visitors booklets with this information.

Small matters? Yes, but important. Accurate, intelligent answers to tourists' questions may help influence a party to spend a day or a week in your town instead of driving through to the next one.

After all, tourists are on a holiday and they pick pleasant, friendly spots to stop. And courtesy and consideration will help bring them back next year.

River Valley Study Group

The June meeting of the River Valley Study Group was held at the home of Mrs. Stanley Irvine with an attendance of ten members and five visitors. The meeting opened with the singing of hymn 4, after which the president led in prayer. The minutes were read and approved. All present answered the Roll Call with the first line of a hymn.

It was decided to hold the July meeting at the home of Mrs. Phil Conley with Eleanor to prepare the programme and Mrs. Stanley Irvine the Study Book.

Mr. Brazill kindly consented to come down and show the slides on the Study Book of India. This was very much enjoyed by all and our sincere thanks go to Mr. Brazill for his kindness.

Eleanor favoured us with a piano solo. All enjoyed the fourth chapter of the Study Book so ably prepared by Mrs. Sager. Mrs. Roy Bush read a poem, and the meeting closed with the singing of hymn 12 and repeating the benediction.

A bountiful lunch was served by the hostess which was much enjoyed by all.

OLD RAZOR BROUGHT TO CANADA IN 1842

Fred Wiggins, Deloro, recently received an interesting heirloom. It is a bone-handled short blade razor which his great-grandfather, George Wiggins, brought with him from Belfast, Ireland, when coming to this country in 1842. The blade is inscribed, "Joseph Rodgers and Sons, Cutlery to Their Majesties, No. 6, Norfolk Street, Sheffield." Mr. Wiggins says that his brother Frank was the last to shave with it about 25 years ago.

PRO HOCKEY MAN BACK TO TRENTON

Herb Mitchell, associated with professional hockey in Montreal and Boston in recent years, has returned to Trenton to be associated with Ed Simmons, druggist.

Herb was well known here when his father, the late J. A. Mitchell operated Fraser's Drug Store. He and Mrs. Mitchell will take up residence at 39 West Street.

WHAT NEXT?

What's scarce now? Lumber, nails, plumbing or wiring equipment... the list is endless. No sooner is one problem solved than another comes along. The scarcity of materials has delayed the completion of many new Hydro projects. This, combined with a greatly increased demand, has limited the power supply.

Never has Ontario used so much electricity as now... not even during the record-breaking war years. Another half million horsepower could be utilized almost immediately, if available. Hydro plants to generate that much and more have been planned and are under construction. Some additional power will be delivered this year... more in 1948. But it will be 1950 before the big new Hydro plant on the Ottawa river can start to pour its 360,000 horsepower into the Hydro system.

Why so long? It's because of the shortage of building supplies... a tremendous quantity of construction materials and electrical equipment must be sought and bought to build such a plant. The Ottawa river development alone requires a concrete dam nearly half a mile long, in addition to the power house and the thousands of items of electrical equipment, small and large. Building a new power plant often creates an entirely new community. It takes a long time... especially when materials are as scarce as they are now.

Few places in the world have as much electricity available per person as Ontario has. However, it must be conserved so that new homes and industries will all receive their share... so that the wheels of our factories will be kept turning and maximum employment and production maintained... use Hydro wisely and there will be enough for all.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

HOG MARKETING UP

For the first time in nearly two years, hog marketings in Canada show a definite upward trend, says the Current Review of Agricultural Conditions in Canada. Total marketings for the Dominion during April, 1947, were approximately the same as for April, 1946. In May, however, the total for the month showed an 8 per cent increase over the corresponding month of 1946.

The upward trend in hog marketings, says the Review, is due entirely to a substantial increase in Eastern Canada, particularly in Quebec. Total hog marketings of hogs during April, 1947, in this province showed an increase of 42 per cent, over April 1946, and the monthly total for May was up 73.4 per cent over May, 1946. Ontario marketings increased 26 per cent. In April as compared with April 1946; and in May, 1947, the increase over May, 1946, was nearly 33 per cent.

In April, 1947, marketings of hogs in Western Canada were about 30 per cent below April 1946, but the per cent decrease for the month of May, 1947, dropped to 21 per cent, as compared with May, 1946.

TO KEEP GARDEN FREE FROM SLUGS

Slugs are the grey, snail-like creatures which rasp the leaves of tender vegetables, leaving a slimy trail on the foliage and on the soil beneath the plants. They shun daylight and thrive only where there is an abundance of moisture, being most troublesome in rainy seasons, in damp shady corners of the garden, and in low-lying areas of heavy land. Slugs will feed on almost all vegetables, but are particularly fond of beans, lettuce, cabbage, and cauliflower. They attack celery in the bleaching process. They eat shallow circular pits in the fruits of tomatoes, and in the autumn they bore into the roots of carrots and beets.

Plants in infested soil may be protected by a thin film of hydrated lime which is dusted over the foliage and on the ground in the evening after the sun has gone down and feeding has commenced, says W. G. Mattewson, Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Hydrated lime is effective only when dry, and for this reason a few dustings at intervals of three or four days is much more effective than one heavy application.

The lower as well as the upper surfaces of the leaves, should be covered and the surrounding soil should be coated in such a way that the slugs will have to crawl through the dust before they can reach the plants, or the plants may be sprayed thoroughly with bordeaux mixture. This material is repellent to the slugs, and plants kept covered with the spray will be largely protected from attack.

Baits consisting of metaldehyde and bran have given satisfactory control of slugs in small gardens but are too expensive for use under field conditions. They may be bought ready-mixed at most seed stores and should be used according to the manufacturer's directions.

VARIABLE FORECAST 1947 APPLE CROP

Adverse weather throughout Eastern Canada has delayed development of the fruit crops, states the first official report on the fruit and vegetable crops produced in Canada in 1947. The report is issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in co-operation with the Marketing Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, and the Provincial Departments of Agriculture, and says that in the two principal producing provinces of Nova Scotia and British Columbia the first apple estimates indicate reductions of 30 and 22 per cent respectively. In Ontario, on the other hand, an increase of 43 per cent is anticipated.

Pears and plums will be lighter than in 1946, but the complete estimates were not available at the time of issue of the report on June 23.

Peach production will be lower, due to the poor set of fruit in Ontario. Production in British Columbia is expected to be 15 per cent better than in 1946, while the Ontario crop will be 45 per cent lighter.

Apricots, which are produced commercially only in British Columbia, are practically the same as a year ago, when it was good.

Cherry production, as a whole, is down as a result of a poor crop in Ontario. In British Columbia an increase of 5 per cent is anticipated at present.

Reports on the grape crop are not complete, but in Ontario, where the bulk of this fruit is grown, production is expected to be about the same as in 1946.

DIPPING SHEEP HELPS KEEP THEM HEALTHY

Farmers who raise sheep know that sheep kept free from ticks and lice are in better health, are more easily kept in good condition, eat less, and grow more wool, all of which means more profit.

Sheep owners also know that sheep should be dipped at least once a year—preferably as soon as possible after shearing, but many owners give their flocks a second dipping in the fall in September or October to ensure the comfort and the health of the sheep during the winter.

Where a community dipping tank is not convenient for small flocks in distant parts, it is not necessary to construct an elaborate dipping plant. A large barrel or trough large enough to hold sufficient dip to immerse a sheep will answer the purpose. A small draining platform can easily be built so that the dipped sheep may stand until the dip has drained off.

Most standard dips will produce effective results, provided the directions of the manufacturers are carefully followed. Dips are sold in two forms—powder and liquid. The powder form requires a little longer to prepare and more caution and exactitude in the preparation of the bath. However, it has the advantage claimed by the manufacturers that the powder sediment remains long enough in the fleece to kill eggs when they hatch. The liquid form has the advantage of being easier to prepare and is effective, but, to ensure complete eradication, a second dipping in two or three weeks is recommended. This is a safeguard applicable to all forms of dip. Young lambs should be kept away from the ewes for some hours after dipping, because the dip from the fleece invariably runs off the points of the teats, and there have been cases of nursing lambs having been poisoned.

THE WEED OF THE WEEK

"Bladder Campion"

"Bladder Campion," "Cow Bell," or "Rattle Weed" as it is sometimes called is becoming far too prevalent in Ontario. It is a deep rooted, freely branching, perennial, spreading both by seeds and rootstalks, and is sometimes mis-named "White Cockle" or "Catch Fly." While the seeds of these three weeds are very hard to distinguish from each other, "Bladder Campion" can be identified by its freely branching stems, its smooth leaves found in pairs meeting around the stem, white flowers found in loose clusters which are often drooping, and inflated bell-shaped calyx or seed pod. It is from this seed pod the plant derives the name "Bladder Campion."

Due to the difficulty in killing its deep roots, its freely branching stems which choke out all other growth, the number of seeds produced on an average plant, and the difficulty in removing the seeds from clover and timothy seeds, this weed has become a serious one in Ontario. Adapted to high lands, it soon becomes established if neglected. A good sized plant will have a root over two feet long with numerous root stalks. Any portion of the root which has a bud may produce a new plant. By continual cultivation, this root may be weakened until it finally dies. Salt applied to the root after cutting in hot dry weather has been found effective for scattered plants.

When this weed becomes established in rough stony land, its eradication is a very difficult matter. When growing around stones, fence lines, railways and road sides, cultivation is impossible. Spraying with a chlorate weed killer is recommended in such cases. All livestock relish "Bladder Campion", and one need not worry about any plants maturing seed in a field that is being pastured. It is folly and a waste of time to attempt to clean it up with poor machinery. Deep plowing with a sharp share immediately after the crop has been removed, followed by thorough cultivation both ways with broad shares which overlap on the cultivator, at regular intervals all fall until freeze up and again the following spring, followed by a hoed crop, another crop or an annual crop. It may be necessary to follow this practice two years in succession or summer fallow for an entire season to clean it up. The main object should be to grow crops on infested fields that can be taken off before seeds mature and to get on the land as soon as possible after. Annual hay crops, hoe crops and buckwheat are excellent. Thorough cultivation in hot dry weather is effective. Infested fields should not be seeded down until this weed is brought under control. An average plant will produce from 10,000 to 20,000 seeds.

"SALADA" TEA

The importance of roguing clover and timothy fields being kept for seed can not be emphasized too strongly. "Bladder Campion" seed is difficult to separate from clover and timothy seeds. Roguing of fields is time well spent and is a job every member of the family can help at. This seed is primary noxious under the Seeds Act. Be careful of the source of your seed and purchase clover and timothy seeds that are entirely free from these weed seeds.

"Bladder Campion" is included in the list of noxious weeds under the Ontario Weed Control Act. The Act demands that weeds be destroyed before seeds mature. Special care should be taken to see that all neglected places are cleaned up.

NEW TRAFFIC RULING

An ambulance has not the right to pass through a red traffic light, even if on an emergency call and sounding its siren. This was the finding of Mr. Justice P. E. F. Smyly, Toronto, this week in reversing the decision of a London Ontario, court which had dismissed a dangerous driving charge against an ambulance operator whose vehicle crashed a bus at an intersection.

Britain is on double summer time until August 10th, seven hours ahead of Canadian Eastern Central time.

'BEAVER' WINS CANE

A century-old tradition was re-enacted in the Port of Montreal when a gold-headed cane was presented to Capt. J. Bisset Smith, O.B.E., skipper of the Canadian Pacific Steamships cargo-passenger liner Beaverburn, for being the first to bring a deep-sea ship into Canada's greatest port this year. Capt. Smith, a veteran of both wars, docked his vessel a scant hour ahead of his nearest rival, climaxing one of the closest races of several years. Above, he is seen receiving the cane from A. G. Murphy, port manager, while William Manson, system vice-president of the C.P.R., looks on.

PRICE REDUCED ON EXPORT CHEESE

Expectation by buyers that any cheese purchased would go for export to Great Britain resulted in a decline of cheese prices on Belleville Cheese Board Thursday evening.

So far this year all cheese sold on the board had been f. o. b. factory, but with expectation of overseas shipment buyers reduced prices Thursday evening by the amount of transportation and handling charges between the factory and the factory shipping point.

Seventy colored cheese sold at 26 5-8 cents while 2,566 white cheese sold at 25 15-16 cents and 1,675 cheese at 24 7-8 cents.

According to buyers, Kingston and Napanee boards held the same day had received notification from J. F. Singleton reminding that the price for export cheese would be f.o.b. shipping point and this procedure had been carried out. Earlier in the season all district boards had passed resolutions calling for prices for domestic cheese to be f.o.b. factory.

$23,000 FIRE IN BELLEVILLE
Damage estimated at $23,000 was done to the Swift Canadian Co. plant at Belleville, early Monday. Lightning went through the roof. The poultry processing department was gutted by fire. Damage to contents was given as $15,000. Firemen prevented the blaze from spreading to other parts of the building.

ing and walking, important always, became more urgent in the summer months, Mr. Rowan said. The great increase in vehicular traffic, the thousands of school children on holiday, plus the carefree attitude of holiday drivers, added to the accident hazards on our streets and highways.

Whitton Family Reunion

Nearly a hundred relatives from all parts of Ontario as well as Saskatchewan and the United States gathered at the Bay Breeze Inn, Trenton last Saturday for the Witton Clan Reunion.

The occasion took the form of a picnic and the guests enjoyed a delicious dinner on the spacious lawn. The tables were set in the shade of speeches amused the large gathering the huge trees and games, races and during the afternoon. A programme over radio station CJBQ was dedicated to the older members of the clan.

A unanimous vote of appreciation was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Redditt, proprietors of the Bay Breeze Inn, for their splendid hospitality and it was agreed to hold the reunion there again next year.

Came In 1839

Mr. and Mrs. James Whitton arrived in Canada from England about the year 1839 and settled in Glenburnie near Kingston. They came to Seymour about 1849 and kept what they called "Whitton's Inn" on the farm of the late Andrew Watson, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Murray. Shortly afterwards they moved to the farm between the 6th and 7th concessions.

The house was roughcast, three-story with underground basement used for a summer kitchen and also a room for a cheese vat where Mrs. Whitton, along with Miss Badgley, made the first cheese of Northumberland County.

About 1883, Mr. Whitton sold his farm to the late John Glassford, of Kingston, moving to Campbellford. There was a family of 15 children, eight boys and seven girls. Part of the family received their education in a log school situated at the east corner below Burnbrae Church on the north side of the road with Thomas Hume as teacher. The rest attended the old stone school at Burnbrae between the 6th and 7th concessions which was burned down later. Mrs. Whitton died August 5, 1868 and Mr. Whitton, November 19th, 1887.

A total of 45 members of the clan served in the two world wars. Four were killed in World War II, and one in World War I.

Improvements To Ford Tractor

WINDSOR, Ontario.—An improved hydraulic system and linkage attachment for implements, a new drawbar height control mechanism and various other improvements are features of the new Model 8N Ford tractor announced here today by Gordon McColl, Tractor Sales Manager of Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

Mr. McColl said initial shipments would be made shortly to Ford and Monarch dealers who are Canadian distributors of the Ford tractor and agricultural implements.

While major improvements have been made in the tractor, the basic design of an all-purpose light-weight tractor adaptable to virtually all farming conditions has been retained. Of major interest to the thousands of farmers who have purchased farm implements for their present Ford Tractors is the fact that implements now in use with Ford tractors will operate with the new Model 8N. Parts for all models of Ford tractors will continue to be available through Ford and Monarch dealers.

New color scheme of the tractor is light grey and vermilion red. All implements will be vermilion red.

A fourth forward speed has been added giving a higher speed and a wider range of working speeds. For operator comfort and convenience, step-plates have been added as standard equipment. In conjunction with the step-plates is a new type seat which may be tilted back on a hinge so that the operator may drive standing up if he wishes.

The new seat may also be tilted back to keep it dry in the event of over-night rain or dew. Another addition is a hinged radiator grille which swings down to permit cleaning the radiator core.

Provision has been made on the centre housing to mount a swinging drawbar. An automotive type of steering gear and mechanical actuated duo-servo brakes are additional improvements. Overall weight of the tractor has been increased approximately 200 pounds.

Selling on extensive credits to Europe and buying in ever-increasing degrees from the United States for cash, the Canadian Government is now facing an exchange crisis which must be solved as quickly as possible, it is hinted in Ottawa, though it is no secret to observers here the re-imposition of wartime restrictions or controls as a means of solution is known to be quite popular even if such rumors have been circulating in this capital as a possibility. In addition, it is held that much depends on the success or failure of the so-called "Marshall Plan" to aid Europe through United States economic assistance because it is believed that Canada, closely tied up with various countries in trade dealings, especially the United States and the United Kingdom, would benefit from the "Marshall Plan" being carried out since this might ease considerably her own exchange crisis. In any case, current rumors about "drastic action," such as the re-imposition of certain wartime controls on exchange, does not seem to be backed by officials in Ottawa as a likely course which will follow shortly, though it is hinted in well-informed quarters that some action is coming but it would be of a broad overall nature tied in with other nation's efforts to solve their shortages of U.S. dollars.

MORE THAN IS KNOWN

Although the Government has disclosed that a master plan is in the making to create a beautiful national capital in Ottawa and that this will be the result of an all-Canadian effort of concern to the man-in-the-street throughout this country, not merely to residents of this city, yet it is reported here that much has not been disclosed about this far-reaching plan because it is feared so far that real estate values would skyrocket if all details were revealed at this time. In other words, when the job will be done, Canada's capital will be, it is suggested, one of the most beautiful cities in the world and this will require some spectacular changes such as no other city in Canada has ever undergone, with emphasis on its all-Canadian angle being seen in the Federal District Commission here representatives from all the nine provinces, this implying that this ambitious scheme is concern to everyone in this country and not merely local residents.

BOTTOM TO THE TOP

There is more, much more, to the demands of French-Canadian M.P.'s that a better system of appointments to the Civil Service of Canada should be adopted to correct the present under-representation of their race in the Government's services with the charge having been made that the Civil Service has about 12 per cent French-Canadian employees now as compared with over 20 per cent prior to the establishment of this Civil Service Commission-called "top jobs" in Ottawa where it is recognized that there has been much displeasure over the scarcity of French-Canadians not merely in the rank and file but in particular in the so-called "top jobs" in Ottawa where many high ranking officials are definitely handicapped by being unable to understand French in dealing with French-Canadian organizations, press, M.P.'s, and others. It is not merely a case of a French-Canadian, say observers, which has caused this widespread discontent but of bilingualism. In short, French-Canadian or not, the complaints are based on the lack of bilingualism rather than race qualifications, though, of course, there is some disappointment in French-Canadian circles that their members have not been appointed in proper proportion to population in recent years.

POSITION EXPLAINED

"The position of the merchant seaman has been well taken care of," said Reconstruction Minister Howe. "He is a man who has been put out of his job when the war ended. There are more jobs for Canadian merchant seamen than at any time during the war and there will be more jobs five years hence or at any rate three years hence than there are today."

He made this explanation on account of the widespread stories which have been spread that the Canadian Government was not treating these men in the right way after the great service they rendered during the war, pointing out that the wages of these men have increased more as a result of the war than the wages of any other line. "The men have kept all their wartime gains and bonuses and have had two or three substantial increases since the war ended," Mr. Howe emphasized. "I would say that the merchant seamen of Canada are in an excellent position today and they have a future which few other tradesmen in this country can look forward to."

STILL HOPE

It is noted that the Dominion-Provincial Taxation Agreement Bill has allowed any provinces, including Ontario and Quebec, to sign an agreement granting the Federal Government the use of the income, corporation and succession taxes in return for compensation, with definite clauses in that Bill permitting such future arrangements and no new legislation being required if this should occur. Significantly, for instance, both Ontario and Quebec are included in the possible minimum payments under such an agreement which would end in 1951, Ontario being mentioned for $67,158,027 and Quebec $56,382,127.

OBSTACLES FORESEEN

The proposal that labor unions in this country should purge Communists from their ranks through laws forbidding such men to hold office seems to have considerable approval as a principle but there are questions being asked if this can be done in a practical way since labor unions in Canada carry on under provincial as well as federal laws, with many difficulties being foreseen for its practical application, though it is pointed out that early in World War II an Order-in-Council did make the Communist Party illegal in this country until Russia entered the war and became an Ally so that this Order-in-Council was withdrawn at the time.

SAID IN THE CAPITAL

"Canada's voice has come to be the voice of one of the great powers in the world and, wherever it has been expressed, it has been expressed for the good of other nations as well as our own," said Premier Mackenzie King in the House of Commons.

"The Trade and Labour Congress of Canada has the highest regard for our friends in the legal fraternity," declared Percy Bengough, president, Trade and Labour Congress of Canada, before the Industrial Relations Committee of Parliament.

"Our only hope of meeting our problems in a democratic way is for ideas and information to get to people so that they can make up their own minds," remarked A. D. Dunton, Chairman, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in an address in this capital.

"It is just another example of the close co-operation between the United Kingdom and other members of the British Commonwealth," commented Right Hon. Francis M. Forde, the High Commissioner for Australia, officially opening in Ottawa a new Australian-made film, "The Overlanders," which received an enthusiastic reception here.

"England certainly is not finished," said Baron Rolf Beck, prominent British industrialist, who is visiting this Capital on important business.

"Everywhere I find the need to keep alive in the mind of the people an appreciation of the fact until we reach a much more advanced stage of international co-operation we must remain aware of the need to defend ourselves," said Defence Minister Claxton during a speech in Ottawa.

"I suppose the treaties represent the best that could be done," remarked Angus MacInnis, M.P., during a debate on certain peace treaties in the House of Commons.

"Any Bill of Rights, by nature, would be restrictive," stated F. P. Varcoe, K.C., Deputy Minister of Justice, testifying before the Commons-Senate Committee on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms.

WEEKLY WIND-UP

It is possible that several Australian doctors may come to Canada in an exchange plan.

Tourists spent $221,000,000 in Canada last year and they are expected to spend even more this year.

Suggestions are heard here that more money should be used by the National Gallery of Canada to buy paintings and these suggestions have reached Parliament, with the emphasis in the House of Commons being that more paintings by Canadian artists might be included.

A contract has been awarded here for the supply and installation of an automatic and supervisory fire-alarm system in the Parliamentary Library. Justice Minister Ilsley has stated that there was little possibility of the Government paying the legal expenses of persons acquitted on charges arising out of the espionage investigation.

Watson Sellar, Auditor-General, told the Commons Public Accounts Committee that "he was pretty generous in his entertaining," in commenting on a sum of $900 spent for entertainment purposes in London by a National Film Board employee, with $400 being refunded by the employee when it was decided that $500 was sufficient for this item.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner has made it clear that the British-Russian negotiations for a wheat agreement would have no effect on the four-year Anglo-Canadian wheat pact.

Hello Homemakers! "Cook" and be cool with a refrigerator! Take shortcuts to cool summer cooking by storing in your electric refrigerator an adequate supply of crisp vegetables and flavorful fruits, chilled fruit juices and even dough and batter to be baked on short notice. Frozen desserts and gelatine dishes are increasingly popular and for this reason the refrigerator is taking its rightful place in the kitchen alongside the range. We think your family will enthusiastically demand encore when you serve the following well-tested recipes.

Vanilla Ice Cream

1½ cups top milk, 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 tsp. corn starch, 1-8 tsp. salt, ½ pint (1 cup) cream, 2 tps. vanilla.

Scald milk. Beat egg yolks, adding sugar and cornstarch. Combine with hot milk and cook over water 20 to 25 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool. Beat egg whites until stiff. Add salt and fold into custard; add vanilla. Pour into tray and freeze to a heavy mush. Remove from electric refrigerator and beat until fluffy. Fold in whipped cream and return to freezing tray to finish freezing.

Variations

Peach Ice Cream—Flavor vanilla ice cream with ½ tsp. vanilla and ½ tsp. almond extract, and add 1½ cups mashed and sweetened peaches when folding in whipped cream.

Peanut Brittle Ice Cream—Add 1 cup to 1½ cup crushed (rolled) peanut brittle to vanilla ice cream when folding in whipped cream.

Macaroon Bisque—Flavour vanilla ice cream with sherry flavouring and add ½ cup almond macaroon crumbs when folding in whipped cream.

ORANGE FLUFF

1 cup granulated sugar, 2-3 cups cold water, grated rind 2 oranges, 1 cup orange juice, 1 tsp. granulated gelatin, 1 tsp. cold water, 2 cups whipping cream.

Cook together the sugar and the 2-3 cup cold water in a saucepan on Low heat until a little of the mixture dropped in cold water forms a soft ball. Remove from the heat and add the grated orange rind, 1 cup orange juice, and the gelatin which has been sprinkled over 1 tsp. of the cold water. Cool thoroughly. Whip the cream with a hand beater or an electric mixer at high speed until stiff, then add the orange mixture. Pour 2 cup orange juice into the bottom of a freezing tray of an electric refrigerator. Pour the orange cream mixture on top and freeze without stirring until set. Serves 6 to 8.

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

1 cup boiling water, 1 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1½ cups bran, 1½ tps. salt 2 eggs, 2 cakes compressed yeast, 1 cup lukewarm water, 7 to 8 cups flour.

Pour boiling water over the shortening and stir until melted. Add sugar, bran and salt and mix well. When cool add beaten eggs, yeast cakes dissolved in the lukewarm water. Add flour and knead until smooth. Put dough into a bowl and spread with a little melted shortening and cover with wax paper. Set in the refrigerator until ready to use. Cut off small amounts of the dough and shape in balls and place in grease muffin pan. Cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in preheated electric oven (400 degrees) for about 20 minutes. Makes 33 dozen rolls.

TAKE A TIP

1. Wet the bottom of freezing tray containing cream mix to make freezing quicker.

2. Beat ice cream mix as soon as it is frozen to a mush; then return to refrigerator.

3. Excessive sugar or syrup prevents freezing.

4. If the refrigerator needs defrosting, freezing will be slow.

5. If ice cubes have an unpleasant taste, the trays and freezing unit should be thoroughly cleaned. Lemons and oranges should be placed lower in the cabinet if the aroma is of the oily citric nature.

6. As soon as an ice mixture is frozen, firm, move the indicator half way back to normal.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. T. H. asks: How do you pasteurize milk?

Answer: Heat milk in double boiler to 143 degrees and keep it at that temperature for 30 minutes; or bring the milk to full rolling boil, then take off stove instantly, but as soon as froth subsides heat again to boiling point and repeat once more. The milk in either case should be cooled quickly in another pan surrounded by ice or running water.

Mrs. M. M. asks: How do you suggest storing bread at the cottage to prevent moulding?

Answer: Keep bread in loosely wrapped wax paper and place in a ventilated, clean tin. A tiny glass of baking soda left in one corner of the box absorbs any aromas.

Mrs. J. B. asks: How to prevent cloudy crabapple jelly?

Answer: Add a tablespoon of lemon juice to three quarters of prepared apple juice to clear jelly and help it set quickly.

Questions and ? Answers

Readers may direct their questions giving their name and address and mentioning the name of this paper to Information Branch, WPTB, 490 Sussex Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Q. I am the owner of a 9-roomed house which I leased to two parties for two years. The year will be up on Oct. 1st. As I have decided to sell this property may I give the tenants notice to vacate Oct. 1st?

A. No... these tenants are protected by the "freezing order" and cannot be given notice to vacate. You, of course may sell the house but the new owner likewise cannot give the tenants notice to vacate.

Q. My child aged nine years is going to camp for two months. Must I send his ration book along? He never uses the full quota of sugar so it seems to me I should not have to give up all the coupons.

A. Yes, he must take his ration book along. This book belongs to your child personally and was given to him for his personal needs. Whether he uses all the coupons or not the camp director will expect him to bring along his ration book.

Q. I pay $10 a week for room and board. By board I mean breakfast and dinner. The landlady has given me one week's notice to move as she says food costs are too high to continue feeding boarders. Is she allowed to give me such short notice?

A. If you pay your rent by the week you are entitled to one week's notice, if you pay by the month you should receive one month's notice. This regulation applies only to persons who receive meals at the home where they occupy a room, it does not apply to roomers who do not receive meals. They are entitled to six months' notice.

FOR THE GO-AHEAD FARMER

He wanted to pay the Bank

A BONUS!

June 20th—John J. Veroba of Lampman, Sask., applied to the Bank of Montreal for a loan of $2,000 to purchase a threshing combine. His proposition was sound... and the loan was made.

John Veroba's new machine was delivered on June 25th. Ten days later, with his own crops still four weeks from harvesting, he set out for Sharon Springs, Kansas. With his new combine he worked for the farmers there and in the neighbouring communities for one month to the day.

In the meantime his own crops were ripening. Early in August he turned northward to Lampman, and on his arrival, August 11th, immediately remitted to us the full $2,000 he had borrowed. His work had given him back the entire purchase price of his combine!

The total interest charge was $12.60. So pleased was this customer to possess his own combine free of all debt, and to commence his own harvesting with a happy and easy mind, that he wished to pay the Bank of Montreal a bonus to mark his appreciation.

The Bank, of course, declined the bonus, but is gladly accepting the expression of John Veroba's thanks in the form of his permission to tell his story in this advertisement.

This case is typical of the assistance which the Bank of Montreal is extending to go-ahead farmers and demonstrates how it makes true its promise: "When you ask for a loan at the B of M, you do not ask a favour."

If you need money, see your nearest B of M manager today. Ask for a copy of our farm loan folder: "Quiz for a Go-Ahead Farmer."

CHAPTER XIV.

Aline leaned back against the pillows . . . Kirkman."

"You really mean that?"
"Cartiers don't break their word."
Lotus took a deep breath and plunged ahead.

"To begin with, my name is not Rosa Kirkman and I am not a professional entertainer."

"She heard a gasp in the darkness. 'What and who are you, then?'"

"I can't go into that now—you must believe me."

"All right, go on."

"Stacy Corbin does not love you."

"It's quite true, however."

Lotus repeated her conversation with Stacy on the previous day. "He also told me about his father's business deal manoeuvring your family out of Belle Fleur."

"That's one reason I intend marrying Stacy," Aline said suddenly, "to get Belle Fleur back in the family."

"Isn't that rather an extreme measure?" Lotus asked gently.

"There's always divorce," Aline Cartier said, "and settlements. If Stacy acted the way you say he intends to, I would have grounds."

"But, Aline, you don't realize what you're saying. Things might not work out that way—you might have children."

"I want children some day and I want them to have Belle Fleur."

"But—but—" Lotus floundered helplessly. She had expected tears, recriminations, even curses, but not this indomitable stubbornness.

"You see, Rosa—or whatever your real name is—Belle Fleur meant just about everything to my grandfather and aunt. They had to let it go to protect their stockholders. They had put all their hopes in my brother Andrew—He was to carry on the family name and business and, of course, inherit Belle Fleur. Well, he was killed in the Pacific, so it's up to me now."

"But you're charming and attractive. There must be dozens of New Orleans boys of fine family who'd like to marry you."

"But only the Corbins own Belle Fleur."

"If I could prove to you that Stacy didn't love you, that he was only following his father's orders, that they were seeking the honorable Cartier name and its valuable connections and a place in New Orleans society, would you change your mind?"

"I suppose I'd have to."

"Well, then, at eleven o'clock tomorrow night you be in the bath-room between our rooms listening at the door. I think you'll hear something that will dissuade you from marrying Stacy Corbin."

In the morning, before Aline was up, Lotus slipped into her bathing suit and swam from the grassy slope to the anchored swimming float. Her shoulder was still tender, but she swam with graceful, distance-consuming strokes. When she reached the white-painted platform, she stretched herself full length in the sun on the diving board. A few moments later she heard the lazy splash of strong masculine arms cleaving the water.

Stacy, his tanned body dripping, pulled himself up on the plank.

"Hi, sweet—I saw you strolling down for a dip and couldn't resist the temptation to join you."

"What about Aline—and your father?"

She laughed teasingly and rolled over on the diving board so that her figure was displayed to full advantage.

"The dickens with them!" Stacy scowled at her.

"Tsk, ts, that's not the right attitude. After all, you're going to marry the girl, and she is pretty Stacy."

"Rosa, you've got more sex appeal in your little finger than she has in her whole body."

"I think you're wrong there. Aline has a sort of old-fashioned charm that southern men probably find pretty fetching."

"Oh, no doubt of that," he agreed fairly. "She has a bunch of the local yokels clamoring for her attention. Southern men probably find pretty warm-blooded." His eyes caressed her slim, well-built body.

"Like me, Stacy?"

"Yes, like you!"

She laughed mockingly and nodded her head toward Belle Fleur. "So sorry I can't oblige. Here comes the girl of your dreams."

None of them saw Lotus leave for the other end of the island.

She waited patiently, but Lawrence did not appear. At last, she turned to leave, when her eye fell on Lachene rounding the house and heading for her spot. She was standing in deep shadow—he had not yet seen her, nor did she want him to see her leaving this place where he had caught her twice before. The circumstances would be too suspicious.

She started to step out, to warn Lawrence, then suddenly she checked herself—the occupant of the pirogue was not Lawrence!

She recognized the queer, stunted, dungaree-clad figure and the swarthy bearded face as that of the helper who had been on the island from which she had escaped to Belle Fleur.

He was poling agitatedly toward the edge of the lawn; even before Lachene reached him, he began to chatter in an excited Cajun patois that was unintelligible to Lotus. The two men talked for a few minutes, both gesticulating wildly, then the man in the pirogue shoved off and Lachene returned to the House. Lotus sighed gratefully—here was her means of getting Stacy to her room!

The French clock at the end of the hall chimed a tinkling eleven. The last musical note was followed by a light rap on Lotus' door. She opened it and Stacy's golden head was outlined against the light; her own room was in darkness.

"You're alone, Stacy?"

"Yes. Dad's down in his study and Aline's gone to bed."

She walked over to stand between the French windows and the locked bathroom door; a faint rustle told her that Aline was behind it. Stacy closed the door into the hall and followed her.

"What was it you wanted to see me about sweet?"

She reached up and took the lapels of his coat in her fingers. She was wearing a lacy, herbiboned negligee that Chloe had put in her suitcase; a heavy Parisian perfume still clung to it. "Stacy, I'm afraid. I saw one of those men from the island this afternoon—he came in a pirogue and was talking to Lachene."

His hands came up and tightened on hers. "Stop worrying about them, Rosa—I told you I'd take care of you."

"But what would he be doing here?"

"I don't know, but I'll find out, if it will make you happy."

She swayed toward him. "You're so good to me, Stacy."

His hands went around her waist now, pulling her toward him. "You're attractive, Rosa!"

She felt a sense of urgency. She must get him to talk, to expose himself and his father for what they were. Aline might not be too patient.

"Stacy, are you going to marry Aline?"

"I don't know. I thought I had her about talked into it, but she's been pretty evasive all day. His tone was satisfactorily disinterested."

"You don't love her, do you?"

"Of course not! I've already told you that."

"Then, why—I simply don't understand."

"Rosa, are you going to make me repeat all that?" Dad wants the social position, prestige and business connections that the Cartier name can give us. I think he's got ideas about dabbling in the bagasse business, too."

"You mean the Cartiers' new enterprise?"

"Sure. The old man ought to kick off some day soon and Aline wouldn't know anything about business. Dad thinks it would be pretty nice if he could manage things for her." He chuckled sarcastically. "Dad's a pretty far-sighted guy, isn't he?"

"He certainly seems to be."

Surely, Aline had heard enough to be convinced. Lotus had made Stacy convict himself with his own words—getting rid of him was going to be another proposition. His fingers began playing with the velvet bow at the low V of her negligee.

"Why are we standing here wasting words about Aline?" he demanded querulously. "I'd much rather be holding you in my arms."

"Please, Stacy, I'm not in the mood for romance tonight."

A face was thrust around the edge of the French window. The eyes seemed to gleam wickedly; it was dark, but not so dark that she couldn't recognize the sardonic expression of Stu Lawrence!

Immediately, Stacy sensed the difference in her embrace. "Now what's wrong?" he asked petulantly.

She withdrew from his arms. "I'm sure I heard your father calling."

"Oh, rot! You're making it up to get rid of me."

"No, no, I'm not."

As if to confirm her lie, Curtis Corbin's voice, urgent and tinged with annoyance, drifted up the stairs.

"The devil!" Stacy muttered. He never lets up for a minute. I'll be right back, Rosa."

"Not tonight, Stacy—I'm tired."

A moment later, Stu Lawrence slipped from the balcony. Silhouetted against the white colonnades and the starlight, he looked unusually tall.

"My apologies for breaking up such an inspiring love scene," he whispered crisply. "That was not my intention, I assure you."

"That was not a love scene," she protested.

His teeth flashed in a cynical grin. "You owe me no explanations—I'm not concerned with your love life."

"I think you're being deliberately nasty. You're not being fair about this at all; please let me explain."

His fists clenched and relaxed.

"I really haven't time to listen to it now. I just came to warn you to try to get the Cartiers to go home tomorrow. Things are about to start popping and I don't want them here when they do."

"Did you find out something?"

"Many things. Among them, that no taxidermist in New Orleans had the job of stuffing that snake, so it looks as though the dope came in the boat's skin, with the live snake as a protective decoy. It would take forever to search this place for the stuff, so we've got to precipitate something that will make Corbin himself reveal its hiding place—it must be worth almost a million dollars."

Forest Fire Takes High Toll

TORONTO, July 16.—(CP).— Forest fires, now taxing the ingenuity of fighters battling nine fires in the North Bay district, result in more than waste of timber burned, the Canadian Forestry Association outlined today in a statement on fire effects.

Included in the Association's brief on wanton waste of forest fires were: the loss up to $500 an acre in manufactured newsprint value; in watershed forests, power and steam flow suffer; fishing is a victim of forest fires; a loss in tourist trade occurs in burned out areas, and employment stops at the edge of a dead forest, usually at least 50 years.

Blazes in the North Bay area were reported almost under control today although one official said a strong wind would create a serious threat since the woodlands were dry.

"Happiness" Subject of Paper At St. Andrew's W.M.S. Meeting

Mrs. Don Fargey Gives Excellent Paper — Mrs. Chas. Fargey Hostess To Meeting

A pleasant afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. Chas. Fargey, Ridge Road, when the regular meeting of St. Andrew's W. M. S. was held, with a good attendance of members and visitors.

Mrs. Hermiston read a poem and led in prayer. Miss Gena Spry read the Scripture Lesson from St. Matthew chapter 21, and also gave an explanation of the chapter.

Following the singing of a hymn, a discussion of the monthly business took place. The roll call was responded to by the word "Happiness". The collection was then received and dedicated. At this point Mrs. Louis Rodgers took charge of an interesting programme, prepared by Mrs. Chas. Fargey.

After the singing of a hymn Mrs. Laird McGee led in prayer. A reading "The Happiness Bank Is The Richest Bank On Earth", was given by Mrs. Harold McGee. Mrs. Don Fargey gave a paper on the keyword "Happiness."

Following is the address given by Mrs. Fargey.

Did it ever occur to you how many of us are living in the future, like children chasing a rainbow — if we could only reach it what delight — what happiness. We never believe we have reached the years of our finest but feel sure that the ideal time of life is coming. One of the greatest tragedies of life is postponement of enjoyment and so often we hear those nearing the end of their span say, they regret that they did not live as they went along and enjoy each day to the full as it came instead of waiting until they had more money or a better position.

The best things come to us from our daily tasks, the extraordinary come to us very seldom. Our daily life is where we use our philosophy and religion and is really the test of our quality and measure.

Happiness does not depend so much on favorable environment as upon the state of our own minds. Paradise is here or nowhere, you must take your joy with you or you will never find it. We expect too much from the great happenings and unusual things and overlook the common things on the path of life. Some feel bound to a monotonous vocation and although honestly striving to make the most of themselves cannot see how they can possibly get happiness. A good lesson can be gotten from the bee which finds sweets in every weed, in poisonous flowers, in things which we would never think of looking for any good.

There is nothing which will cripple one's creative powers quicker than the self pity habit. It destroys self confidence and courage. The moment you begin to coddle and pity yourself and to think you cannot do this and that your faculties will quickly sympathize with the conditions of your mind and your producing powers will be weakened and cut down. As long as we are convinced we cannot do a thing we cannot.

A physician once prescribing for a patient afflicted with self pity said "Keep the corners of your mouth turned up". It worked like a charm.

Thousands of women are in a chronic state of fatigue and seldom get rested, who would be cheerful and kind if they lived perfectly sane lives. The friction in many unhappy homes is largely caused by over wrought, tired nerves. We say kind things to our best friends when our nerves are on edge from fret and worry, and how many people carry cruel wounds which have been inflicted thoughtlessly when our physical standards were down.

The power of a sunny soul to transform the most trying situation in life is beyond all power to compute. The determination to be kind and helpful to everyone, to be cheerful, no matter what comes to us is a great happiness producer. When we can not find repose within ourselves it is vain to seek it else where.

If we are ever happy it will be because we create happiness. This we must learn as we go along. It is out of the daily rounds of duty out of the stress and strain of life with its annoyances and disappointments we get

Bonarlaw Defeats Legion 6-8

In what many of the fans claim was the best game of the season, Bonarlaw defeated Stirling Legion at the Fair Grounds on Monday night 6-8. The Legion boys scored five runs in the first inning and looked headed for a win but Ray, on the mound for the winners, tightened up to hold them to three runs for the remainder of the game; one on a homer by Jack Potter and the other on a homer by Noble with one on. The winners hit Noble for three runs in the fourth on three hits and in the fifth shoved across five runs when the Legionnaires bobbled on a couple of chances with the bases occupied. They added their final counter in the last of the sixth.

Both Noble and Ray pitched excellent ball, while the former along with Jack Potter featured the hitting department with homers.

Former Resident Dies At Detroit

Mrs. Mary Boddy, wife of Mr. Stanley Boddy died in hospital at Detroit Mich., on Saturday, July 19th, after an illness of one week's duration.

The late Mrs. Boddy was born at Ormsby, Hastings County, and was a daughter of Mr. James W. Campbell and the late Mrs. Campbell. For the past twenty-five years she made her home in Detroit. She was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Surviving her are her husband; her father; one son, Leonard and one grandson of Detroit; two brothers, Donald and James Campbell, of Stirling; three sisters, Mrs. Ernest (Margaret) Campbell, of Morganston; Mrs. Charles (Grace) Wannamaker, of Ottawa; and Mrs. Larry (Barbara) Decker, of Goshen, N. Y.

The funeral took place from the Duffin Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon. Interment in Stirling Cemetery.

Our best wishes.

What a wonderful world this could be if we all checked upon our daily living and made a strenuous effort to obtain the things which are really worth while—Things which make for unselfish joyous character.

If every body was kind, unselfish, true, clean and honest, we would have no need for penitentiaries or courts of justice. The golden rule would be the law of life and every one happy.

Miss Lillian Mathews also gave a reading on happiness. A piano duet by Barbara Fargey and Muriel McGee was enjoyed.

Mrs. Eva McGee gave a well prepared topic on the "Secret of The Snow Flake", found in the Book of Job, 38th Chapter versus 23-24. Mrs. C. Fargey thanked all those that helped in the programme and made the afternoon a success. Hymn "Rise Up O Men of God", and the benediction closed the meeting.

Mrs. Fargey served a delectable lunch, and Mrs. Hermiston moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Fargey and Mrs. L. Rodgers for their kind hospitality.

Oak Lake Boys' Camp Sponsored By Belleville Boys' Work Board Ends

The Oak Lake Boys' Camp for 1947 was held recently under sponsorship of the Belleville Boys' Work Board, through its Camp Committee. Over forty boys were in attendance and six full time leaders were on hand to help make the seven-day camp period a time of fellowship, study and fun for all. Much time had been spent in the planning of the camp, in order that all those attending might take part in a program designed to help in the building of Christian character.

Chairman of the Camp Committee is Mr. Don. G. Williams, of Belleville. With long camping experience, "Uncle Don" proved to be an excellent leader. As Orderly Officer and Swimming Instructor, he made a notable contribution to the camp program. Secretary of the committee is Mr. Arnold Campbell, of Belleville. Although unable to be at camp full time, Mr. Campbell cared for the business affairs of the camp most capably. Mr. Don Charlton acted as registrar, but was prevented from attending himself.

The camp director was Rev. Lloyd Shorten, of Foxboro. Besides these duties, he also instructed in Bible Study and in the requirements necessary for the Woodman's Badge. Others on the staff included Rev. T. F. Townsend, of Deseronto, who led in Bible study and gave instruction in Forestry; Rev. Frank Whiteley, of Hill, who had charge of a group in Bible study, besides preparing boys for campcraft and other badges. Mr. Gerald McCaul, of Deseronto, gave leadership in Bible study, and was in charge of the musical program of camp. Mr. Don R. Williams, of Canby, instructed in Indian Life, besides having charge of sports. Bountiful meals were prepared and served by the kitchen staff, Mrs. Milligan and Mrs. Jamieson, of Tamworth.

The daily program of the camp, from the setting-up exercises and morning dip, morning watch or worship period, to closing campfire, found the boys occupied in study and discussion, games and good fun, evening vespers and joyful singing. At the close of camp the director presented the badges and chevrons which had been won. Highest honour went to Johnny Myers, of Bridge Street Church, Belleville, who was chosen as Chief Camper of 1947, and received a prize of a free week at camp next year.

Each of the boys, coming from Napoleon, Tamworth, Yarker and Deseronto on the East, Trenton on the west, Coe Hill in the north, as well as Belleville, Canby, Bayside, Foxboro and other places, received well-earned recognition for their work and interest at camp.

One of the requirements for the Campers' Chevron in the Trail Ranger program is the earning of the Campcraft Badge. This badge was awarded to a large number of campers. In addition, 15 earned the Swimmers' Badge, 13 the Woodman's Badge, 9 the Forestry Badge, and 6 the Indian Life Badge. Eight Scouts and Cubs who were at camp were able to earn other badges under the direction of their leader, Rev. F. Whiteley. Though no badge was offered for work done in Bible Study, each camper studied the course "Jesus and His Disciples", and took home many things from the period of discussion and teaching that will prove very helpful.

Uncle Hy Says

(Copyright 1947 H. M. Moore)

Why is it when a man goes hunting, to get a skin for his baby Bunting, that he'll hunt and hunt and hunt all day, but not till he puts his gun away, does he see a thing, a single bunny, and to see it then just isn't funny.

Why is it when a man goes stalking the white tail deer, or moose he's mocking, and his legs are tired, and he's dreadful weary, and his eyes are red, and his sight is bleary, that he'll quit and say "the beggars, drat 'em," just to have a big buck looking at him.

Why is it when a man's retiring, and a playful time he'd be aspiring, with boats and guns and cash galore, and not a thought of shop or store that he finds himself deep in perdition, with a truly dangerous heart condition.

What Others Say!

Visiting In The Country

A good many town and city people will tell you quite frankly that they wouldn't live on a farm under any consideration. They freely criticize rural life as being dull, dreary and boring, with too much hard work. They make jokes at country people and in their sophisticated superior sort of way "look down their noses" at their rural acquaintances. But strangely enough, especially in the summer time, when Sunday arrives what happens? The talkative "city slickers" pile into their automobiles to visit Farmer John, a forty-second cousin, and to enjoy Sunday dinner in a rural atmosphere. Farmer John's wife, who probably has been looking forward to a day of rest after a week of hard work, is expected to prepare a feast with two kinds of fowl, spare ribs, steaks, chops vegetables and pie and cake covered with whip cream. And after the city visitors have gorged themselves, taken half the vegetables out of the farmer's garden and grabbed off a side of pork and a basketful of eggs they rush back to the city muttering what a disgusting place the country is.

Perhaps we exaggerate slightly, but oftentimes it happens that the farmer and his wife are victims of mercenary visitors. Quite probable it is just such instances which have caused a lot of farmers in the vicinity of American cities to turn their farm homes into boarding houses during the summer months, with an average charge of $35 per person a week. They provide simple accommodations, but plenty of wholesome food with lots of fresh milk. Boarders have to find their own entertainment, swimming in the nearby pond or creek, going on hikes, picking wild berries or just loafing about watching operations on the farm. Some of the guests wanting exercise may take a turn at pitching hay, but for the most part they just stand around and watch.

This sort of dude farming has grown into quite a profitable business in certain sections of the United States, ranging from farms taking only four guests at a time to big resorts accommodating 200. Some travel agencies have a special department to handle this rural service, and offer any sort of bucolic setting the vacationer might desire.

Perhaps it would be a good idea if Canadian farmers took a lesson from the Americans. When city folk invite themselves out to the farm for a holiday, the farmer should charge a reasonable fee for room and board—Picton Gazette.

No Odds Here

(Barrie Examiner)

When three thousand pounds of hurtling automobile comes in contact with 150 pounds of human being, the odds are very much against the latter. No matter what the cause of the contact, the result is the same — death. Last year in Ontario, of the 688 people killed in traffic, 279 were pedestrians. —Barrie Examiner.

RAI PURDY HONOURED AT BELLEVILLE OLD HOME WEEK

BELLEVILLE, July 21st.—Mayor Frank S. Follwell today conferred an honorary citizenship of the city of Belleville on Rai Purdy, of Toronto, "for distinguished service to the citizens of Belleville". In a ceremony at city hall, Mayor Follwell made the presentation to Mr. Purdy, well-known Canadian producer, who produced and staged the feature shows for "Old Home Week" July 13-19.

Mr. Purdy, head of Purdy Productions, Toronto, was formerly a colonel in the Canadian army and served as commanding officer of army shows overseas. Since coming out of the service, Purdy has formed his own organization, staffed largely with personnel who served with him in key jobs overseas. He is now engaged in producing radio and stage shows and was recently described in a national magazine article as the "Billy Rose of Canada."

During the past several months, Purdy and his staff were engaged practically full-time in producing shows for Belleville's Old Home Week, proceeds of which were for a community swimming pool.

"The week was the greatest in the history of Belleville," said Mayor Follwell, "and we owe a debt of real gratitude to Rai Purdy for bringing to us such a galaxy of stars of the entertainment world. For what he has done for the city I thank him sincerely and hereby make him an honorary citizen of Belleville for life."

RURAL ACCIDENTS INCREASING

The increase in rural accidents according to Mr. Doucett is much greater than those occurring in urban centers. Highway Department figures for the first quarter of 1947 show that there was a 41.5% increase in motor accidents in the rural areas as compared to a 20.9% increase in the urban area. Property damage resulting from motor accidents shows a 61.1% increase in rural centers over 49.6% increase in the urban centers.

Mr. Doucett stresses the need for motorists and non-motorists to observe every precaution on our urban and rural roadways. "There is no substitute," he states "for care, courtesy and common sense on the part of our drivers and pedestrians."

Very drastic penalties will be meted out to owners and drivers of motor vehicles who do not abide by the measures imposed by the recent amendments to the Highway Act. The new laws go into effect on July 1st and thereafter automatic suspension of driving privileges will follow conviction where an accident occurs arising out of such offences as: failing to stop at a through street; failing to heed a traffic signal; failing to signal properly when turning; driving without prescribed lights; operating with defective brakes; overcrowding the driver's seat; and numerous other offences usually classed as minor.

"The accident news appearing in the press and on the radio should serve," states Mr. Doucett, "as a grim reminder to us all that it is up to each of us to do his or her part in halting the terrible loss of human life and suffering due to traffic accidents."

FUEL OIL SITUATION SERIOUS

The rush to install oil burners has caused such a demand for fuel oil that oil companies are at their wits' end to know how they are going to meet it. Prices have been advanced appreciably and are likely to go still higher. Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Reconstruction, as well as the heads of two of the largest oil refining companies, have warned the public against installing oil burners unless they have firm, written contracts for the necessary fuel oil from dependable sources of supply. The pinch in its most extreme form is likely to come this fall shortly after furnaces are started up.

Oil-burner equipment manufacturers controlled by the largest oil refining companies stopped making oil-burner installations early this year, but many others, trying to capitalize quickly on the abnormal demand, have gone ahead installing burners. Most of the stove manufacturers are now also making oil burners, and many other manufacturers besides, all of which add to the headaches of the oil companies, who are being called upon to supply oil for them. In addition, scores of salesmen, eager to make sales while the demand lasts, have secured agencies for United States as well as domestic oil-burning equipment, and are pushing sales vigorously.

Most of our oil supplies have to be imported from the United States, and new discoveries of crude oil there have not kept pace with the growing demand for petroleum products. With the demand for gasoline increasing rapidly with the growing output of motor cars, the longer-term outlook for fuel oil is none too hopeful. Shortage of materials for building refineries and scarcity of labor and of tankers further complicate the situation.

United States Secretary of the Interior Krug has just warned American public that oil-refineries must operate at full capacity if critical shortages are to be averted, and Max Ball, director of the Oil and Gas Division, says the country's oil plant is running so near its limit that a slip anywhere could mean cold homes and idle factories this winter.

Fortunately, plentiful supplies of anthracite coal are now available, and the quality is much better than during the war years. Canadians have always been large users of this fuel for home heating, and are well equipped for burning it. Our supplies of it, as in the case of petroleum, come from the United States, but the American coal producers have been generous in their allocations to us, even when their own people were in short supply. The only foreseeable difficulty in regard to anthracite is that there

A century-old tradition was re-enacted in the Port of Montreal when a gold-headed cane was presented to Capt. J. Bisset Smith, O.B.E., skipper of the Canadian Pacific Steamships cargo-passenger liner Beaverburn, for being the first to bring a deep-sea ship into Canada's greatest port this year. Capt. Smith, a veteran of both wars, docked his vessel a scant hour ahead of his nearest rival, climbing

PREPARE NOW TO GET HONEY NEXT YEAR

One of the main essentials is a strong force of field bees at the start of the main honey flow. To secure such a force for the harvest of 1948 preparations for it must be started now, says C. B. Gooderham, Dominion Apiarist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Although the bees that actually gather the harvest will not be reared until next spring and early summer, the size of the field force at harvest time will depend to a large extent upon the strength of the colony when it is removed from winter quarters, and this in turn depends upon its strength when put away for the winter. In other words, the bees that are to guarantee the continuity of the colony from 1947 to 1948 must be reared in the fall. The queen is the foundation of the colony as she produces every other bee in it. She requires a definite length of time, approximately two months to build the colony to satisfactory strength for safe wintering. Every colony should, therefore, be headed with a good prolific queen during the months of August or fall; queens should be replaced at once, in addition every colony requires ample room for all the brood the queen is capable of producing and the bees must have sufficient food to rear this brood to maturity. Good queens, ample space and a plentiful food supply are three factors the beekeeper must provide in the fall. Failure to do so will result in having a group of brooders rather than producers next July.

SHOULD BE CAREFUL IN USE OF 2,4-D

Many farmers are now interested in the use of 2,4-D chemicals for the control of weeds in grass and cereal crops, but care should be taken by farmers in the use of these chemicals, says A. M. W. Carter, Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, in charge of pesticides.

For application on a farm scale the use of mechanical dispensers is necessary. In choosing machinery for this purpose, is should be remembered, says Mr. Carter, that 2,4-D will injure many broad-leaved cultivated crops and that the safest machine to use is one which gives the best control over where the spray or dust is placed. If spray or dust escapes and drifts on the wind to trees, hedges, or susceptible crops, there may be damage. Obviously, even the machinery giving the best control should be used when there is little or no wind and at those times in the day when there is least likelihood of "dust devils" and whirlwinds being created by the sun's heat.

These same considerations should also be borne in mind when farmers are contracting with some machine or aircraft operator to control the weeds in a crop. While damage to one's own susceptible crops or windbreaks might be regarded as bad luck, damage to a neighbour's property could be expensive.

also. Such possibilities ought not be overlooked when signing contracts for weed control.

DOES ALTITUDE AFFECT QUEEN BEES

In view of the increasing use of the aeroplane for long distance transit of agricultural live stock, including bees, an interesting question has arisen among beekeepers in Canada, the United States, and Australia over the opinion expressed by some experts that if a queen bee is taken to an altitude above 3,000 feet her reproductive capacity deteriorates.

The plane is being used extensively in the North American continent for the transit of bees, and lately an overseas trade in bees has been developing between the United States and Australia. So far as the latter country is concerned, a test is being made by flying a consignment of Ligurian bees from Queensland to Kangaroo Island off the South Australian coast. "If," says the Australian News, "tests show that bees can be flown in safety and queen bees retain their fertility, there may be a considerable use of air transport by beekeepers who move their hives around the country in trucks chasing the honey flow."

FARM PRODUCTS GO TO MANY COUNTRIES

Canadian food products, both in peace and war, go to all parts of the globe. In 1929, Canadian farm products were imported by 65 countries; in 1939, by 92 countries. Even during 1944, with blockades, submarine menace, shipping shortages, and export controls, edible farm products reached 69 export markets, says Frank Sheffrin, Economics Division, Department of Agriculture, in "War-time Exports of Canadian Farm Products and Postwar Developments."

A great variety of farm products in raw and processed form are exported annually, he says. A broad classification would indicate at least 35 classes of farm products. Few illustrations may suffice. Wheat is exported in th form of grain, flour, and biscuits. Livestock products are shipped out of Canada on the hoof; in cans; as fresh, chilled or frozen beef. Horses are leaving Canada as beasts of burden and as canned meat. Dairy products are sold abroad as cheese, evaporated milk, and as powder. Canada also exports seed, livestock for breeding, and grains for livestock feed.

THE WEED OF THE WEEK CHICORY

Chicory sometimes referred to as "Blue Devil" is a noxious perennial weed with a long, thick, tap root, found growing usually along roadsides, fence lines, in old pasture fields and vacant lots. It may sometimes appear in a field, particularly where plowing or cultivation has not been thorough.

Chicory grows from one to three feet high, and the stems are almost leafless, slightly hairy, with numerous flowers along the stem. Flowers are bright blue in colour, about 1 1/2 inches in diameter, and are usually closed by noon.

This weed begins to flower during July and continues until frost. It has the unfortunate ability to send up new shoots quickly after it has been cut off, and in two or three weeks time will again be in bloom. An average plant will produce 3,000 seeds, and these are frequently found as an impurity in clover and grass seeds.

Chicory is spreading rapidly over the Province of Ontario, and is classified as a noxious weed under the regulations of both the Weed Control Act and the Seeds Act.

Action should be taken to destroy this weed wherever it is found. In cultivated fields, a short rotation of crops, including deep, thorough after-harvest and fall cultivation, will soon cause it to disappear. Since the seed Chicory is a common impurity in clover and grass seeds, it is very important to sow clean, graded seed. On roadsides and other places where cultivation is impractical, and where Chicory has become established, the best and most effective control method is spraying with a chemical weed killer. Atlacide, Stephen Weed Killer, or 2,4-D weed killer will all do an excellent job of controlling chicory. Spraying should be done before seeds mature, and the recommendations contained in the circular, "Chemical Weed Control" should be followed carefully. This circular may be obtained on request from the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

HIGH QUALITY EGGS IN SUMMER

(Experimental Farm News)

With a little more effort on the part of the poultrykeeper eggs of high way's Station in Montreal will give quality can be produced during the heat of summer, says A. S. Johnson, Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Egg quality can be maintained only by suitable conditions of management from the time the eggs are laid. Once lost, it cannot be reclaimed and good storage in grading stations is of no avail. The chief responsibility rests with the farmer. Best results can be obtained by frequent gathering, rapid cooling and frequent delivery.

Deterioration of egg quality is most rapid at high temperatures. When eggs lie in nests in warm weather they lose their original animal heat very slowly. They should be gathered as often as possible not less than three times per day. When gathered eggs should be cooled rapidly.

Experiments have shown that the quality of eggs is directly affected by high temperatures resulting from infrequent gathering and poor holding conditions. Unless they are held in a room in which the temperature is below 60 degrees F., and not too dry, there is little advantage in collecting them often.

If eggs are delivered to grading

"SALADA" TEA BAGS

stations or stores at least twice a week then there is assurance of good quality being maintained. It is of little importance whether hens are kept indoors or are outdoors on pasture. Dark yolks, resulting from feeding on pasture, will lower the grade if the quality is not good, but not otherwise.

Additional returns to the producer are obtained by attention to a number of small details in the production of eggs. Dirty eggs will bring less returns regardless of the interior quality. They will require very little cleaning if nests are clean and if the hens are kept inside in wet weather. Male birds should not be kept with the flock in summer. Fertile eggs start development above 68 degrees F. and the quality is affected. Wire baskets for gathering make for more rapid cooling of eggs. Cooling can be speeded up still more by putting them on trays overnight in the egg room before packing the next day. An airy basement makes an excellent egg room and it can be kept damp by water pans on the floor.

Consumers will pay premium prices for superior quality of all food products.

ISSUE URGENT APPEAL FOR FARM LABOR

TORONTO, July 14.—(CP)—An "urgent appeal" for help to relieve Ontario's farm labor shortage estimated at 5,000 persons was issued today by Agricultural Department. The appeal was directed primarily to retired farmers and anyone wishing to spend vacations working on farms. Hay crops particularly are in danger of waste unless the problem is solved, officials stated.

Failure of an expected influx of Western Canadian farm laborers to come East had precipitated the crisis, the department said.

RECRUITING DRIVE

Defence Minister Claxton said in the Commons Wednesday that a recruiting campaign for the Active and Reserve forces of all three services would be launched in the fall. He made the statement while answering questions regarding Navy strength during consideration of defence estimates. Canada's naval strength at June 30th this year was 7,641 officers and men, made up of 820 interim enlistees.

WORLD-WIDE PROMINENCE

The little hamlet of Cloyne north of Tweed was given generous space recently in Time magazine on the occasion of Barbara Ann Scott's visit to the annual Lumbermen's picnic that drew 10,000 spectators. Officials are already laying plans for a bigger and better event next June. The Cant-hook county is in the world's spotlight.

8 PER CENT INCREASE IN MOTOR VEHICLES

Ottawa, July 21st.—(CP)—A total of 675,887 in 1945, and chauffeurs' licenses, 627,100, compared with 509,537, increase of almost eight per cent over the total registrations of 1,497,081 in the preceding year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Saturday. All provinces share in the advance.

Drivers' licenses issued during the year totalled $1,863,324 as against 1,675,887 in 1945, and chauffeurs' licenses, 627,100, compared with 509,537.

COUNTY FARMERS START CUTTING FALL WHEAT CROP

District farmers should be riding binders and stooking grain if they follow the advice of crop experts in the Monthly Crop Report, issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, that "fall wheat cutting will likely start in Central Ontario about July 13. Harvesting fall wheat crops should be done general in a week or 10 days.

Pastures were good in this section. As a result milk flow was satisfactory during June and live stock had plenty to eat and made good gains in help to maintain pastures in their present good condition.

SERVES 54 YEARS AS TOWNSHIP CLERK

Very few municipal officials in the Province of Ontario will be able to beat the record of Mr. Walter Geddes, of Dalhousie Lake, who has resigned as clerk-treasurer, of Dalhousie and North Sherbrooke, after more than fifty-four years' service, says the Lanark Era.

Mr. Geddes tendered his resignation at Saturday's council meeting, but has agreed to stay on until his successor is appointed. He has served his municipality efficiently and faithfully and the vacancy caused by his resignation will be difficult to fill.

Ivanhoe Young People Hear Indian Speaker

Mr. Allan Borland of Indian River, Keene United Church pastoral charge, and a theological student of Peterborough Presbytery, accompanied by Mr. Isaac Mathuni, of Always Settlement, Travancore, South India, who has recently finished a course of studies at Victoria University held the final meeting of an extended tour in the interests of Young People in the Bay of Quinte Conference in Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe, on Friday evening.

Mr. Mathuni expects to return to India in October, where, with his wife, he is planning to carry on work among the children and young people under the direction of the Foreign Mission Board of the United Church. Young people from Fuller, Salem and Stirling were present to hear these two outstanding speakers, who have visited several places in the presbyteries of Lindsay, Peterborough and Belleville, some of which were Maynooth, Bancroft, Queensboro, Tweed, Centenary, Belleville, Havelock and Bobcaygeon. It is said that on only seven evenings since June 8th, have this team of workers been free from addressing some group.

Programmes have consisted of games, a sing song, a worship period, a sing song, a darship period, and an address on some Scripture passage, followed with a group discussion led by the visitors.

The aim of the itinerary has been to influence young people to take their Christian vows more seriously, and to help them realize the possibilities in Christian service, with the hope that many would become more interested in their local church work, and that others will make full time Christian work their life vocation.

Mr. Mathuni told of the extreme hunger conditions existing among his people and said, "It is a common thing to see people searching in garbage cans for bits of food." Speaking of India's dense population he said: "when we speak of a city we usually mean 100,000 people." He exhorted his hearers to make a practice of "listening" for God's voice daily, and thus receive instructions from Him, in much the same way that a stenographer receives dictation from her employer.

Mr. Borland and Mr. Mathuni were entertained at the parsonage during their stay in Ivanhoe leaving on Saturday for Oak Lake Camp.

BEHIND THE SECRECY

The man-in-the-street across Canada has undoubtedly been puzzled why there is so much secrecy about atomic energy developments for peace time purposes only, though it has not been a mystery why this secrecy prevailed for wartime purposes, especially since a watchdog committee has been in existence in the United States for such purposes and comprising representatives of the Senate and House of Representatives in the U.S. However, this has been clarified in Ottawa with the explanation that the material is the same "whether it is used for purposes of peace or war". In fact, the Reconstruction Minister, Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe said: "The fact is that we now use it for peace-time purposes would not prevent this government or anybody else from using it for war purposes. It is just as explosive as the material that other people make for war purposes. Therefore, the same secrecy provisions must be maintained; in fact, they have been tightened over the past year. In taking that precaution we are following the procedure of all governments manufacturing or dealing with this commodity."

When the point was raised that a committee of the Senate and House of Representatives exists in U.S. on atomic energy and none in Canada, Mr. Howe indicated that "atomic energy is such an explosive subject at the moment that his thought was that "the best contribution Canada can make for the next year is to avoid any discussion of atomic energy."

DIPLOMATIC ACTION

There has been no ambassador in Ottawa representing Soviet Russia and it is understood here that one would be named to represent Canada at Moscow when such an appointment in Ottawa has been made.

LEGAL CONSULTATION

Much has been heard lately about the consultation of the Canadian Government as well as others of the British Commonwealth prior to the disclosure of the royal marriage of Princess Elizabeth to Lieut. Phillip Mountbatten. However, it is indicated on Parliament Hill that, while Canada was consulted just like the others, there was no legal requirement for same under the present regulations or laws dealing with royal marriages.

MAIN CHANGES

The report of the special committee on redistribution of seats in the House of Commons involved some important changes in its recommendations. British Columbia was to get two additional seats and the members of the B.C. subcommittee were unanimously agreed that these seats could be created in the lower mainland area. Saskatchewan was to lose one seat and a seat was eliminated in the southern part of the province which was the drought area, with the Saskatchewan subcommittee having brought in a unanimous report. There was to be no change made in Alberta. Manitoba was to lose one seat but changes in population made it desirable to have a rather extensive alteration in the limits of the constituencies. The representation of Ontario was to be increased by one and this seat was allotted to northern Ontario and other changes. Quebec was to gain eight seats and in addition it was necessary for the committee to readjust many of the existing boundaries in view of the population changes. No changes were made in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Nova Scotia was entitled to one additional seat.

In reporting these points, Secretary of State Gibson emphasized that the chief electoral officer had informed him that never in his experience had he seen such "harmony as existed at the meetings of this committee". Nevertheless, it is now on the record on Parliament Hill that this report brought a verbal storm of a kind which is still heard in heated talk about the effects of this redistribution which has altered some constituencies and eliminated others.

"LEGALIZED ROBBERY"

"Legalized robbery", it has been charged, described the action of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in going ahead with its original plans to make certain wave lengths at high power, but Revenue Minister McCann has declared with emphasis that the C.B.C. was acting quite properly in carrying out its plans. He has pointed out that before the war the C.B.C. had obtained the use of certain class I-A clear channels for high-powered stations for the national system. During the war the C.B.C. was unable to continue development of its technical facilities, being unable to get the transmitters and technical equipment, so that certain private stations were allowed to use these wave lengths provisionally at low power. Now when the C.B.C. wants to go ahead with its original plans, this has been described as "legalized robbery".

NOT TOO SURE

It is quite true that Premier King himself has declared that he "does not think there will be a general election before there is another sitting of the House after this session" but veteran observers do not consider this, by any means, as an out and out assurance, especially stressing that, when a member stated that the Prime Minister would not go to the people on a particular measure which this member was discussing, Mr. King remarked: "Don't be too sure." Of course, talk about a general election is not "hot" news at the moment, though the point must be made that there is now no assurance one way or another that a general election will not take place just because of any particular statement, even if this impression seems to have been created.

THAT POOR DOLLAR

Once again a stern warning has been sounded in Ottawa that prices will go up and this time it is based on the claim by a delegation of former controllers, shoe retailers, manufacturers, etc., who interviewed the Minister of Finance, Hon. Douglas Abbott and other officials, that footwear prices will go sky high if controls on shoes and leather are not maintained until the end of 1947, predicting prices might rise 25 to 50 percent. It was even heard at this meeting that, of these recommendations were not carried out, shoe rationing might result, though Canada did not have such rationing in wartime.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

In testifying before the Broadcasting Committee of the House of Commons, Walter M. Murdoch, Canadian executive officer of the American Federation of Musicians, said that 330 United States newspapers owned radio stations, having to hire AFM musicians and having to pay a lot of money to AFM members, with this being the reason why they published articles and cartoons against Caesar Petrillo who is head of the AFM and who has been severely criticized lately, even termed a "dictator". The people of Canada "swallow it whole", remarked Mr. Murdoch with some heat.

SAID IN THE CAPITAL

"The Canadian Government was informed earlier by His Majesty of the betrothal of the Princess Elizabeth and was most pleased to give its concurrence," said Premier Mackenzie King.

"They may seem complicated, but, we believe, the complications are necessary if we are to meet fairly and equitably the varying needs and conditions of all the provinces," declared Finance Minister Abbott, the authorization of the Government to enter into agreements with the provinces for rental of tax fields being under discussion.

"I charge formally the Civil Service Commission with having violated the fundamental principles of our democracy, namely, representation by population," emphasized Joseph Hamel, MP for St. Maurice-LaFleche, advocating more French speaking Canadians to be appointed by the Civil Service Commission.

"The atomic bomb, jet-propelled planes, rockets and higher speed submarines and the chemical and bacteriological agents now known are much more devastating than anything previously used that of themselves they may make major changes in the nature of war should come again to scourge the earth," emphasized Defence Minister Claxton.

"Sunday is, first of all, the Lord's Day, and we should like to see people attend church before engaging in recreation," commented Rev. Llewellyn Graham in agreeing with the statement by Dr. C. F. Garbett, Archbishop of York, who thinks a "Christian can indulge in whatever games and recreation his conscience allows providing that he does not cause unnecessary work for others and he first takes part in worship."

WEEKLY WIND-UP

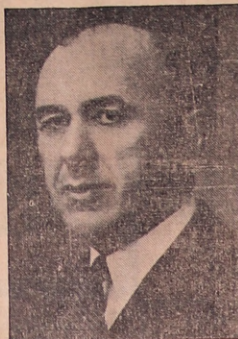

Unofficially, it is learned here that there is a deep impression made by the fact that chocolate bars have been lowered in price after the nation-wide "strike" by the youngsters of this country. What next, observers ask, will follow this lead.

While his Department was encouraging private flying in Canada, Reconstruction Minister Howe says that he "wouldn't step into someone else's plane if he gave it to me," inferring his complete faith in commercial planes.

Regretting the purchase of Alaska by United States in so far as it separated the northern part of British Columbia from the Pacific, Senator Stanley McKeen said that the same thing could easily happen on the east coast if Newfoundland did not enter Confederation, with Quebec being cut off from the North Atlantic by the long strip of Labrador.

Peacetime compulsory training Canada is not expected in Canada this year, at least, it is hinted in Ottawa, if it ever will come about here.

Newspaper advertising still proves to be the best medium to put a product before the public. That is why more business firms than ever before are using newspaper advertising. Weekly newspapers are read more thoroughly than any other publications. That's why it pays to advertise in a weekly newspaper.

Hello Homemakers! The garden season brings us fruits and vegetables in glorious array. This year, with the accent on "save and send" to stay the march of death in less fortunate lands, we must make fullest use of our perishable foods. . . use them as they come, to conserve other food-stuffs in order to increase our exports, and preserve the garden crops for use during the rest of the year.

Methods of preservation should be sound and sure. Canning, the most widely used method, is too big a subject for our column to handle in detail. By all means send at once for a dependable guide. Write direct to Department of Agriculture, Parliament Bldgs., Toronto, for Canning by Step (or ask your agricultural representative for a copy). The Home Canning booklet may be obtained free from Consumer Section, Dom. Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa. The pressure canner manufacturers also supply guide books for the large utensils. All instructions must be followed exactly to assure best results.

PRESSURE CANNING

When using a pressure cooker, prepare vegetables as for hot water bath and oven method and place rack in bottom of cooker. Add hot water to level of rack (about one inch), allowing space between jars for circulation. Adjust and tighten cover of cooker. Petcock should be left open until steam escapes for 7 min., then closed. Start counting processing time when required pressure is indicated. When processing time is up, remove cooker from heat! LET INDICATOR RETURN TO ZERO. Open petcock gradually, remove jars. Before processing next load fill cooker with water to rack level.

Vegetable	Time	Lb. Pressure
Asparagus . . .	30 mins.	10 lbs.
Snap Beans . . .	35 mins.	10 lbs.
Beets	25 mins.	10 lbs.
Peas	45 mins.	10 lbs.
Spinach	55 mins.	10 lbs.
Corn	65 mins.	15 lbs.
Pumpkin	60 mins.	15 lbs.

The above is a table for pint jars; allow 5 mins. more for quarts.

TAKE A TIP

Successful canning depends on certain rules.

1. Use the right method for your equipment and follow directions carefully.
2. Check the jars, rings and tops. They must be in perfect condition—and that goes for the fruit and vegetables, too.
3. Be scrupulously clean in washing jars and fruit.
4. Be cautious to note processing time.
5. After cooling, store the jars in a cool, dry place, away from light.

THE SUGGESTION BOX

Mrs. S. M. says: When canning vegetables, say, green beans, we often have only enough left to half fill the last jar. Try finishing that last jar with some other vegetable, sliced carrots, for instance. Any jar of mixed vegetables should be processed the length of time necessary for the product requiring the longer processing period.

Mrs. D. T. says: If you have not a steamer for blanching, try this device. Place a piece of cheesecloth over a large kettle; put on the lid to hold it in place and tie a strong cord tightly around the rim. Pour enough water into the kettle so that it barely comes to bottom of bag of cheesecloth. When water boils, drop in the food to be steamed.

Mrs. J. M. says: I discovered that the base of my pressure cooker extended beyond the heat element of my prized electric range. Fearing that the enamel to scratch, I cut a protective ring of asbestos paper to fit around the element.

Mrs. C. C. says: To shell peas quickly dip them in boiling water for one minute, then cool quickly in cold water and pod.

RURAL ACCIDENTS INCREASING

The worst months for traffic accidents are coming up, warns Ontario's Highway Minister, the Hon. Geo. H. Doucett. Even now, the traffic toll is spiralling upward at an alarming rate. The seasonal upswing in accidents, according to the Department figures, starts toward the end of May. For the past ten years, the month of June has shown an average of 14.6 more persons killed and 278 more injured than in the preceding May. But comparative figures for June 1937 and June 1946 showed some indication that the accident toll was under better control: Ten years ago in June, 75 persons were killed and 1,123 injured in Ontario's traffic accidents while last June, 57 people were killed and 1,124 injured.

Recorded sound first was introduced 70 years ago. Edison's phonograph did it.

FALLEN BIRD IN GOD-FORSAKEN WILDERNESS

Here is something for an adventure-mystery story writer to weave a plot around. It is an abandoned plane, identified as a B-24, spotted from the air by the Vancouver Sun "Headless Valley" expedition in remote "Million Dollar Valley," several hundred miles west of the Nahanni and its "Headless Valley." It was one of three planes spotted by the expedition, buried forever in snow and pocketed by mountains. What was their mission? Their destiny? What of the men who manned them? Did they get out of the frozen trap, or are they buried there with their planes? Your guess is as good as the next. The expedition went to explore the legends of head hunters and gold in "Headless Valley."

A wait between trains in a strange city with a couple of children in tow is a prospect grim enough to appal the most competent young mother, but from now on the new three-room nursery in the Canadian Pacific Railway both parent and youngster a chance to rest, relax and freshen up before continuing their journey. The nursery is in charge of a trained matron, and its playroom (top) is equipped with an indoor slide, blocks and toys with which the kiddies can be turned loose.

The "quite" room (lower left) has cots for the children to sleep in and chairs for their mothers to relax. Two diminutive tubs are provided in the bathroom (lower right) where a young lady, from Northern Ontario en route to Nova Scotia, is seen bathing her 14-month-old boy. A hot plate, bottle warmer and sterilizer are available for preparing milk and formulas, and the rooms are all decorated with pictures and "transfers" of animals and children. Miss Ethel Alexander, R.N., the matron-in-charge, who can be seen in the upper picture, keeps an eye on the children while mothers go about errands in the station—seeing about tickets or having a meal.

CHAPTER XV

The next afternoon Lotus had the satisfaction of watching Aline Cartier and her grand-aunt depart bag and baggage for New Orleans.

Her nerves were as taut as piano wires, and when a figure appeared in the French window leading from the gallery, she sprang up with an eager cry, thinking it was Lawrence again.

The cry died in her throat—the interloper was Curtis Corbin.

"Stacy, to put it kindly," he said sarcastically, "is inclined to be a little too trusting. He admitted to me that he had told you of my desire for him to marry Aline Cartier, and my reasons for it. It's quite possible that you repeated this to her."

Suddenly, the high, thin scream of a Negress rent the air!

"Mistah Corbin! Mistah Corbin! Fiah!"

Corbin jerked, as though being awakened roughly from a hypnotic spell. "What has happened now? Those stupid servants?"

He strode to the door, flung it open.

A trembling Negress stood there, her face almost white with panic.

"Mistah Corbin, sir, theah's a fiah in the zoo, sir. It growin' fas."

He wore vehemently and jerked a finger at Lotus. "Come along, I may need you." Then he plunged down the stairs.

One of the Negroes had connected the garden hose and was playing it on the fire through the bars and meshing of the box's cage. It seemed to have almost no effect, and Lotus guessed that the sawdust had been well soaked with kerosene. The smoke coiling from it looked black and oily.

The sight of the stream of water appeared to throw Corbin into a frenzy. "Turn that off, you fool!" he shouted.

"You bloody fool!" Corbin swore. "Don't you realize there's a million dollars worth of stuff in there? The fire and water will ruin it if we don't get it out!"

Corbin shot him a venomous look then tossed him a revolver he surprisingly drew from a shoulder holster beneath his coat. "All right you lily-livered coward, I'll get it myself. You cover the snake." He grabbed Lotus arm, "Come on, girl, you can help."

"Thank God, it's safe. Well I guess that's all."

"Yes, Corbin, that is all."

The three of them spun around at the sound of the strange stern voice. Stu Lawrence stood behind them, a revolver in each hand. He was backed up by three grim-faced members of the Federal Narcotic Squad.

Lachene and Corbin were behind her so she couldn't read their faces but Corbin's voice was cold with undisguised fury.

"You can't prove I sold any of it."

"We don't have to anyway we know you wouldn't lower yourself to peddling the stuff. Your type always lets someone else do the dirty work. It never fails."

"I suppose you have that someone too?" It was a sneer.

"Right. We bagged quite an odd assortment of characters on that other island an hour ago. The German officer wouldn't talk—he's a cool customer—but Balch squealed like a stuck pig, he spilled everything."

They were seated in the spacious old living room at Belle Fleur—Lotus, Stacy, Lawrence and a few of the FBI men.

"You see," Stacy said. "My step-father and I never pretended any real affection for each other. I think I stuck with him because he loved my mother as much as I did. She was the one person I've ever seen him truly gentle and kind with. And he kept me around because he could use me."

"Then you knew what was going on, Corbin?"

"Yes, there's no use pretending I didn't. Balch came to Dad with this proposition from the German officer. He'd been one of those who escaped on an surrendered Nazi sub with Millions in German gold. He wasn't a Nazi but a fanatical German and he had the idea of softening the American people by making dope fiends of them. It was a plan to demoralize and make them easy marks for German propaganda and the next war."

"Live the scheme the Japs used in China," Lawrence said.

A week later Lotus Ames sat on the edge of the pool in Chloe Duval's patio and absentmindedly stroked the ears of one of Mamselle's numerous feline companions.

"Will you ever forgive me for deceiving you, Mamselle?"

Chloe nodded understandingly. "But of course mon ami, eet ees your work, non?"

"Yes, but we did make use of you. Even that letter Valette Fontaine wrote was at the price of a lightened jail sentence."

A little tinkling laugh answered her. "I thought eet sounded much too friendly for Valette. You see, we quarreled last time we met, but she has a tempestuous nature, so I thought she might have forgotten eet. Non, I am not angry weeth you, rather am I sad at losing you. You should do something weeth that golden voice of yours, ma cherie."

"I'm afraid there won't be many opportunities to make use of it in this sort of work."

"Eh, bien, perhaps you weel be using ett to sing lullabies, then. That young Mr. Lawrence has a look een hees eyes for you."

Lotus blushed furiously. "Oh, no—I don't think he cares."

"Mon Dieu, you are blind, little one! Believe me, I know—"

Her eyes glittered and she waved her jeweled fingers so that her rings flashed brilliantly in the sunlight. But before she could elaborate on her theme, Susie-belle appeared in the archway and announced callers.

"Send them out here," Chloe ordered, and began preening herself and shaking Pedro's sunflower seeds off the chair cushions.

A moment later old Mr. Cartier and his granddaughter appeared. They were followed by Stu Lawrence.

Lotus gasped. The fine, austere old gentleman was one person whom she never expected to see in the house on Gallatin Street. She was even more astonished to see him bow low over Chloe's hand.

"Ah, my old friend," Chloe exclaimed with pleasure, "do sit down and take this chair in the shade—you young people, too."

Mr. Cartier caught Lotus' expression of amazement and chuckled.

"You did not think Mamselle Duval and I were acquainted, eh, my girl? Ah, yes, we've known each other for many years—too many, eh, Chloe? You see, we grew up in New Orleans and have watched it change together. I often come to this charming courtyard in the Old City to reminisce with Mamselle!"

Aline looked mildly shocked. "Grandpere, you never told me!"

He smiled enigmatically. "And why should I, my dear?"

She didn't answer and he switched his glance to Lotus. "Much as I admire Mamselle Duval, I really came here to see you. I understand you are leaving today and I must tell you of my appreciation for all you've done for the Cartier family."

"It was all a part of my work," she explained.

"Not quite . . . Aline tells me you took a personal interest that undoubtedly saved her from a grave error in judgment."

Stu Lawrence was looking from one to the other. "What's this all about?"

Aline turned her brown eyes on him. "Miss Ames tried to tell me what sort of a man Stacy was, but I wouldn't believe her. To convince me, she staged a little scene in her room with him and stationed me behind the bathroom door, so that I overheard everything. He wanted me to marry him immediately, and if it hadn't been for Miss Ames, I would have."

Stu Lawrence had crimsoned to the ears; the face he turned to Lotus was abject. "Was that the scene I interrupted?"

She almost felt sorry for him. "It was."

"Why didn't you explain to me?"

"If I remember correctly, you wouldn't let me."

He swallowed uncomfortably. "Then I apologize most humbly."

They were now an hour out of New Orleans. The wheels had assumed a steady pace when Lotus and Stu Lawrence strolled into the club car of the Washington-bound train. They pushed through the crowd and found stools at the small bar.

"Don't tell me you're going to have a creme de menthe on a sultry day like this?" Lawrence peered at her curiously.

She laughed. "No, I'll vary my request to a mint Collins. You know, I had to teach Josephus how to make one."

"I don't suppose there's ever been a request for such a feminine drink at the Cafe Duval before."

Lotus sighed reminiscently. "Funny. I'm afraid I'm going to miss the intriguing atmosphere of that place. Already I'm beginning to feel as though the whole adventure had happened in some other century."

"New Orleans sometimes has that effect on one," he agreed. "Chloe is going to miss you, I'm sure. Did she mention it?"

"Oh, she was very understanding and quite tearful. I'm afraid I badly misjudged her character. There were times when I was convinced she was mixed up with those crooks. She was so mysterious about the gold-headed walking stick."

An amused twinkle lit his eyes. "Of course she was mysterious about the cane because she wanted to protect old Mr. Cartier. She must have been quite a gal in her day."

Lotus stared at her companion. For some reason not attributable to the drink before her, she felt very light-hearted. Stu Lawrence just missed being handsome, she reflected, but there was some quality about him even more appealing than just masculine good looks, a sort of genuineness.

"Am I going to go on calling you Mr. Lawrence, Mr. Lawrence?"

Removing his cigarette, he emitted a good-natured laugh. "Since we're rivals and equals in detecting, now, I wish you'd call me Stu, Lotus."

"That's the first time you've called me that. Didn't think you knew it."

"By the way, Lotus, do you live up to your name?"

She looked up at him and his expression was full of significance. "I'm not sure what you mean?"

"I seem to recall an old Hindu saying: 'He who tastes of the heart of Lotus must return to taste again.' His tone was half serious, half bantering. 'Is it true?'"

"That's something you'll have to find out for yourself, Stu."

"Then here's to the success of our next adventure!"

In the playdowns Peterboro defeated Durham 6-0, with Hastings besting Northumberland 4-0, and Lennox and Addington downing Prince Edward.

Tight Race In Softball League

Stirling and Foxboro First And Second — Two Teams Tied For The Third Position

Ball fans and players are frantically wielding pencil and paper these days in an effort to learn just what teams will enter the league playoffs. With only 6 league games remaining in the regular schedule each team is staging a last ditch drive endeavoring to reach one of the 4 playoff positions.

At present the Stirling team have a 3-point margin over Foxboro who remain three points ahead of the Legion and Glen Ross who are tied for third place. Mount Pleasant, who have shown great improvement of late, are just one point back of third with two games yet to play as compared to one each for Legion and Glen Ross. Bonarlaw have a fighting chance to reach a playoff spot, but while Springbrook are two far back to reach the playoffs they can influence the standings by winning their two remaining games.

A close study of the schedule indicates a real battle for the next week and fans are ensured of softball at its best. A playoff spot will be riding on every game now and judging from the last few games every team is playing much improved ball.

It is certainly evident that the number of fans have increased tremendously and the coming three weeks will see even a greater increase in attendance. The games will be held at the Fair Grounds at 7:15 p.m. until the new recreational field at the High School Grounds is in shape.

Last week the grounds were graded for the third time and the infield remains to receive the finishing touches before the games are shifted from the Fair Grounds. If weather conditions remain favourable the playoffs will be played on the new grounds.

Foxboro Wins Over Springbrook

Foxboro maintained their second place standing in the local softball league last night by defeating Springbrook 14 to 2. "Tip" Tummon was on the mound for the winners and held his opponents to three hits, while Andrew's on the mound for the losers proved no puzzle to the boys from the hamlet to the south.

On Tuesday night Stirling defeated Glen Ross 17 to 9 to clinch first place in the standing.

Mt. Pleasant defeated Stirling Legion on Monday night by a score of 10 to 6.

Past Grands' Club Meets

Good Programme Was Enjoyed — Next Meeting At Spry's Cottage, Oak Lake

A meeting of the Past Grand's Club of Laurel Rebekah Lodge was held at the home of Mrs. P. Utman on Wednesday of last week with thirteen members and five visitors in attendance.

A programme was presented consisting of readings by Mesdames W. Warren, M. Megginson, and Misses Gena Spry and Florence Maynes, and contests conducted by Mrs. Geo. Bailey and Mrs. Harry Morrow. Miss Evelyn Bailey and Mrs. Percy Utman interjected considerable humour into the programme by a brief resume of their personal experiences while attending the Rebekah Assembly.

Dainty refreshments were served and Mrs. E. G. Bailey ably voiced the thanks of all to those who assisted on the programme and the hostess.

The next meeting will be in the form of a pot luck supper at Spry's cottage, Oak Lake, when the programme will be in charge of Miss Evelyn Bailey and Mrs. P. Utman.

Sells Dental Practice

A real estate deal has been completed this week whereby Dr. Ralph W. Vandervoort has acquired the property and dental practice of Dr. C. F. Walt, on Front St. West, Stirling.

Dr. Vandervoort will continue the practice at this location and will bring to the public of Stirling and vicinity the benefits of the latest and best training in this field of the healing art.

Dr. Walt, in making this announcement, desires to sincerely thank all those who, since May 1st, 1942, have supported him, by their patronage and otherwise, in providing this necessary service.

It is gratifying that one reared in this community and educated at the local schools should aspire to this service, and probably the best wish that a retiring practitioner can make is that the co-operation as between patient and dentist — including both parents and children — need be all that is necessary to lead to the best possible results.

Reunion Held

A pleasant reunion was held last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Donald in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Wright and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Macheld and two sons who motored from Clippewa Falls, Wisconsin to visit relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Morley had been away from this district for 29 years, having spent most of that time in the state of Minnesota, where he still resides.

Relatives and friends who attended the reunion came from Belleville, Napesota, Toronto, Ivanhoe, Minto, West Huntingdon, Frankford, Stirling and Kingston.

Minor Collision

Only minor damage resulted when a car driven by Ed Richardson collided with one driven by Chas. Allen, of Peterborough, on Front St. Tuesday morning. Both cars were proceeding eastward and when the Allen car slowed down quickly the Richardson car crashed into it.

Roads Inundated

Reports from the Springbrook district disclose that the 10th concession road in Rawdon Township was under water in places due to the heavy rains over the week-end. District streams have overflowed their banks in places and Rawdon Creek running through this Village is up to the normal Springtime level.

County Gardens Judged

The judging of the gardens belonging to members of the Home Garden Brigades in Hastings County was completed on Friday last, by Miss Elsie Irvine, Home Economist of the County, assisted by A. O. Dalrymple, Agricultural Representative.

Speaking to the News-Argus, Miss Irvine stated that sixty-four gardens were judged and all were exceptionally good considering the season. Out of some seventy girls who accepted seeds in the spring only one failed to plant a garden. This is a record of which the girls and Miss Irvine can be justifiably proud.

Shower Held For Bride And Groom

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Brown Presented With Array of Gifts by Bonarlaw Friends

On Friday evening last St. Mark's Church Parish Hall was filled to overflowing when friends and neighbours of Ronald A. Brown, Rectors Warden of the church and his bride, the former Anne Gunter, teacher at 12th line of Rawdon presented them with a miscellaneous shower of many useful and beautiful gifts and in an address read by Wm. J. Barlow wished them joy and happiness and a long and prosperous married life.

Rev. J. M. Brownlee acted as chairman in his usual capable manner and after some community singing, led by Mr. Brownlee and Mrs. Jason Baker of the piano, a short programme of readings and vocal music was given. Appropriate and humorous readings were given by Mesdames A. B. McComb, Geo. Williams and Dave Wellman. A harmonica solo was contributed by Bob Cosbey who played his own accompaniment on the piano. A vocal duet was given by Misses Barbara Melkiohn and Lois Mason and with Rev. J. M. Brownlee playing the accompaniment, he and J. F. Baker sang the duets "Tell Me Do You Love Me" and "Sunrise and You".

The wrappings were then removed from the gifts and Mr. and Mrs. Brown in a few well chosen words thanked those assembled for their kindness and expressions of well wishes and invited all to come and see them at some future time. They were heartily applauded and after singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" all partook of an abundant lunch. The National Anthem brought to a close a very happy evening.

The following address was read: Anne and Ronald—

We, your friends and neighbours, have gathered here this evening to show in some tangible manner the esteem in which you are held by one and all and to wish you joy and happiness and a long and prosperous married life.

We have all known you Ronald since childhood. We have seen you grow into young manhood, always taking an interest in those things which are considered by our greatest thinkers as the worth-while things of life. We recall your work during the past years in the Young Peoples Society of our church, and the splendid leadership you gave during your term as president. It is also a matter of pride to us that upon the retirement of Rector's Warden of St. Mark's Church you were the one chosen to fill this important office, and have carried on the work efficiently and creditably. Your willingness to assist in all community work has also been greatly appreciated.

To you, Anne, we just have to say that we like you and during your two years in our midst, modestly doing your duty as you saw it, we have concluded that Ronald is to be congratulated upon having taken unto himself a wife possessing all the admirable qualities displayed by you. We remember your work in the Y.P.S. and the Church Choir, and your willing help in all community endeavours. As a token of our respect and esteem we ask you to accept these various gifts, and may they remind you for years to come of your many friends in this community.

Early History of Rollins Family Recalled At Picnic Held At Ivanhoe

"I am glad that I was born when it was, it gave me the opportunity to see and to understand the hardships which the pioneers of Hastings county had to go through to carve homes for themselves out of the forest."

Such were the words of Mr. Sam B. Rollins, 87, of Tweed at Ivanhoe on Wednesday at the annual reunion of the Rollins family he recalled events of his boyhood days and compared them with modern times.

The reunion of the Rollins clan marked the 100th anniversary of their forebears' arrival in Hastings county and was attended by approximately 130 members of the family.

As the oldest man at the reunion Mr. Rollins was called upon to address those in attendance. He has attended every reunion of the family since the practice was started back in 1925. Mrs. Thomas Rollins, 87, of Carrying Place, Prince Edward county was the oldest lady to attend the reunion.

Settled in Huntingdon It was back in 1848 that George Rollins, hardy Irish yeoman and his wife Janet, decided to sever ties in the Old Land and to join four of their five sons in the New World. After six weeks' voyage on wind jammers the party arrived in Canada and proceeding to Belleville took up Crown land, homesteading lot 11, 6th concession of Huntingdon township one mile west of what is now Ivanhoe.

It was here that George Rollins with his five sons Robert, William, John, George, James and Samuel hewed a home out of the forest and built a log cabin which stood until 1939 when it was razed by fire. The first Rollins family reunion was held on the homestead in 1925.

1,017 Family Members Today the Rollins family tree, dating from the arrival of George Rollins from Ireland, numbers 1,017 with the family members having scattered throughout the United States and Canada.

It was recalled by the picnic historian that when the Rollins family first settled at what is now Ivanhoe it was necessary to walk to Belleville to sell their butter and to make purchases. The nearest post office, also was at Belleville. Table silver was scarce and a half dozen silver teaspoons served for three families.

Visiting the homestead of his grandfather for the first time in many years, Mr. Sam Rollins declared that there was little about the farm buildings the same as when he was a boy.

Old Log Cabin Gone

Gone was the original log cabin and in its place a compact new home, while the barns were also different. The original Rollins farm is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Bonter Rollins who recently purchased the old homestead after it having been out of the family for a few years.

Only a few foundation stones remain at the site of the old schoolhouse where Mr. Rollins learned his three R's three quarters of a century ago, while the little cheese factory where in his youth, milk from the district was processed, has also disappeared.

Had Business in Tweed

Son of James Rollins and grandson of the original Rollins settler, Mr. Rollins of Tweed, failed to follow farming as a life occupation and instead apprenticed as a baker at the village of Stirling. Sixty years ago he set up a flour and feed store at Tweed a business which he carried on for many years, disposing of the business 27 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Rollins have one son, J. Borden Rollins, chemist in Montreal. They recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Following the dinner the meeting was called to order by the president, Hugh MacMillan. Mrs. Will. French presented the prizes as follows:

Oldest Lady — Mrs. Tom Rollins, 87, years of age.

Oldest Gentleman — S. B. Rollins, 87 years of age.

Youngest Baby — Judith Ann Holmes, 26 months old.

Recent Bride and Groom — Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Murray. Largest Family Present — Mr. and Mrs. Jim MacMillan. Person from longest distance — Mrs. Frank Ferguson, Ingersoll, Ontario. The minutes of the last picnic were read and adopted. The treasurer's report showed a substantial balance. Mr. Harper Rollins voiced regrets of Mrs. Jen Taylor at not being able to be present.

The following are the officers for 1948:

Hon. Pres. — S. B. Rollins
Pres. — Wm. Woods.
Vice-Pres. — Elymer Rollins.
Treas. — Mrs. W. French.

Secretary — Mrs. Geo. Williams.
Executive — Messrs. Joe Rollins, Bonter Rollins, Hark Rollins and Mrs. Percy Rollins.

A vote of thanks to the retiring president and the Ivanhoe and district members for their preparations was voiced by S. B. Rollins, seconded by Hark Rollins.

It was moved by Elmer Post, seconded by Harry Rollins that 100 copies of the Tree be published for next picnic.

The new president Wm. Woods, then took charge of the meeting. One minute's silence was held for the departed family members.

Little Miss Dickens contributed a piano solo. Messrs. Hugh and Albert MacMillan sang a song.

Girls 6 to 8 — Betty Lucas, June Dickens.

Girls 9 to 10 — Keitha Rorabeck, Lois Cook.

Boys under 5 — Allan Rollins.

Boys 6 to 8 — Douglas Wood, Carlyle Rollins, Herbie Rollins, Raymond MacMillan.

Boys 9 to 10 — Don Lucas, Ken Kernahan.

Boys 10 to 12 — Gerald Cook, Don McCurdy, Bill Rorabeck.

Boys 12 to 14 — George Cook, Gerald Cook, Fred Rollins, Don McCurdy.

Rain showers intervened to spoil a complete day for younger members of the large Rollins family and outdoor contests and races were necessarily cancelled. But the prize to the person coming the greatest distance went to Mrs. Frank Ferguson of Ingersoll and the older members of the various branches of the family found the setting perfect to renew acquaintances and to reminisce on events of former days. —Belleville Intelligencer.

Uncle Hy Says

(Copyright 1947 H. M. Moore)

I'd sooner be a has-been, than one who never played the games that boys indulge in thus great athletes are made, for man has been made better just because when as a boy, he learned that games are something more than something to enjoy.

A test of skill, some kind of race, ahead some trifling prize, the roar of people standing by, the feel of countless eyes, are like the water at the forge where red hot iron will squeal, and under strong and skilful hands is turned to hardened steel.

I'd sooner be a has-been, for its memories of the past, for one must age so it is writ, and age comes all to fast, what better then when that time comes, to just sit back and see, the mind's own flash of stirring things, the stars that used to be.

In Hymen's Bonds

RICHARDSON — SINE

While the register was being signed, Mrs. John Heagle, of Wellmans, aunt of the groom sang "O Perfect Love".

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, where a buffet luncheon was served to about forty guests. The brides mother received the guests in a gown of blue check silk Jersey with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the grooms mother wearing a suit of powder blue with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For travelling to Sault St. Marie, the bride chose a costume of white shark skin and white accessories.

HERE'S A SPRAY DOGS, CATS SHUN

Ornamental plants on front porches, flowers and shrubs in the front garden, and the corner posts of porches may be protected from damage by dogs and cats by the simple use of a dilute nicotine spray. The spray is harmless but its smell is very offensive to cats and dogs, even when applied so thinly that persons are unaware of its presence.

The name of the material is nicotine sulphate and may be bought at any seed or drug store. The spray is prepared by mixing one-half teaspoon of the nicotine sulphate with one gallon of water. This makes the mixture strong enough for ordinary circumstances. The spray evaporates and should be renewed after rain, otherwise in good weather spraying every two weeks is sufficient. Once they have sniffed the spray, the dogs will patronize the other side of the road in their favourite rambles round the town. Sprayed on small pieces of wood, the nicotine will prevent cats from making their nightly boudoirs among the rows of the prettiest flowers in the back-garden plots.

CANADIAN HOLSTEIN MAKES 200,000 LB. RECORD ON TWICE-A-DAY MILKING

A purebred Holstein owned by James R. Henderson, Portsmouth, Ontario, has given a total of 201,392 lbs. milk containing 6,966 lbs. fat during her lifetime on Record Performance test. She is Supreme Ruby Echo and she completed her records on twice-a-day milking. Only two cows in the world have ever completed official lifetime records of over 200,000 lbs. milk on twice-a-day milking. Both are Canadian Holsteins, the other being Meadowbrae Rosebud owned by Q. D. Whaley, Alma, Ontario, with a total of 203,810 lbs. milk containing 6,364 lbs. fat.

Ruby is again on test and has milked up to 78 lbs. daily so that if all goes well she will substantially add to her lifetime production in her current lactation.

NEW BULLETIN ON HOME CANNING, FREE

With the canning and preserving season in full swing, a timely publication is now available from the Dominion Department of Agriculture. It is entitled "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables" and was prepared by the Consumer Service of the Department. It answers most of the questions likely to arise when canning fruits or vegetables, or making jams and jellies, pickles and relishes.

The section on canning indicates the equipment required, and explains every step to take until the fruit or vegetable is processed, sealed in the containers and ready to be stored for future use. The chance of error is reduced to a minimum by the inclusion of a processing time table giving full instructions for the preparation of each kind of fruit and vegetable and the time required for processing.

The sections dealing with the preparation of jams and preserves, jellies, pickles and relishes are dealt with in similar way, and the reader can tell at a glance how to go about preparing and processing the product required. Recipes, which have been carefully tested, are also given for a number of jams and jellies made from a combination of different fruits, such as cantaloupe and peach jam, grape and pear jam, choke cherry and apple jelly, and several recipes appear for pickles and relishes.

Many of the problems which arise in canning and preserving are answered in the final section under the caption "Questions and Answers". A glance through this section before starting would well repay the housewife, for it contains suggestions which help in producing a first-class, long-keeping product and one of which the housewife can be justly proud, and of which the members of the household will doubtless show their approval.

A copy of the Bulletin may be obtained free on request to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Ask for Publication 7889.

POISON IVY CAN SPOIL THE PICNIC

Every year as the holiday season advances, reports become frequent of a day's outing being spoiled by contact with poison ivy. Particularly is this so in the cases of family picnics, where one of the pleasures of the day is the anticipation of finding an ideal spot on which to camp for the day. Danger is farthest from their thoughts but experienced picnickers know that one of the first things to be done on arriving at an unknown spot is to explore it and the surroundings for the possible presence of poison ivy.

Poison ivy is one of the worst, if not the worst, skin-irritant plants in North America, and it grows under a variety of conditions, wet or dry, shade or exposed, and in any soil from fine sand or rocky ground to rich soil in the woods. It is seldom found in cultivated land but it may be plentiful in uncultivated areas, or in secluded nooks and dells which children love to explore. Poisoning is the result of contact with any part of the plant—leaves, flower, stems, and roots—or from clothing, boots, and tools that have the juice of the ivy on them.

If it is anticipated that poison ivy may be met in the day's outing, it is a good plan to carry a piece of strong laundry soap in the equipment because washing with this kind of soap in running water immediately contact with the ivy is suspected and before the oil of the plant can penetrate the skin, is the popular and effective treatment. In the event of poisoning, the initial stage is a mild itching sensation, followed by blisters which on breaking become painful oozing sores. In that case, medical aid is advisable.

The extermination of the poison ivy plant has always been a tough job. During the war, the plant was killed around the military camps in Canada by the use of ammonium sulphamate, and now the new wonder weed killer 2,4-D is being used, but even with this devastating chemical it takes two applications to complete the entire destruction of the obnoxious poison ivy plant. In the use of the 2,4-D weed killer, George Knowles, Weed Control Expert, Field Husbandry Division, Experimental Farms Service, advises considerable care, particularly when near vegetable or flower gardens or ornamental trees. Spraying should be kept well away from them and should not be carried out on a windy day because the fine spray carried by the wind might be carried some distance.

RED CLOVER SEED

In its first seed report for 1947-48, the Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, says that the acreage of red clover retained for seed in Ontario and Quebec is not expected to show any marked change, but in British Columbia and Saskatchewan reports indicate that more interest is being taken in red clover seed production. Consequently, acreage will probably be increased somewhat over that of 1946.

Many Prairie farmers, the report points out, are finding that red clover is more likely to give a consistent seed than alfalfa, and there appears to be a trend towards red clover in the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia. Overall production of red clover, however, may not reach the eight million pound mark realized in 1946.

WEED OF THE WEEK

LEAFY SPURGE

(Euphorbia Esula, L.)

Leafy Spurge is a long-lived, deep-rooted, perennial weed, reproducing by seed and underground root stalks. The root system is very extensive, often ten feet deep. The leaves are long and narrow and smooth to the touch, resembling that of Golden Rod or Toad Flax. The flowers are small, greenish-yellow, in flat-topped, umbel-like clusters. The seeds are borne in three-lobed fruits or capsules. It flowers from June to September and seeds from July to October.

Leafy Spurge is one of the worst weeds in Ontario. It is found in nearly every county, generally in small patches. It is on the prohibited noxious weed list under the Dominion Seeds Act. Because of its vigorous growing nature and tremendous root system, Leafy Spurge soon crowds out all other vegetation. Because of the seriousness of this weed, every effort should be made to eradicate it wherever found.

Methods of Control

No known cropping practice will control Leafy Spurge, so wherever found it should be taken out of crop production and treated culturally with chemicals. The most efficient method of dealing with it, where land can be cultivated, is by bare black summer fallow for two years. It is recommended that the land be cultivated or disked every ten days to two weeks all through the season till freeze-up. Implements used should be sharp. Following two years of black fallow, the field should be sown to a smother crop, or grain heavily seeded to clover.

Small patches, or spots where cultivation is impractical, may be sprayed with Sodium Chlorate, or Atlacide or Stephen Weed Killer, using a strong solution, of 1 to 2 pounds of Sodium Chlorate or 2 to 3 pounds of Atlacide per gallon of water, sprayed at the rate of a gallon per 100 square feet. Where very thick or very sparse a gallon will cover 200 square feet. A second spray is generally necessary, and sometimes a third touch-up is necessary. Spraying should be done when the plants are growing rapidly and coming into bloom, about mid-June. 2,4-D is not recommended for use until results of further research becomes available, because the roots are not killed by this chemical with one application.

MINERALS IN A POULTRY RATION

the body of a bird are many and varied. Besides furnishing the framework through bone formation, they serve important roles in regulating, maintaining, and reproducing, says Morris Novikoff, Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm. Fortunately most of the essential minerals are supplied by the common ingredients of a poultry ration. While most feeds of plant origin are low in chlorine and sodium and, with the exception of green feeds, low in calcium, feeds of animal origin are rich in most of the important minerals required by birds. The tendency, however, is to reduce the amount of feed from animal sources to a minimum; for example, substituting meal in part by soybean meal and also reducing the amount of fish meal in the ration. The mineral problem thus becomes critical. What, then, must be added to the diet to supplement the minerals removed by reduction in feeds from animal sources? On the surface it appears a simple matter to include more bone meal, or defluorinated rock phosphate to supply additional calcium and phosphorus or oyster shell or limestone for calcium only, iodized salt for sodium, chlorine and iodine, and manganese sulphate for manganese.

Knowledge in mineral metabolism is as yet limited since there is much to be determined with regard to the so-called "trace" elements, the minerals that are present in very minute quantity in the ration. It has been shown that certain deficiencies are sometimes found when birds range on some soils and are not found where they are raised on other areas.

It is evident, that as soils are depleted of their natural minerals by continued crop farming, these deficiencies will show up in a lowered mineral content of the plant and thus in the ration.

It should be mentioned that certain minerals when found in excess in forage crops or grains are definitely poisonous. For example, selenium at a level of 5 parts per million and fluorine at 2 parts per million are harmful to poultry. The difficulty in the balancing of minerals is the interaction and inter-relationship that occurs within the bird itself, one mineral affecting the function of another. For example, an excess of calcium increases the requirement for manganese, potassium increase must be counterbalanced by sodium, while the presence of arsenic counteracts the poisonous effects of selenium.

It can readily be seen that the kind and amount of minerals in each poultry ration will depend upon the mineral content of each of the ingredients and the formula used for the ration. As the mineral content varies widely within each ingredient as well as in different rations it is obviously impossible for anyone to make up a so-called "mineral mixture" to be added in a stipulated amount to any and all rations.

The fact that the available knowledge as yet is so limited and the reaction of one element with another is so intricate suggests that the addition of trace elements to mixed feeds for general use is as yet not justified excepting where proved deficiencies of such elements exist.

PRICE OF BREAD

With the anticipated removal of the existing subsidy on flour and wheat compelling millers to pay far more for their products, it is expected that the price of bread may move up in Canada within a relatively short time perhaps two or three cents a loaf. This is the forecast whispered along Parliament Hill right now but the actual boost in price may not come for some time yet.

The All-Crop Harvester, year in and year out, successfully handles more different crops under more difficult conditions — with greater influence on the trend of agriculture — than any other harvesting machine.

We do not wish to miss these "comings and goings," but if someone doesn't tell us, how are we to know? May we count on your co-operation?

PAY ONLY THE Low Delivered Price

Buy your new 1947 Ford from us. Buy it where you are asked to pay only the low delivered price — and not a single penny more! That's the Canadian way — that's your way — and that's our way as well.

True, you may have to wait a little while for delivery, but you'll save a lot of money by purchasing your Ford from us at the low price, instead of paying a premium price to someone else just for the sake of getting it a bit sooner.

Obviously, it's wiser to save a lot of money on your new car investment than it is to save a little time on your new car delivery!

Moreover, we are receiving our fair share of cars from the Ford factory, which is out-producing all other makers — we are filling orders at the low delivered prices, day after day and week after week — we are doing our level best to get cars to you and to all who have ordered them — and so, even though the demand still exceeds the supply, you may not have to wait so very long for your car, after all.

That's why we say — pay only the low delivered price, and enjoy the full benefits of BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST. And—yes—we'll get in touch with you the very moment your new Ford is ready for delivery.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

In the face of the fact that the third session of the Canadian Parliament had been forced to continue for several months until this session of the 20th Parliament had been prorogued only recently, with the rank and file of the members being actually overworked at times, yet already gossip along Parliament Hill hints that so much business has been left unfinished that the next gathering may be called much sooner than it appeared likely when the members had departed a short time ago. Indeed, it is hinted that this unfinished business is quite extensive and includes some important decisions or legislation, including private bills. The flag issue was not decided, and other controversial issues such as declaring the Communist Party illegal, abolition of appeals to the Privy Council in England, possible Senate reform, revision of the Income Tax Act, changes in the Election Act, Industrial Disputes and Relations Act proposals, and many others.

Briefly, it is hinted that such a huge task awaits the legislators, who have only recently returned home after a long session, that the next session may be called much sooner than it had been generally believed as likely under the circumstances.

ALARMING INCREASE

The alarming increase in divorces in this country, as shown in official records, has been causing considerable concern in Ottawa, though, of course, Parliament has not yet done anything about the problem of the numerous divorces reaching it from Quebec. Nevertheless, aside from procedures, it is pointed out that in 1946 there were no less than 7,554 divorces in Canada compared with 5,076 in 1945, justifying the use of the word "alarming" in referring to the situation, with pre-war years, as 1938, finding only 85 divorces being granted by Parliament as against 350 last year.

CONVERSATIONS AND CONCLUSIONS

It is emphasized in Ottawa that the seven-man delegation from Newfoundland which has been in this capital did not come here to conclude arrangements to enter Confederation, nor to make any other decisions, aiming merely to discuss problems and to get information, so that rumors or stories about this activity in Ottawa being successful or unsuccessful have been really without solid foundation, especially one pertaining to the likely effects of the United States' 99-year lease on air and naval bases in Newfoundland bases was expressly provided for in the agreement, remaining in Newfoundland, with the remark that in any case any whispers about this agreement are not worth much since, as a matter of fact, Canada and the U.S. have been working very closely on defence through the Joint Board of Defence. In other words, no difficulty could be possible on this account in these discussions between Newfoundland and Canada.

IT'S ONLY MILLIONS

Confusion may exist in the mind of the man-in-the-street across Canada because the Government's main estimates had indicated $1,995,000,000 for expenditures for 1947-1948, whereas the supplementary estimates add $115,000,000, so that, in reality, it means these official estimates reach $2,100,000,000. In 1946-1947, the total estimates amounted to $2,901,000,000, reduction is approximately $8,000,000 than in the preceding year.

However, it must be explained that this impression may have been gained by the man-on-the-street because it has become customary to compare the main estimates each year with the preceding year's main and supplementary estimates. Therefore, this is why the actual reduction in expenditures appears much less this year than it had been indicated earlier, stressing the point that the Government cannot bring down all its annual estimates at one time since the main estimates are prepared months before the supplementary estimates are available for comparison.

FIGHTING A MALADY

With the dread malady, infantile paralysis, making its ugly appearance at this time of the year, it is reported in Ottawa that the authorities here work in close collaboration with the provincial authorities in order to try and to reduce the incidence of the disease, though constitutionally communicable diseases are under the jurisdiction of the provinces. Nevertheless, the authorities here are aiding the provinces in this common fight. A pamphlet called "Pollio Facts", containing valuable information, is being distributed by the authorities here, and in conjunction with the provinces, polio emergency volunteers for use in highly epidemic areas are being mobilized with the virus section of the research laboratories here having been strengthened.

SAID IN THE CAPITAL

"When I accepted the nomination in Glengarry I made it quite clear that, while I appreciated their kindness in giving me their nomination in the by-election there, that is would be for this Parliament only," said Premier Mackenzie King, inferring he would not be a candidate in Glengarry in the next general election, if he should decide to run again.

"I would say it is the view of every honorable member with whom I have talked that there is a sincere hope the government will meet with a very great measure of success in its discussions with these (Newfoundland) delegates," declared Hon. John Bracken.

"In the United States they are more aware of the Communist Party and its activities than we appear to be in Canada," stated Don G. Charbonneau in reporting on the Kiwanis International Convention in Chicago and his impressions of opposition to the activities of the Communists.

"They are not an organ of the Government," stressed Hon. Ian Mackenzie in talking about the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and its policies.

"It must be born in mind that redistribution is being done in the year 1947 allegedly on the 1941 census and that another redistribution will have to take place in four years after the next census in taken," said G. Russell Boucher, M.P.

"If anyone were ingenious enough to invent some sort of lock that could be turned on when people paid their licence fee and turned off otherwise that person would make a fortune," remarked Revenue Minister McCann in discussing the radio licence.

"It has been our experience, particularly with returned men that they want to go straight into industry," said Labor Minister Mitchell. "There is not the urge to learn a trade, I am sorry to say, under conditions existing at the moment when we have an expanding economy."

WEEKLY WIND-UP

A "sympathetic" reception is hinted for some of the suggestions made recently in Ottawa by a delegation representing the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities which asked for the preparation of a plan for a nation-wide low-rental housing programme.

Though claims have been made that perishable produce is piling up in railway sheds and elsewhere so that the Government ought to do something to curtail such imports until the situation has changed yet information here indicates that no such action is contemplated by the Government as yet, even if the Government is following the situation closely, denials being heard that such perishable produce is piling up.

The completion of a trans-Canada highway has been urged on the Government and it is understood here that "a great deal of consideration" would be given to this prior to action, with the hint that, when a decision was made to proceed, the western provinces would be consulted as to whether a southern or northern route would be followed.

Payments of gratuities to veterans are almost completed, it is learned, and war services gratuities paid so far totalled $453,000,000 of which $221,000,000 was paid last year.

Hello Homemakers! This column is devoted to your requested pickle recipes. You should have heard the folks rave about the aroma from our test batches of relishes. The listed recipes are those we have tested and are happy to have on file. Pickles provide zest to winter meals and those which can accompany many foods are most useful. We believe these are easy-to-make and score on colour, consistency and flavour.

SPICED GOOSEBERRIES
2½ qts. of berries, 1 cup of vinegar, 2 lbs. sugar, 1 tsp. cinnamon, ½ tsp. allspice, ½ tsp. cloves. Cut off the tails and stems of berries. Bring the vinegar and sugar to boiling point and add the spices, then add the gooseberries and simmer slowly for about 20 minutes. Bottle in small, airtight jars.

PEAR CHOW CHOW
8 pears, 3 onions, 3 sweet red peppers, ½ cup sugar, 2 cups vinegar, ½ cup water, 2 tps. salt, 2 tps. whole spice. Peel onions, remove seeds from peppers, put both through food chopper, using coarse knife. Peel and core pears. Cut in small cubes. Mix sugar, spices, salt and vinegar. Heat to boiling point. Add onions, peppers, pears and slices tied in a cheesecloth bag. Simmer 30 minutes on electric element turned low, stirring occasionally. Remove spices. Pour into hot sterilized jars. Seal. Yield: 4 pints.

HOT DOG RELISH
3 pounds (12 to 15) sweet red peppers, 3 pounds (12 to 15) green peppers, 3 pounds (12 to 15 medium) onions, 4 cups vinegar, 1 cup sugar, 1 tsp. mustard seed, 1 tsp. dry mustard, 1 tsp. celery seed, 2 tps. salt.

Peel onions, remove seeds from peppers, put both through food chopper, using coarse knife. Place in large preserving kettle, cover with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Drain thoroughly. Add vinegar until vegetables are tender—about 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour into hot jars. Seal. Yield: 6 pints.

CHUTNEY SANCE
12 large, ripe tomatoes, 4 large onions, 1 green pepper, 1 sweet red pepper 4 large apples, 1 cup chopped celery, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup vinegar, 2 tps. cinnamon, 1 tsp. cloves, 2 tps. salt, 1 tsp. pepper, 2 tps. mustard. Blanch, peel and cut up tomatoes. Peel and chop onions, dice apples, peppers and celery. Combine all ingredients. Let come to a boil and then cook slowly until thick, taking care not to let it stick to the bottom of the pot and burn. Seal in sterilized jars.

TAKE A TIP

1. Powdered spices make a dark coloured chutney, whereas the whole spices leave a lighter relish. If you substitute whole spices for powdered mixtures use a little extra quantity.
2. Soaking cucumbers and onions in strong brine causes them to wrinkle.
3. Cider vinegar has a stronger aroma than the bleached vinegars, but may cause onions and celery to darken slightly.
4. Do not cook spicey sauces too long. Vinegar and spices help to retard chemical action.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. C. B. asks: Recipe for Pickled Peaches.

Answer:

PICKLED PEACHES

8 lbs. ripe peaches, whole cloves, ½ cup water, 2 cups cider vinegar, 2½ cups sugar, 3 tps. stick cinnamon, 1 tsp. root ginger, 2 tps. of mixed pickling spice, ½ lemon, thinly sliced.

Use large, firm peaches. Scald, skin and cut them in halves; stick two or three whole cloves in each half. Combine the vinegar, water, sugar, spices (tied in a cheesecloth bag) and the lemon slices; boil for 5 minutes. Simmer the peaches in the syrup, one layer at a time until tender; lift into sterile jars; fill to overflowing with the boiling syrup and seal at once. Yield: approximately 4 pints.

Miss M. T. asks: Recipe for Mint Peaches.

Answer:

MINT PEARS

Pare, core and put in slightly salted water, to prevent discoloring. Pack into prepared jars and fill with medium syrup to within 1½ inches of top of jar. For each quart add ½ mint extract and enough pure green fruit coloring to give desired shade. Add flavoring and fruit coloring to syrup before filling jars. Partially seal and process in electric oven for 1 hour at 275 degrees F.

Mrs. J. G. asks: What has made my crabapple jelly very dark?

Answer: It is the result of too slow cooking.

Mrs. T. C. asks: Our currant jelly has sugar crystals in the bottom of jars. Should it be boiled again?

Answer: No, it will keep as it is. Crystals are caused either because sugar was not stirred until dissolved, or jelly was boiled too long.

CANADIAN NATIONAL EXHIBITION

When the 2,500,000 people expected at this year's Canadian National Exhibition — the first post-war showing of the world's largest annual exposition — through the modernized buildings in the 350 acre Exhibition Park, from August 22nd to September 6th, they will see 1,100 major exhibits, a record number for the 65-year-old "Ex".

Sever before has the Exhibition had such a varied, interesting and fascinating display planned for such buildings as the Manufacturers' Food Products, Automotive, Electrical and Engineering, Hall of Plastics, Governments and General Exhibits. During World War II, there were advances in science and industry that resulted in entirely new products and methods. Many of the peacetime developments of these wartime products will be on view at the C.N.E.; in fact, so many that the 1947 "Ex" will be strikingly different from any ever held before.

Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers alike realized long ago that the C.N.E. in 1947 would again be the "SHOW WINDOW of the Nations". Space was sold, beginning last October. By December, the popular Manufacturers' building was sold out, and by March space in all buildings had been allotted. Exhibitors in 1941 had a priority for space, and after them, exhibitors in 1940 and previous years. A few spaces have become available as a result of cancellations and reductions in size of space taken. This has enabled a number of entirely new exhibitors to be accommodated.

Every effort is being made this year to make visits to the buildings as pleasant and convenient as possible. For example, wherever possible, exhibits will be found in the building to which they properly belong. That is, groceries will be in the Food Products building, not in the Manufacturers' building. Demonstrations and concessions have been banned from exhibition in buildings—they are restricted to the grounds. No selling will be permitted in any building except the Food Products and in the British section only of the Governments building, to assist British manufacturers in their time of fiscal difficulty.

The Manufacturers' building will be limited to manufacturers — there will be no agents and no retailers exhibiting there. Incidentally, the Manufacturers' building has been fitted out in the most modern interior design-finished in three shades of coral.

SET PLOWING MATCH

A 650-acre farm, seven miles south-west of Brantford, in Concession 8 of Brant County, was chosen as the site for the 1949 international plowing match. An Ontario Plowmen's Association committee headed by President William L. Clark, Gormley, made the selection.

CHANGES AND ORGANIZATION

During the past couple of weeks strange stories have been circulating in Ottawa about supposed "important" changes being in the making in the organization of the Progressive-Conservative Party of Canada, including one rumor that Hon. John Bracken may step down as national leader. However, there is nothing official to confirm any such stories and in usually well-informed political circles it is reported that all political parties are likely to reorganize their forces that whatever changes do occur, even before the next session, is on the scene again, though it is emphasized in the Progressive-Conservative Party these are likely to be of a minor nature only and not involve leadership. In short, these strange stories are discredited.

District News

TWO DROWNINGS IN DISTRICT

Raymond Barton, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Barton, of Havelock, was drowned in the Trent River at Trent Bridge 10 miles north of Campbellford late Saturday night. The body was recovered Sunday. Young Barton had been attending a dance and later jumped off the pier for a dip, became exhausted while trying to hang on to the cement wall and sank while his companions were trying to procure a boat.

At Belleville, David King, 56-year-old Toronto resident drowned in the Moira River late Saturday night when he lost his balance on a railway bridge and plunged to the water below. The body of King, who was visiting his wife at Belleville, was recovered 45 minutes later.

POLICE OFFICER RESIGNS TO TAKE THEOLOGY

Provincial Constable Jack Rogers, Frankford, has resigned from the force to take a course in theology at the Montreal Diocesan College.

Veteran of World War II, Rogers held the rank of Captain and was second in command of a provost corps unit. At Frankford he was president of the Canadian Legion, and president of the Quinte Police Association.

During his service with police forces, Constable Rogers was stationed at Peterborough, Kingston, Picton and Havelock.

CHEESEMAKERS TO HOLD PICNIC

The third annual picnic gettogether of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers will be held at Memorial Park, Tweed, on the afternoon and evening of August 6th, it has been announced by J. L. Irwin, honorary president of the organization.

The picnic will be open to all cheesemakers and their families, patrons of cheese factories, dairy supply houses, cheese buyers, creamery managers and employees.

There will be races for the kiddies, for the boys and girls and for the grownups while a chicken dinner will be served. No speakers are scheduled for the event.

SHEDS COLAPSE

The cattle sheds at Marmora Fair Grounds collapsed last week with only about 20 feet of the building left standing. The structure will be a total loss. It is not known what caused the sudden break in the supports unless it was due to the heavy weight of snow last winter.

JAILED FOR ASSAULT ON STIRLING MAN

One year in the common jail was the sentence imposed by Magistrate T. Y. Willis in Trenton Police Court Tuesday afternoon of last week, on Stephen Thompson when found guilty of assaulting Richard Mason, of Stirling, with intent to rob. According to Mason, he was seized from behind and struck with a stick and his head was injured, while walking in the vicinity of Front and Division Streets. Mason claimed that an attempt was made to steal his watch. According to police, the accused had a record.

ONTARIO FACING SERIOUS LACK OF FARM LABOR

Reports from Agricultural Representatives in nearly every section of old Ontario indicates that the shortage of farm labour has reached very serious proportions, with grave danger that a large part of the abundant crop of hay will go to waste unless there is labour available to harvest it. This situation is particularly serious this year, because of the certainty of reduced grain crops for feeding purposes, owing to the unfavourable spring weather. On this account, it is of major importance that every possible ton of hay be harvested, cured and stored for fall and winter feeding, to supplement the smaller amount of grain which will be available.

The labour shortage in Ontario has been accentuated this year by the fact that the movement of farm labourers from Western Canada has fallen far short of expectations, and is much less than it has been in the last two years. The numbers coming from the west have been far short of the requirements of Ontario farmers, and unless additional help can be secured in the immediate future, hundreds of farmers will be unable to harvest their hay and other crops.

In view of this serious situation, an urgent appeal is made to all men in the towns and cities with some farm experience, who have time which they can devote to helping the farmers with their harvest work. There are thousands of retired farmers whose services at this time would be very valuable in the harvest fields, and to them, especially, an appeal is directed to come forward and take jobs for the harvest season. The same appeal is made to any town or city people who have time to spare, and who would be willing to spend their holidays, or any other available time, as farm workers. Their services are urgently required and the need is immediate.

Any town or city people willing to assist in harvest work can be placed at once by applying to their nearest National Employment Service office, or to the Agricultural Representative in their own counties. Application can also be made to the Ontario Farm Service Force, 9 Richmond Street, Toronto, Telephone Adelaide 5461, as that

CHECKING IMPOSTORS

Pointing out that the great majority of deaf citizens are of good character and scorn panhandlers who spread the wrong impression among the public, the Ontario Association of the Deaf in conducting a campaign to stamp out improper practices, states that responsible deaf persons have good jobs and never seek charity.

Letters are being sent out by the association to municipal and provincial police authorities, managements of hotels, municipal councils and everyone concerned in good citizenship in the hope of securing co-operation in eradicating the nuisance of deaf peddlers of alphabet cards who carry a few dime store items to serve as a false front for the racket.

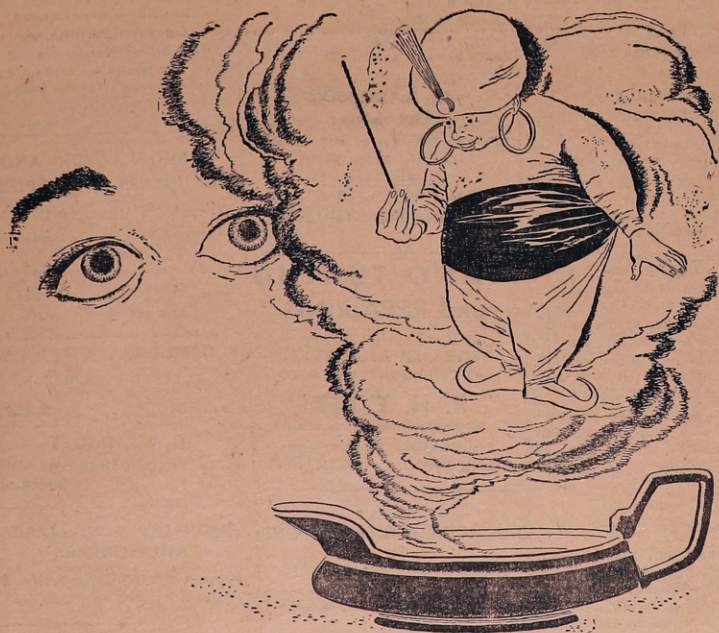

The Ontario Association of the Deaf takes a serious view of the activities of these peddlers, inasmuch as the Association placed upwards of 135 individuals in good jobs at its own expense, many of whom made from $40 to $50 a week. Their activities give the great mass of honest, hard-working deaf a black eye and make it all the harder for them to secure employment when necessary. Some of these peddlers travel from coast to coast. That costs money, yet they can do it and staying at hotels costs more than the average worker can afford, yet these peddlers can afford that luxury. The O.A.D. knows of cases where such peddlers have graduated into petty embezzlers. The great difficulty in bringing these to book is getting the victims to lay charges.

Aladdin was a Lucky Fellow!

● Aladdin and the genie of his magic lamp could produce anything desired . . . no scarcities . . . no delays. But when it comes to building new Hydro generating plants to supply Ontario's ever-growing demand, lack of building materials is proving a problem for which Hydro has no magic cure.

Demand for electricity is growing faster than new power plants can be built. It takes a staggering amount of concrete, steel, lumber and electrical equipment to build a new power development. It all has to be shipped for, delivered to the job and assembled. A difficult task in these days of short supply.

To provide everyone with all the electricity they might like to use during fall and winter months would require new generating stations equal to about one-fifth of our present total supply of over 2,600,000 horsepower. Construction on these and other Hydro projects has been under way for a long time. Your Hydro is pushing them just as fast as materials can be obtained . . . aiming to do in 5 years what would normally take 7 years. One will start delivering 70,000 horsepower this fall. Another 81,000 horsepower in 1948. By 1950 the huge Ottawa River development will start to pour its 360,000 horsepower into the Ontario Hydro system.

Few places in the world have as much electricity available per person as Ontario. However, we must conserve our electricity so that new homes, farms and industries will all receive their share; so that the wheels of our factories will be kept turning and maximum employment and production maintained . . . USE HYDRO WISELY and there will be enough for all.

BELLEVILLE TO SHUT GAS PLANT DEC. 31 st.

With only property owners eligible to vote, ratepayers of Belleville Monday voted to close the gas plant as of December 31st of this year. The vote was 424 to close the plant and 127 to continue its operation.

For the past several years the gas plant has been losing money on its annual operation with the taxpayers last year being called upon to pay a $7,000 deficit. The number of gas consumers has decreased in recent years and the plant is in bad mechanical condition. Estimates to put it in good condition range up to $500,000.

The end of the year was set to enable gas users to change over to some other type of service or to make arrangements for the use of propane gas.
